Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt returned to the White House today, and, like many another American, dove into a pile of work he must clean up before he can issue forth next Saturday on his long vacation at sea.

The worst jam is brought by nearly 200 bills passed by the late congress which still await presidential approval or rejection. Mr. Roosevelt signed a grist of these today but vetoed 14 measures, giving his reasons for each veto.

He did not pass on the much debated Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium bill, but it was learned that he probably will veto it tomorrow or Thursday. The President announced a new White House policy of either signing or vetoing all bills left with him by the congress. Many Presidents have allowed bills conveniently to die under the constitutional clause which holds a bill dead if the President has not signed it within 10 days after the adjournment of the congress.

Early Tells New Policy.

In a formal statement issued by Stephen T. Early, President's secretary, the new policy was stated as follows:

"The President has desired to take a more affirmative position than this, feeling that in the case of most legislation reasons for definite disapproval should be given."

Next biggest of the President's prevacation chores is the filling of places on the agencies of the New Deal created by congress at his request. These include the new stock exchange commission, the communications commission, an administrator for the billion dollar housing program, a new labor disputes board and a departmental committee to consider reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations.

In between these tasks the President plans to work upon a 20 minute radio talk which he will deliver on the radio next Thursday night. It was denied at the White House that this would be a political talk, and it was likewise denied that any of the speeches the President is to make on his return trip from the coast in August will be political.

But They're Political Basis.

However, it is pointed out that any public discussions by the President in the next four months will afford the basis for political action. In a recent message to congress on social legislation which he intends to propose next January there was no direct suggestion to the congressmen that they make the subject matter the meat of their campaigns for election, but none of the congressmen failed to appreciate the material in this light.

During a busy day today the President held a long session with his executive council and managed to sandwich in a luncheon in honor of the president elect of Colombia, Alfonso Lopez, and a short interview with Frank Knox, publisher.

Aids Working on Veto.

In connection with the much debated Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium bill, Attorney General Cummings today presented a report to President Roosevelt in which, it was reported, the measure was held unconstitutional. A similar report was awaited from the department of agriculture.

Delay in writing the message, it was reported, was occasioned by a fervent desire that in asserting its unconstitutionality the President should not use language which will confess the unconstitutionality of similar measures which already have been worked into the New Deal motif or may be inserted during the coming two years.

Tells Reasons for "No."

Some homely presidential aphorisms were tossed off in his veto of various measures today. Disapproving a bill to permit the postmaster general to use confiscated automobiles for official purposes, the President said:

"Disapproved, because I do not wish to establish the habit of providing passenger automobiles for postal employés.

JUDGE EVANS ORDERS FACTOR FREED TODAY

U. S. Saves Him as Kidnap Witness.

John Factor, wealthy speculator who has been in the Sycamore jail for the past sixty days awaiting an order for his transportation to England, which never came, yesterday was ordered released by Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Factor has been indicted in England for a $7,000,000 stock swindle.

JUDGE EVAN A. EVANS.

The department of state of the United States, which could have issued the order of transportation, was not represented at the hearing, and the only protest against the release of Factor came from Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer, who represented the British crown in the long course of the litigation over extradition.

Delays Signing Document.

Judge Evans held that the right of the British to take the speculator back had been lost by their failure to obtain the order for removal from the state department in the sixty day period. The American-British extradition treaty, he pointed out, specifically covered this point.

At the request of Mr. Overmyer, however, he withheld the signing of his formal order until 2 p. m. today. District Attorney Dwight H. Green let it be known last evening that he would appear at that time and explain the position of the state department in the matter

A request for him to do so came from Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan in Washington. It is understood that Mr. Green will neither oppose nor consent to the release of Factor.

Case Still Hangs Fire.

In Washington it was learned that the state department does not consider that Factor is never to be extradited. Rather its failure to thrust him out of the country was laid to the possibility that Factor may be of further aid in prosecuting kidnapers. In summary, the attitude of Secretary Hull's department might be expressed as follows:

"The department does not reject the view of the Supreme court which decided last December that Factor is subject to extradition. It has not determined that he shall never be extradited. It has decided not to order his immediate extradition because such an act might gravely affect the administration of justice in this country."

In a conference yesterday Secretary Hull advised F. B. G. Osborne, the British chargé d'affaires, of the American view.

Consider Witness Essential.

To strengthen this line of reasoning the department pointed out that State's Attorney Courtney had insisted that four Touhy gangsters now in prison for kidnaping Factor could never have been found guilty without the speculator's help, and that if the Supreme court of Illinois should order a retrial the presence of Factor would be necessary.

A further fact considered was that other Touhy gangsters involved in the abduction might be captured and, in that event, Factor's presence would be indispensable if convictions are to be obtained.

The kidnapers who are serving sentences are Roger Touhy, Al Kator, Gus Schaefer, and Basil Banghart. Tommy Touhy, tuberculous brother of Roger, is alleged to have been in the plot. Rumor has it that he is back in the Chicago area and is eager to kill Factor to avenge the speculator's successful battle against the gang.

Suspicious Actions Near Jail.

Yesterday afternoon Sherif Isaac George of De Kalb county, Factor's jailer, asked the police in Sycamore to keep a sharp watch for an automobile which had been seen near the jail, and in which it was presumed Touhy and some of his henchmen were riding. Precautions will be taken to guard Factor back to Chicago when he is released today.

Factor said that he had no plans

PRESIDENT BUTLER SEES FREE PRESS AS WORLD'S BEST WEAPON

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 26.—A truly free and intelligent press is the chief weapon for getting rid of "preposterous economic nationalism" in the world, President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university told the Institute of Journalists at a luncheon in his honor today.

"Do not forget," he said, "that over a large part of the world's area there is today no such thing as freedom of the press. A radio office on central bureau may instantly halt the printing of vitally important news or require an interpretation of some significant event which is imposed by the government.

"One of the first jobs of present day citizenship is to teach the government to mind its own business and to do so in unmistakable terms."

PARTNER'S LEAD ROILS PINOCHLE PLAYER; 3 SHOT

The pinochle game in the saloon of Mrs. Theresa Markovich at 208 West Ridge boulevard, Gary, was proceeding according to Hoyle last night until Mrs. Markovich failed to lead trumps through the bidder and up to John Sikora, 43 years old, who sat opposite her.

This made Sikora angry. He drew a pistol. With it he shot Mrs. Markovich, who is 38 years old, three times in the body. Then he shot George Radulovich, 25 years old, in the back. That left Michael Jurak, 46 years old, the dealer. Sikora shot him in the right arm.

Fleeing from the saloon, the gunman was pursued by Philip Gabriel, 24 East Ridge boulevard, and Harry Schaffer, 3727 Van Buren street, Gary. He exhausted his ammunition firing at them and was beaten so severely by the pair that his jaw was broken.

At the Mercy hospital it was said that the injuries of Mrs. Markovich and Radulovich might prove fatal. The three men pinochle players all were guests of a rooming house over the saloon. The pinochle game had been a nightly feature with the four.

French Ship Is Rammed; Fear Twenty Dead

LORIENT, France, June 27 [Wednesday].—(AP)—A passenger boat carrying 100 arsenal workers was rammed from the rear last night by another vessel and sunk with the loss of life still unchecked early today.

At least twenty persons were feared to have been carried out to sea by a treacherous current flowing past the mouth of Lorient harbor. The official toll stood at six dead and six injured. Quick work by heroic divers diminished the death toll, which at first was feared to be high. Dock workers and sailors plunged into the waters near the sinking vessel and rescued all the passengers trapped in the ship's cabin.

Boat Towed to Port.

Early today the boat was raised and towed to port at low tide.

The definite list of dead will not be known until officials of the Lorient arsenal, well known for its manufacture of naval equipment, make a check of workers' families for the missing.

Life belts, hastily clutched, saved a majority of the 100 working men and women. They were able to float in water 150 feet deep until fished out by harbor boats and small craft which put out from shore.

The accident occurred in view of hundreds of persons who crammed the docks. The vessel which sank, the Prosperite, was rammed by a small passenger craft, the Marie Ange. The latter was not damaged, but the Prosperite had a huge hole torn in her stern, through which the water poured, sinking her within a few minutes.

Blames Tragedy on Rivalry.

The tragedy was attributed by the port captain to rivalry for trade between the two boats.

Twelve persons are known to have been seriously hurt in addition to the six officially reported and more than fifty were suffering from shock and immersion. The coast line for ten miles will be searched today for more bodies.

Many women were among the workers and some of them were among the number that may be lost. The workers were on their way to their homes in various coastal towns.

There was praise for the quick work of dockmen who leaped to the rescue of the shipwrecked victims. One of them was a fugitive from justice, police said. He went into the boat's cabin and saved the lives of three adults and a small girl.

Recognized by Policeman.

This docker was about to step into a boat taking volunteer divers to the scene of the wreck when a policeman recognized him as a man wanted.

"I am a good diver," the man said. "Let me go, I can save some lives."

The policeman gave in and the fugitive became a hero.

Small harbor craft were the first to bring succor to the drowning. They fished dozens of persons from the water and took them to the marine hospital for first aid. Admiral Deville, commander of the naval fort, took charge of the rescue work.

MRS. STRAUS NEEDS NO TOMBSTONES TO BURY HER MARRIAGE

No one appreciates the beauty of finely carved tombstones any more than Mrs. Eleanor Straus, 23 years old, 606 East 90th street, but she draws the line when it comes to accepting them for alimony.

Mrs. Straus was in court before Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday, and the judge was about to grant her a divorce from John Straus, 43 years old, a tombstone maker, on the ground of cruelty.

"Your honor," said her attorney, Norman Becker, "my client is willing to waive alimony claims for a cash settlement of $450."

"My client is pretty short of cash right now, but he is perfectly willing to turn over $450 worth of fine tombstones."

"How about it?" the judge asked Attorney Becker.

Mr. Becker and Mrs. Straus conferred and declined the offer. Straus finally said he guessed he could get $450 in cash, so the decree was entered.

Burglar Steals Jewelry, Furs and False Teeth

Miss Ruth Stevenson, 5441 East View park, reported to police yesterday that a burglar had entered her apartment during the day and had stolen a seal coat valued at $1,000, a fur piece valued at $125, a necklace, bracelet and gold knife, valued collectively at $105, and a set of false teeth valued at $50.

Kidnap Victim Freed; Denies Ransom

Sciacca, Cafe Man, Says It Was 'Mistake'

Andrew Sciacca, café owner kidnaped early yesterday morning by six men as he was putting his automobile in the garage behind his home at 5345 Jackson boulevard, was released unharmed last night.

Arriving at the residence at about 10 p. m., Sciacca promptly declared that he had paid no ransom and that his gentlemanly abductors had let him go with apologies because they had picked up the wrong man.

He was set down "somewhere on the south side," he averred, and immediately got into a taxicab to ride home. He could not remember more definitly the place of his release, he said.

"The kidnapers kept talking about the wholesale grape business while I was a prisoner," declared the kidnapers' victim.

Angry Over Price Cutting.

"They seemed to be mad at somebody who had been cutting the prices on carload lots. I showed them where it couldn't have been me they wanted. I haven't been in the grape business for five years."

Sciacca, accompanied by his daughter, Anna, 20 years old, and his sons, Anthony, 17, and Carlo, 22 years old, left his Oriental café at 5300 North avenue at 1 a. m. yesterday to drive home. The three younger members of the family witnessed his encounter with the kidnapers.

Four of the men remained in a car in the alley and the other two, carrying pistols, walked up to Sciacca. He essayed a brief resistance, but was forcibly thrust into the car and driven away.

Victim Recounts Experiences.

"Four of those fellows kept guns against me. They put some kind of a black cloth over my head, so I couldn't see anything, and then drove around for about an hour. We stopped at a house. I don't know what kind of a house it was, but I had to walk up two steps to get in.

"All through the day they treated me swell. They let me lie down on a mattress, they let me smoke and they gave me chicken for lunch. They never asked me for any money and, of course, I didn't offer them any. In the evening they took me back in the car.

"They gave me $2 for taxicab fare. When I got back home the meter showed a $1.95 bill."

The police were not satisfied that the whole story had been told. They pointed out that after Sciacca's son, Carlo, had called the Fillmore station to report the abduction a squad hurried to the house. On arrival the police found a representative of the kidnapers talking to Carlo on the phone.

Police Suspect Grudge.

Sciacca has two brothers, Vito, 3620 Cermak road, and Frank, 1106 Harrison street, who are partners in a fruit business. Both declared they knew of no reason why any member of the family should be kidnaped unless it was for the sole purpose of extorting money. Their brother, they said, had no enemies.

Lieut. Stewart Moss, in charge of the investigation, was frank in stating his disbelief in the recital of Sciacca.

"I don't know what the truth is," he said, "but I am sure Sciacca made some sort of deal with the kidnapers."

FEDERAL COURT HITS 'USURPED POWER' OF AAA

Injunction Granted to Six Dealers.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes granted an injunction yesterday restraining the government from enforcing the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's milk licensing agreement against six independent milk dealers in the Chicago area.

JUDGE BARNES.

The judge ruled, in effect, that the government, through the AAA, has usurped powers which, under the constitution, it had no authority to assume.

The injunction is directed against Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; Homer J. Cummings, attorney general of the United States; Frank C. Baker, milk marketing administrator, and Dwight H. Green, United States district attorney.

Suit Begun on May 9.

The original suit was started on May 9 by the Edgewater Dairy company, the Joseph Wagner Jr. Dairy, the Joliet Dairy Products company, and Anton Michalek, a milk hauler. Later they were joined by the Lakeside Dairy company and I. L. Lantz, milk dealer of Plainfield.

After this action, the AAA filed a cross-bill seeking to enjoin the milk dealers from continuing in business in violation of the milk licensing agreement, which sets up a schedule of milk prices to be paid to farmers and has a number of other complicated provisions.

In summing up the evidence yesterday Judge Barnes pointed out that the secretary of agriculture was empowered under the AAA act to issue licenses and regulate agricultural commodities "in the current of interstate commerce."

Not Interstate Commerce.

The judge then said: "It seems clear that the production of milk is not 'interstate commerce,' and the court's best judgment is that the production of milk does not occur in the 'current of interstate commerce' and that it does not 'affect interstate commerce' in the sense that those clauses have heretofore been used.

"The 'License for Milk—Chicago Sales Area, as Amended,' in question in this case, seems to the court to be an attempt by the federal government to use milk distributors for doing what, under the commerce clause of the constitution, the federal government has no power to do; and what, under the tenth amendment of the constitution, is reserved for action by the states or the people."

Grants Writ to Dealers.

Judge Barnes then denied the government's petition for injunction and granted the plea of the milk dealers. Although District Attorney Green was named in the suit, the AAA case was handled by special assistants appointed in Washington.

Further in his opinion the judge pointed out that there were three main questions which the court was called upon to decide.

One concerned the delegation of powers by congress to administrative officers.

The next was: Is the action of the secretary of agriculture, in issuing the license in question, within the powers granted to the federal congress in the commerce clause of the constitution?

The third question: Does the license impinge upon the powers reserved to the states by the tenth amendment to the constitution?

Calls AAA Law Vague.

In taking up the first point, Judge Barnes said that legislative power may be delegated to administrative officers if congress makes a sufficiently plain statement of its policies to guide and control such administrative officers.

However, he said, the language of the AAA act seems so vague and so general that it is virtually impossible to tell what can or what cannot be done under its provisions.

The judge remarked that if a man proposed to buy a dairy farm, he could reasonably expect that, by looking at the law, he could find out just what regulations and rules on the production of milk he would face. This, however, does not seem to be the case, Judge Barnes indicated.

"That there is some force in their [the plaintiffs'] contention that no one can tell when action will be taken, must be conceded," the court held.

In taking up the second point,

ferring to the power of congress to allow the secretary of agriculture to issue the milk licenses, Judge Barnes recalled the argument of the government attorneys. They had held that 40 per cent of the milk which comes into the Chicago sales area is produced in states other than Illinois, and that it is impossible to control the distribution in the Chicago area of milk produced outside of Illinois, unless the distribution of all milk coming into this area is controled.

"The plaintiffs," the court went on, "say that all of the milk which they buy and sell is produced in Illinois, and that it is purchased by them there and sold there. This is a fact not seriously disputed by the counsel for the Agricultural Adjustment administration."

But, said Judge Barnes, while all this provides an interesting background to the case, it does not seem so material as the actual provisions of the license.

Court Summarizes License.

Though the license is a long and complicated document, the court declared, it boils down to three main purposes.

The first purpose is to fix the minimum price at which producers of milk may sell their product; the second is to limit the production of milk by producers by means of assigning to them so-called "bases"; and the third is to charge the cost of administration under the license to the producers by requiring the distributor to hold back from the producer one cent for each hundred pounds of milk in the case of Pure Milk association members, and 4 cents a hundred pounds in the case of nonmembers.

"In other words, as it seems to the court," Judge Barnes said, "the distributor of milk is, by means of the license, made the agency of the government for the regulation of the production of milk."

The opinion then said in conclusion that production of milk is not interstate commerce and that the government has gone beyond its constitutional powers in trying to fix minimum prices and limit production.

Officials of AAA Confer.

Market Administrator Baker, when questioned after the court hearing, declined to make any comment on what steps the government will now take. He said he had been in communication with Washington, and that a conference of the AAA enforcement officials was taking place there.

In Washington Jerome Frank, general counsel for the AAA, declined to comment until he has had an opportunity to study Judge Barnes' decision. It was understood, however, that the government will either appeal the case or go to trial on the merits and seek abrogation of the injunction.

Judge Barnes' decision climaxed a series of battles over the validity of the milk marketing agreement, which had their inception last February when the license went into effect.

At that time the prices dealers were to pay to dairy farmers were fixed at $1.75 a hundred pounds (3.8 cents a quart) for fluid milk and $1.25 a hundred pounds [2.7 cents a quart) for milk to be used for cream. The price for surplus milk was to be determined by the price of butter in the Chicago market.

This surplus milk is made into butter, cheese, ice cream and other dairy products. For it the distributors pay the farmer exactly what the butter in the milk will fetch in the wholesale market.

Farm Price Is Increased.

Later, because of drouth conditions and the high price of feed for the cattle, an increase to $2 a hundred pounds (4.3 cents a quart) for fluid milk was granted, effective June 1.

After the license agreement went into effect many dealers refused to abide by its provisions and file their reports of sales. As a result a number were cited to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

Numerous small dealers continued to "hold out," however, declaring that they could not compete with the larger dealers, many of whom could participate in other markets where the marketing license was not in force.

Several weeks ago, in one of the test cases, Federal Judge William H. Holly granted an injunction to restrain Lloyd V. Shissler, a Lombard dairy operator, from continuing in business in violation of the licensing agreement.

Shissler is scheduled to appear next Saturday before Judge Holly on a contempt of court citation for violation of the injunction. In granting an injunction to the government Judge Holly ruled that the milk marketing agreement is constitutional.

Previous Ruling Recalled.

Last Feb. 10 Judge Barnes ruled against another adjunct of the new deal, the petroleum code of the NRA. He refused to grant the government an injunction in the case of the Suburban Motor Service corporation. The government had sought to restrain the company from giving away premiums with the purchase of a certain quantity of gasoline. Government attorneys argued that the premiums violated a section of the petroleum code.

Judge Barnes, however, held that only intrastate commerce was involved and that there was no justification in the constitution for the adoption of such a code.

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS FACTOR SET FREE TODAY

U. S. Saves Him as Kidnap Witness.

other than to take a long rest. He did not appear before Judge Evans, the petition for his freedom having been filed in the name of his wife, Rella Cohen Factor.

The result of the hearing yesterday gave backing to reports that neither the United States nor Great Britain is particularly anxious for the extradition of Factor. It is believed that the coöperation of Factor in winning the major convictions against the Touhys, and his money settlement with defrauded British investors in the British case, caused both governments to look kindly on his effort to escape extradition.

Factor paid the investors $3,000,000 in settlement of a civil suit brought here.

Attorneys Salmon O. Levinson, former Senator James A. Reed, and G. Gale Gilbert made up the battery of legal talent appearing in behalf of Factor. Attorney Levinson pointed to the treaty with Great Britain, which holds that a defendant must be removed within 60 days after his incarceration.

Denies British Held Captive.

He also said that he had served the secretary of state and had been informed that the department would not be represented at the hearing.

Attorney Overmyer, in seeking a delay, argued that Factor had never been in custody of the British government, but had been held by the United States for the kidnaping trial. He pointed out that to free Factor would nullify three years' work, and that should Great Britain seek to rearrest Factor it would necessitate a complete retracing of steps through the legal technicalities involved in the extradition.

Judge Evans held with Factor's attorneys that the British government had no proper place in the proceeding which looked to the state department as the sole defendant. The judge, in giving his ruling, pointed to the Normano case decided last May by Federal Judge Brewster in Boston.

Interprets U. S. Motive.

In this case Normano, who was ordered removed to Germany on a forgery charge, was released when the German government failed to move for his return within 60 days after his arrest.

In answering Gilbert's contention that Factor had not been in custody of Great Britain, the judge said: "The secretary of state did not refuse to give you Factor because of Factor, but because the people of the United States desire Factor as an important witness in an important case."

BYRD ANNOUNCES NEW EXPLORATION PLANS FOR POLAR EXPEDITION

LITTLE AMERICA, Antartica, June 26.—(AP)—From his advance weather base Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today announced by radio the broad outline of his program of geographical exploration and scientific research to be attempted during the coming spring and summer polar season.

A long and adventurous flight to the eastward over the glaciated tops of the Edsel Ford range and across the untraveled plateau rolling behind it, together with an advance by dog team and tractor to the plateau for geophysical and cosmic ray research are the two most arresting projects contemplated.

Simultaneously a third party will strike eastward with dog teams to make an extended journey to the Edsel Ford range, following along its majestic front, mapping and exploring its principal features.

JAP NAVY MAY BOOST ALREADY HUGE BUDGET

TOKIO, June 26.—Scarcely had the cabinet approved Finance Minister Takahashi's policy of limiting the 1935-'36 budget appropriations as much as possible today when the Rengo News Agency circulated a report that the navy expected to demand more than 700,000,000 yen [$209,000,000], compared with the current 487,000,000 yen $145,000,000], because of Japan's so-called 1935-36 international crisis—the naval conference.

Naval officials will meet in mid-July to decide on the building program. More funds are reported to be needed for additional warships and airplanes and to finance chemical arms research.

Addressing the cabinet today, Viscount Takahashi is understood to have pointed out that the current budget made an 810,000,000 yen bond issue to meet the deficit inevitable because of the national defense, Manchurian and relief expenditures. He pointed out that while the cabinet had agreed last year to economize, the ministries had submitted demands for 1,400,000,000 yen [$418,000,000] for new enterprises.

Foreman of Rotoprint Company "Blackjacked"

Clyde Lovelace, 33 years old, was attacked by two men in the hallway of his home at 3031 North Kilpatrick avenue early today and beaten on the head with blackjacks. Lovelace is a foreman for the Chicago Rotoprint company, 4601 Belmont avenue. He told the police he believed the sluggers were sympathizers of some pressmen who went on strike at the plant last week, although he could not recognize either of them.

NAZIS PROMISE SLASH IN TAXES FOR NEXT YEAR

One If—Yield Must Stay 'as Satisfactory as Now.'

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 26.—Tax cuts were promised today to German taxpayers for 1935, providing "the tax yield remains as satisfactory as now." The pledge was given by Fritz Reinhardt, secretary of state for the ministry of finance, in an address to the Academy of German Law.

Reforms simplifying the tax machinery will be enforced in January, 1935, he said, and are designed to benefit big families and increase employment. Families with five children will pay no income tax in the middle income classes. Income tax will range from a minimum of eight to a maximum of 35 per cent. At present 40 per cent is paid on large incomes.

Deductions Allowed.

The German taxpayer who buys a new car, airplane, motorboat, or any extra equipment for his factory or farm may deduct the cost from his gross profit, thereby reducing further his income tax. The wholesale turnover tax is to be reduced from two to one-half of one per cent.

The government hopes the cuts will enable taxpayers to buy more and so provide more jobs, thus reducing the dole lists.

Share holding companies hiding behind an anonymous cloak are not popular with Nazi theoreticians, who want stress placed on "personality" in business as well as in politics. Consequently shareholding companies will pay heavier taxes than previously.

Promises Beer Tax Cut.

To encourage women to get out of business and make places for men the government will continue to grant marriage loans to newlyweds. To date 300,000 loans have been granted, and the government will grant another 250,000 annually until all the younger women are married off.

Chancellor Hitler's brown shirt army is demanding the dissolution of the last vestiges of the Steel Helmets, at one time its rival and the strongest organization of German war veterans.

"Continuous friction between the storm troopers and the Steel Helmet organization is provoked by the latter's members," according to an official statement issued at the brown army's headquarters today.

The demand was formulated after a Steel Helmet man was charged with attempting to kill a storm trooper at the solstice celebrations at Quetzin, near Kolberg. The war veterans' organization has been forbidden in Pomerania.

Numerous former officers and all the sons of former Kaiser Wilhelm except the Nazi, August Wilhelm, have been active members of the Steel Helmet organization, which is popular in conservative circles.

The storm troopers, headed by Hitler's minister without portfolio, Capt. Ernst Roehm, and the steel helmeters, headed by Franz Seldte, minister of labor, have been clashing for months. Authorities hope the storm troopers' vacation during July will help to gloss over the difficulties.

An order was issued today forbidding storm troopers to wear their uniforms during the vacation. The steel helmeters were ordered to turn in their badges several days ago. The storm troopers have been ordered to spend their time at home.

DOLLFUSS TO VISIT MUSSOLINI AT END OF JULY AT RICCIONE

ROME, June 26.—(AP)—Plans for the vacation visit of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria and his family to Premier Mussolini were revealed today. Dollfuss, accompanied by his wife and two children, will go to Riccione on the Adriatic at the end of July while the Italian premier and his family are there.

The chancellor will remain only a few days, but his family will stay on in the famous resort. Italian authorities said the invitation was extended to Dollfuss and was accepted before the meeting of the premier with Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

It is understood the nature of the Hitler-Mussolini exchanges with regard to Austria, whose independence they agreed to support, will be discussed by Dollfuss during his visit.

SAFETY OFFICER TELLS $100,000 BRIBERY OFFER

Group Sought to Dictate Police Chief, He Says.

St. Paul, Minn., June 26.—[Special.]—A story that he had been offered a bribe of $100,000 to permit a certain group to appoint the next chief of police was told Tuesday by H. E. Warren, St. Paul's new commissioner of safety.

The bribe, Warren said, was offered shortly after he took office on June 1. He was reluctant to discuss the matter further and gave no hint as to the identity of the attempted bribers.

Tells City Council.

Warren told of the offer at an executive session at the city council at which his proposed appointment of Frank Sommer as chief brought on a heated discussion. He said the terms of the bribe were that he should not appoint Sommer, who had headed the police force in a previous administration, but should permit the certain group to name the new chief.

A large part of the executive session was devoted to bitter controversy between Warren and Mayor Mark Gehan concerning Sommers' qualifications, and there was a report that the mayor had told the safety commissioner that he would dismiss Sommer if the council ratified the appointment at next Friday's meeting.

Holds Up Appointment.

Meanwhile Warren held up the appointment, declaring he would devote his time until Friday investigating charges of various council members against Sommer.

In addition to his story of the $100,000 bribe offer, Warren said that Carl Leonard, city license inspector appointed by him, was offered $200 a week the second day he was in office. He did not reveal the terms of the second attempted bribe.

JAMES WINS PLEA FOR DIVORCE FROM VIENNESE DANCER

Jury Rejects Tilly Losch's Cruelty Charge.

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—A British jury decided today that Tilly Losch James, Viennese dancing star, was guilty of adultery with Prince Serge Obolensky, and a divorce decree nisi—becoming final in six months—was granted to her wealthy husband, Edward Frank Willis James.

The jury, which had deliberated less than an hour, held that James, a brother of Mrs. Marshall Field, had proved his case and that his wife had failed to establish her counter-charge of cruelty. Mrs. James had sought a judicial separation. The questions of costs in the case—estimated to amount to $50,000—will be argued tomorrow. Obolensky must bear part of the costs.

Dance and Forget.

Mrs. James said tonight she would "dance again and forget all about it." She is going away for a few days' rest and later will return to the United States.

In his three hour summing up of the evidence Sir Boyd Merriman, the judge, paid whimsical tribute to Lady Cavendish, formerly Adele Astaire, a witness for the defense, who had demonstrated how she and her fellow dancer exchanged salutes in New York by thumbing their noses.

"I think I am expressing your views as well as my own, that we are glad she was called," he said. "It was a very pleasant thing in a dreary case. She gave a most vivid description of many things and she did it with a touch of verisimilitude. You will remember her becoming solicitous for the tender feelings of an English judge and an English court who could never have been supposed to know a gesticulation of that sort."

Jury Asks for More Pay.

The jury and the crowd—a mixture of fashionable members of society and wide-eyed cockneys—laughed heartily. The jury, wearied by the strain of its part in the eight day trial, described by some as a veritable fashion show, asked the judge today for more pay.

He replied there was no way to increase their compensation, but at the end of the trial said he would propose to the proper authorities that all twelve men be excused from further jury service for five years.

"Thank you, my lord," said the foreman.

Mrs. James, pale and trembling, looked around the crowded court room and clutched her bottle of smelling salts as the verdict was read. Friends gathered around James to congratulate him. Obolensky, member of an old Russian family, sat calmly with folded arms. Mrs. James was wearing the same red velvet coat she wore Friday. With her were her friends Lord and Lady Cavendish. The latter was smartly dressed in brown.

Based on Events in New York.

The case picked up where it left off Friday, with the high priced array of lawyers making their pleas to the jury. Roland Oliver spoke for the corespondent, Prince Obolensky, followed by Sir Patrick Hastings, attorney for Mrs. James, and last Norman Birkett, attorney for James.

The misconduct was alleged to have occurred in New York at various addresses between August and September, 1931, while Mrs. James was appearing in "The Band Wagon."

This fact was dwelt upon by the judge in his summing up.

"This is an important case," he said, "because of the issues themselves, and the trial was rendered more difficult by the fact that many of the most important events happened in a foreign country—the United States."

"Their temperaments," he said of the principals, "were what has been described as artistic, sometimes as nervy, as high strung, and often as neurotic."

"Marriage a Joke."

At the final session he had admitted to the record a letter in which Mrs. James allegedly wrote that she had "married the little Englishman, but it is a joke and cannot last."

James was 23 and Miss Losch 27 when they were married in New York, Feb. 2, 1931. James is a son of Mrs. William D. James of London who was a brilliant figure in the court of King Edward VII. Miss Losch was born in Vienna and became a dancer in the Royal Opera house ballet at 10. She was in Max Reinhardt's company and later in productions on the continent and in New York.

BREEZE COOLS CITY; TROPICAL HEAT IN STATE

100 Degree Sun Sears Much of Midwest.

Although inland Illinois was sweltering in temperatures which in many localities rose above 100 degrees, Chicago late yesterday afternoon was enjoying a cool northern wind and summer resort weather. The lake breeze brought relief, in the form of a 21 degree drop of the mercury, to the city a few minutes after 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Earlier in the day Chicago suffered with the rest of the state from the tropical heat. A blazing sun and a humid wind from the Gulf of Mexico moved the temperature up and up until, at 5 p. m., the official recording was 92 degrees.

Falls a Degree a Minute.

Then came the shift in the wind. In a few minutes the temperature was descending rapidly. The Havoline thermometer at the World's Fair, which at 5:17 p. m. had registered 92 degrees, was down at 5:37 o'clock to 72 degrees. Similar drops were recorded all along the city's shoreline. Low visibility over the city resulted.

Away from the lake, however, the mercury clung to the tops of thermometers. At sundown towns near the lake, such as Elgin and Aurora, were beginning to cool off slightly under the lake wind, but further along it was still extraordinarily hot.

Probably the hottest place in the state, and in the entire middle west, too, was Mattoon, which saw all heat records shattered as the mercury reached 107 at 3 p. m. The reading was 105 at Pana, Ill., and street temperatures even hotter caused many cases of prostration.

Scorching Follows Hail.

In Quincy, almost as hot, threshing machines for the first time in years were kept in barns. The wheat and oats are all burned out. Other places to report temperatures above 100 degrees were Canton, Bloomington, and Rock Island.

Just recovering from a devastating hailstorm, which did thousands of dollars' damage to crops late Monday, Lincoln, Ill., was overwhelmed by the heat, which added to the farmers' plight.

Farmers' requests for drouth relief loans, averaging about $50 each, were received and approved yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

The applications came from farmers in Grundy, Henry, McDonough, and Stephenson counties. Officials said the checks would be in the mail today. Already, officials said, about $300,000 has been expended for the purchase of grain and feed.

County Will Delay Realty Tax Penalty After July 1

July 1 is the deadline for the payment of the second instalment for 1932 real estate taxes, but County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash said yesterday no penalties would be assessed in the case of properties included in the County court's recent 15 per cent reduction until 30 days after the mailing of revised tax bills showing the new amounts.

39 MORE STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS IN EPIDEMIC ON COAST

San Francisco, Cal., June 26.—(AP)—Thirty-nine names were added today to the lists of persons stricken with infantile paralysis in the San Francisco and Los Angeles metropolitan areas.

San Francisco reported four new cases and there were nine more in the east bay area. The Los Angeles compilation included thirteen cases reported Sunday and a like number yesterday.

These figures brought the total number of cases reported in San Francisco to 69, with six deaths; in Alameda county [east bay district] to 113, and in Los Angeles city and county to 718 since May 1. There have been eight deaths in the southern metropolitan area.

New cases in the state reported last week numbered 340, bringing the total to 1,223 since May 1.

IRISH FREE STATE VOTES; DE VALERA RULE AT STAKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 26.—The Free State local elections, stirred to importance by the furious campaigning of partisans of President De Valera and of the blue shirt opposition, were held today with only a series of minor incidents, including the wounding of a Tipperary candidate. A majority for the opposition might force a call for new national elections.

It is believed 70 per cent of the voters were polled. The partial results tomorrow are anxiously awaited for indications of whether Gen. Owen O'Duffy's blue shirt organization has gained ground.

A group of armed men shot and wounded Michael Davern, De Valera party council candidate, as the voting started in Tipperary. Near Tralee masked men stopped a car full of supporters of an independent candidate and shot holes in the tires. Blue shirts on bicycles toured the polls in some sections. In Dublin De Valera's supporters appeared in green shirts.

COCKTAIL PARTY FOLLOWS STROTZ DIVORCE HEARING

There was a gay little family party in Superior Judge Rudolph Desort's courtroom yesterday when Mrs. Maxine Stresenreuter Strotz, society beauty, got a divorce from Harold C. Strotz, wealthy sportsman and broker. Then the party adjourned to the Hotel Sherman, where Mrs. Strotz, her lawyer, Robert Cantwell Jr., and Mr. Strotz, who had not been present in court, quaffed cocktails in celebration of the separation.

The fact that 15 minutes earlier Mrs. Strotz had been relating to Judge Desort—albeit with a smile—how her husband had quarreled with her and left her alone at the party for the opening of the 1933 A Century of Progress, had struck her with his fist, and once had thrown a bridge hand in her face, detracted not a bit from the gayety.

In court Mrs. Strotz obtained every point for which she had asked in her divorce bill.

Gets Son Nine Months.

Judge Desort allowed her to retain her former husband's name, and granted her custody of her 15 month old son, Harold Jr., during nine months of the year. The remaining time the boy is to spend with his father, who at present resides in a downtown club.

Mrs. Strotz also was given a $200,000 settlement and agreed to waive all alimony or rights to support money. The sum is to be paid to her over a 20 year period, during which Mrs. Strotz is to receive one third of her husband's income until the principal is accrued. Possible remarriage of Mrs. Strotz will not affect the terms of the settlement.

In court with Mrs. Strotz were her sister, Mrs. Marjorie Butler, and Paul Butler, the latter's divorced husband, who is a polo player and head of the paper company bearing his name.

Wait Patiently for Judge.

The trio arrived at 12:30 p. m. and patiently waited, chatting together, until Judge Desort, who was at luncheon, returned at 2:30. During this interval Mrs. Strotz posed for photographers.

Once the judge resumed the bench the hearing was quickly terminated. Mrs. Strotz grinned several times as she told of her husband's cruelties.

She was followed on the stand by Mrs. Butler and then by Butler, who corroborated her testimony. Butler lives at "Old Oak Brook" farm, in York township, near Hinsdale. His wife and Mrs. Strotz live at 900 North Michigan avenue.

HOUSE DRUDGE, 12, PUT IN HOSPITAL AFTER RESCUE

Jasper, Ala., June 26.—(AP)—Suffering from malnutrition and bearing bruises from frequent beatings which neighbors said were inflicted by her foster mother, Mary Virginia Johnson, 12, was in a hospital here tonight, receiving care and gentleness for the first time in 16 months.

The foster mother, Mrs. Earl Porter, under charges of assault and battery with a club, was at liberty under $400 bond. Neighbors brought the plight of the child to attention of authorities after Mrs. Thruston Mitchell last week spirited her from the Porter home while the family was absent and took her to a physician.

Gaunt from weeks of privation, her body bearing bruises and scars on the back and legs, the child said she was beaten "because I couldn't do any more work."

Mary Virginia was one of ten children left with an invalid mother three years ago when the father died. When the mother died Mrs. Porter took Mary Virginia into her household. For 16 months, the child's story ran, she had been forced to do household drudgery and was beaten and deprived of supper when her work didn't please.

GIRL SOBS STORY ON STAND IN SUIT AGAINST PREMIER

Claims She Was Ruled by Official's Will.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 26.—(AP)—With tears streaming down her pale cheeks, Vivian MacMillan testified today in her seduction suit against Premier John E. Brownlee of Alberta that she resisted his advances for six months on every occasion when they were together.

"After the six months the relations between you became a habit?" suggested A. L. Smith, attorney for the 50 year old premier, who denies the seduction charge. "You had ceased resisting?"

Tells of "Guardian Promise."

She reiterated that he promised to be her guardian and open his home to her if she wished to go to Edmonton and take a government job.

"How did you get the idea he enticed you from home with a plan to seduce you?" asked Smith.

"It didn't come all at once," said the girl, who had been permitted to sit down because of her obvious distress. "I was older for one thing. I had read of seduction cases in files of the attorney general's office where I worked. My eyes were open."

"You fought on every occasion you went with Mr. Brownlee during the first six or seven months? Why did you go on these drives?"

"He said it was my duty to go."

"Why did you not do your fighting before you went on the drives?"

Afraid of Brownlee.

"Because I was afraid of Mr. Brownlee. He has a very nasty temper."

"Ever see any one else with a nasty temper?"

"Not like his," replied Miss MacMillan. "He had an influence over me I could not break or resist."

"You were mentally dominated by this man?"

"Yes, when in his presence I felt I couldn't but do what he asked. It was a combination of fear and his influence."

"And," added Smith, "was it because of Mrs. Brownlee?"

"Yes," was the reply.

Miss MacMillan said the "mysterious influence" the premier had over her did not stop until she quit seeing him in July, 1933.

"Why didn't you stop before?"

"I couldn't," she replied.

Miss MacMillan said that when she came to Edmonton she did not live in the dormitory of Alberta college where she was taking a business course because of "evening restrictions," and that Brownlee suggested her going to the Y. W. C. A.

Questioned About Rides.

The girl was questioned closely about her first automobile rides with Brownlee and asked if she had thought there was anything wrong when he promised to "tell her about life."

"I thought of our conversation in Edson when he promised to be my guardian," she said.

"Did he tell you the only way to repay Mrs. Brownlee for her social kindness was to be intimate with him?"

"Yes."

"He made a proposition for you to part with your honor?"

"He didn't say 'part with my honor.' He said I would be doing the honorable thing."

Thinks Mrs. Brownlee Suspected.

Miss MacMillan admitted on the stand that the premier's wife might have had a suspicion of "what was going on." She said she went to visit Mrs. Brownlee once after a long absence when she was ill.

"She asked why I hadn't been over," the girl said. "She said, 'Has Mr. Brownlee done anything to you? Is anything the matter?'"

The girl said she answered no.

"Did she suspect anything improper?"

"I thought she might have suspicions about it and it came as a shock to me."

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

RELIEF EMPLOYE HELD; CONFESSES STEALING CHECKS

George Bonkowski, a night fire guard in the mailing and stock room of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission building, 1819 South Michigan avenue, was held last evening after he had confessed stealing and cashing checks intended for a number of men and women on the work relief rolls. Bonkowski, according to relief authorities, has admitted cashing $500 worth of checks and it is believed that an audit of accounts would disclose peculations of at least $1,500.

Bonkowski was seized Saturday evening in a currency exchange as he tried to cash one of the checks to which he had forged a signature. Several other checks were found in his pockets. Bonkowski said that he had been passing checks for several weeks.

D. K. Pearson, acting head of the investigating bureau for the relief commission, said complaints from workers who failed to receive their checks had been received by the commission for several weeks.

MOVIE DECENCY BODY PLANS TO BE PERMANENT

Catholics Map Unending War Against Smut.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Gordon Photo.]

Organization of the League of Decency into a national institution, with prominent laymen in charge, is one of the next steps to be taken by the Catholic church in its warfare against indecent films, according to the Rev. George F. Dinneen, rector of St. Ignatius church, who is a member of the national committee of priests appointed last week at the meeting of bishops in Cincinnati.

The efforts of the League of Decency in its box office attack on the makers of bad films are to be redoubled, according to Father Dinneen, who has little hope that the new method of reviewing pictures and setting up a new appeal board of producers in New York will bring the results desired by the church.

Veteran in Film War.

Motion picture appreciation is to be introduced as a study in Catholic schools, and the endorsed motion picture bulletin service of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae is to be extended as a matter of information on current pictures.

Father Dinneen has been working for many years in Chicago to stop the exhibition of dangerous pictures from Hollywood. Many of these pictures, he thinks, may largely nullify the work of the schools and the churches. His work in the past has been largely with local censorship problems.

Now he is caught in the wave of a great national movement, springing up from many unexpected sources, with multi-church backing, in which the objective is the production factories of Hollywood.

Denies Compromising Issue.

"Press reports on the meeting and conclusion of the Catholic bishops' committee held in Cincinnati last week are somewhat misleading or at least open to misinterpretation," he said yesterday.

"There was no compromise with the representatives of the motion picture industry and absolutely no intention or indication of discontinuing the campaign against indecent pictures of the organization of the League of Decency.

"Those representatives had nothing to present which would justify any such change of policy or that would make any essential difference in dealing with the conditions within the industry which have brought about this campaign.

"When the moral code [of the motion picture producers and distributors] was adopted four years ago, the heads of all the big producing companies signed it and solemnly pledged themselves to enforce it.

Blames Producers Entirely.

"They have failed in that pledge and acknowledge it. The blame and the responsibility for this failure must rest on these big executives and it is futile for them to plead innocence and beg for another chance by setting up the appeal board in New York."

The Catholic bishops, forming the American hierarchy, are expected to take further action at Washington in November.

CHICAGOAN AND AURORA MAN WIN WHIST TROPHY

E. J. Tobin of Chicago and Z. J. Frost of Aurora last night won the Minneapolis whist trophy, one of the oldest of prizes for card players, in an American Whist league contest held at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The trophy was offered in 1895 by the Minneapolis Whist club, to be played for annually by men teams.

The Cannon trophy for women, first offered in 1930, was won by Mrs. Rose Fleischer and Mrs. M. K. Alexander of Chicago.

DRIVE ON INDECENT FILMS STOPS MAKING OF 'BARBARY COAST'

Hollywood, Cal., June 26.—[Special.]—Sam Goldwyn, motion picture producer, today announced indefinite postponement of "Barbary Coast" as a starring vehicle for the new Russian film star, Anna Sten, and frankly stated that abandonment of the story was "influenced by the wave of censorship agitation sweeping the country."

"The theme and dramatic possibilities of the story are too great to sacrifice in a clamor for so-called clean pictures, suitable for children," Goldwyn said. "It is not a child's story but a full blooded, strongly flavored screen play. It will be just as great a photo play one year or ten years from now; so we will hold it until 'Barbary Coast' can be done in full justice, the way it should be done, without having to be penalized for the sins of other pictures and other producers.

"In temporarily abandoning the production, for which full preparations had been made, I am acting on my own initiative and as my own censor. Every censor board official in the industry to whom the story was submitted gave it complete approval."

REROUTE TRAFIC WHILE SHERIDAN ROAD IS WIDENED

Supt. J. Frank Lyman of Lincoln park yesterday ordered the diversion of all northbound traffic on Sheridan road to Broadway and Kenmore avenue north of Winona street during mornings while the widening of Sheridan road between Foster and Berwyn avenues is being completed. During evening hours southbound traffic must follow Broadway and Kenmore south of Berwyn avenue, he said.

"The action is necessary to care for heavy traffic during the period of widening and repair which we expect to end by Sunday," Mr. Lyman explained. "The diversion of southbound traffic started Monday and prevented congestion during the evening when heavy traffic was bound north. The additional order should completely end traffic tie-ups while construction is in progress."

U. S. Delays Harris Trial on Attempted Extortion Charge

Trial of Edmund R. Harris Jr., architect, on charges of extortion was delayed yesterday till the fall term of court by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. The architect is under indictment on a charge of sending extortion threats to Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, who was a defendant in a $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett. This suit was dismissed recently when Mrs. Willett obtained a divorce. Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher obtained a delay in the Harris case because of a crowded court docket.

ENDS LIFE AFTER OCEAN TRIP TO FORGET LOVE

Ivan Kapple, 31 years old, who returned April 1 from a six months' European trip taken as a "love cure," shot and killed himself yesterday in his father's home at 9533 Longwood drive in the Beverly Hills residential section. The father, Frank Kapple, was a harness manufacturer at 4211 South Halsted street for many years.

Young Kapple, it was said, had an unhappy love affair with a downstate girl whose name relatives did not reveal. After his return from Europe the harness business was burned in the recent stockyards fire. Without a job, he became increasingly despondent, members of the family said.

A married sister, Mrs. Helen Iverson, of Eagle River, Wis., and her husband, here for the World's Fair, were to have had luncheon with two guests at the house. They waited fifteen minutes for Kapple, and then his sister began a search. His body was found in a closet off the elder Kapple's room. The weapon he used was a derringer which had been in the family three generations and was kept on the father's desk as a curio.

The two young blondes who outraged Lincoln park police by swimming off the Oak street beach in garments intended to be worn on land, but not seen, were released yesterday from the East Chicago avenue police station on bonds of $25.

The girls, who were arrested by Policeman Raymond Eddy for plunging into the water at dawn in their undergarments, gave their names as Mary Doe, 22 years old, 61 East Goethe street, and Myrtle Northland, 21 years old, 1916 Oakdale avenue.

They explained they had been at a party and on their way home it had seemed a good idea to take their daily swim before the beach became crowded. So they just went in without going home for suits.

They will be arraigned in women's court today.

Conviction in Gasoline Tax Fraud Upheld on Appeal

The conviction of Abe Allen, former official of the Midway Refining company, for violation of the state motor fuel tax law, was upheld yesterday in a ruling handed down by the Appellate court. Allen was sentenced by Judge John Prystalski to serve three years in the House of Correction and pay a fine of $3,000.

Divorced Wife Sues to Seize Stock in Coty Firm

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—A suit for back alimony by Yvonne Alexandrine Cotnareanu, former wife of François Coty, French perfume manufacturer, to get possession of stock in Coty, Inc., said to be worth $3,546,000. was disclosed in the Supreme court today.

Instalment Is First Since 1931.

The payment, on July 1. of $534,173 interest on west parks' $12,450,000 defaulted and refunding bonds was authorized yesterday by the new consolidated park district board. The interest payment is the first to be made by west parks since Nov. 1, 1931.

The payment is for twelve months from July 1, 1933, to July 1, 1934. Of the total amount, $47,401 will be paid to the holders of $1,043,000 of refunding bonds, converted from defaulted issues under the district's refunding program instituted early in the year, and $486,572 will go to owners of all other outstanding bonds.

Harry Josephs, president of the west park board, declared the action of the Chicago park district commissioners in approving the payment, would save the west park refinancing system, since it will avoid a default on exchanged bonds and will tend to encourage further bond conversion, a move necessary before the refunding program can be completely successful.

Authorized By Legislature.

"The decision to pay interest on defaulted bonds for the period between July 1 of 1933 and 1934 is based on the action of the legislature in authorizing the payment of defaulted bond interest prior to July 1, 1933 with refunding bonds," he explained. "After that date cash payment is required, and we felt the equitable way to act was to treat alike those who hold old bonds and those who have converted. Consequently the twelve month interest payment to all was ordered."

The west park refunding program was launched early in the year as a hopeful solution of the financial tangles left by the old west parks administration. Under the plan, the $12,450,000 outstanding obligations were to be converted to refunding bonds, with a provision for spreading the burden of the new bonds over a 20 year period.

Only 8 Per Cent Changed.

Only eight per cent of the bonds have been converted to date, however, and the possibility that legal tangles would prevent payment of interest on refunding bonds July 1 appeared for a time to doom the success of the entire plan.

The action yesterday, however, obviates further danger and the commissioners saw west park finances stabilized by the move.

The money for the interest payment ordered yesterday is to be provided from $572,000 in the west park treasury, collected from taxes levied for payment of principal and interest on the outstanding defaulted bonds, but insufficient to make the scheduled payments on principal. Both west park and Chicago park district boards ruled that the funds should be used to pay interest.

SUIT TO PREVENT HOOVER BUYING LAND IS BEATEN

Los Angeles, Cal., June 26.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover, his son, Allan Hoover, and J. O. Hayes Jr., are permitted to purchase 3,678 acres of San Joaquin county land from California Delta Farms, Inc., under a ruling of Superior Judge Emmet Wilson today denying an injunction sought by Henry Boomsma, stockholder of the corporation.

Boomsma charged Lee A. Phillips, one of the corporation's directors, met Mr. Hoover and was so flattered by the association, besides expecting the former President eventually would show his appreciation, that he agreed to sell the property for $50 an acre. The price, Boomsma contended, was far below the actual market value. He asserted Phillips so dominated the board of directors that its approval of the deal was not really the act of the corporation.

Judge Wilson held that deposit of papers in the deal in escrow placed the transaction beyond the power of the corporation itself to revoke. A stockholder, he held, could not maintain an action to set aside the transaction upon any ground other than one on which the corporation itself could sue.

Dr. Cadman's Pen Plays Role in Church Election

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN.

Oberlin, O., June 26.—Dr. S. Parkes Cadman's specially selected fountain pen got caught in ecclesiastical machinery of the Congregational-Christian general council, in session here, and caused no end of trouble.

First of all, after the machinery had been started up again following the pen's luckless mishap, Dr. Cadman was only elected honorary moderator of the general council, and Dr. Jay T. Stocking of St. Louis, Mo., was elected moderator in place of the famous preacher and author of Brooklyn who owns the pen. For weeks prior to the general assembly, Dr. Cadman's election to the genuine moderatorship of the church had been a foregone conclusion. Even Dr. Stocking had refused to allow his name to be entered in the race, stating that he desired to second Dr. Cadman's nomination to the high office of the church.

Appear in Advertising.

That, however, was before Dr. Cadman's fountain pen had become famous, if not notorious. That fame—or notoriety—began on June 16 when the photograph of the notorious—or noted—fountain pen was published as an advertising picture in a widely read weekly journal. The photograph also included the owner of the pen and the face of the well advertised manufacturer of the particular brand of fountain pens of which Dr. Cadman's was an approved sample. The background of the picture was made up of books. More malignant forms of general council whisperings say the books were Dr. Cadman's very own because the photograph was taken right in Dr. Cadman's study and across his desk on which pens which had failed of the famous preacher's approval had been strewn. But the pen was pridefully grasped in its owners hands with the manufacturer looking on in smiling satisfaction.

No sooner had the advertisement appeared than high powered and potent Congregational New Dealers began whispering their sense of dismay and shock. Dr. Cadman had sold out, they said, to conscienceless capitalism. "How can we go before the world," they asked, "proclaiming a new and just order of society on which predatory and unrestricted capitalism no longer would be permitted to prey, while our moderator remains sold to an enterprising, but capitalistic fountain pen manufacturer? What will happen to our darling Holt plan for a council of social action if debased and debasing capitalistic enemies hurl such inconsistency in our teeth? Something must be done."

It was done. On the opening day a precedent, without explanation, was announced. This was that the election of moderator would be postponed until a closing day of the sessions. Proponents of the Holt plan — the council's more youthful and enflamed social reconstructors—deliberated during the postponement period. It was widely rumored throughout the corridors of Oberlin college, where council sessions are being held that the deliberators finally concluded that chances of defeating Dr. Cadman were very slim, and that if they could defeat him there still loomed the question as to which would suffer the worst as a consequence of Dr. Cadman's defeat, the Congregational church or Dr. Cadman.

They Divide the Victory.

A bright solution at last appeared. Dr Cadman would be elected honorary moderator and also be invested with high symbolism of "the dying social order." He would be given a seat high enough to be seen but not heard.

The symbol would be a chair only once occupied before in the annals of the church, and then by Calvin Coolidge. And so, the honorary moderatorial chair, symbol of "a by-gone era," was dragged from the church attic, dusted off with forensics, and placed behind the Brooklyn orator. In that chair Cadman now unanimously sits.

German Actor and Jewish Leader Die in Plane Crash

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 26.—Max Pallenberg, formerly one of Germany's famous comedians, and Moses Skurnik, president of the Jewish Society of Helsingfors, were killed in an airplane crash at Karlsbad today. The pilot also perished. Pallenberg and his wife, Fritzi Massary, queen of the German operetta in the days of the empire and republic, left Germany when Chancellor Hitler assumed power. Both are Jewish.

SECOND MILLION DOLLAR FIREBUG GANG IS HUNTED

Investigators Learn New Arson Plot Details.

State's attorney's detectives, armed with warants, last night were seeking members of a second arson ring said to equal in scope of operation that uncovered Monday with the arrest of 16 persons. This was announced yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney as his assistants worked to perfect cases against those already under arrest in order to seek indictments today.

Members of the second arson ring, said to be linked loosely to the first through insurance adjusters, are declared to have equaled in industry those in custody by setting fires on which a total of $1,000,000 in insurance was paid. Of this figure the incendiaries collected a percentage ranging as high as 10 in some cases.

Names Are Kept Secret.

The state's attorney refused to reveal the names of those sought in the newly discovered ring. He also declined to furnish further details in fear that publicity given those already arrested might cause the new suspects to flee the city.

Investigators yesterday got from insurance underwriters a list of all suspicious fires during the last six years. They said that the arson prisoners held in the county jail refused to add to the confessions which some of them have made unless confronted with facts concerning specific fires.

The method of questioning, coupled with other investigation, added one fire to the 25 incendiary blazes solved by the wholesale arrests and subsequent confessions.

Story of Apartment Fire.

This blaze, said to have been one of the few apartment house fires set by the gang, occurred in November, 1933, in the flat of Sam Goldstein at 2508 Eastwood avenue. A statement made by Jack Goldberg, a friend of Goldstein [who has moved to Kansas City], gave investigators an insight into the gang's method of operation.

Goldstein, finding himself short of money, according to Goldberg, sought out Harry Brown, 1125 Loyola avenue, one of the alleged leaders of the gang, and made arrangements for the fire. Goldberg said that Harry Brown made arrangements with Joseph Brown, 4137 Drexel boulevard, alleged professional incendiary, to start the fire.

"No Money in Flat Fires."

"This guy has got $4,000 and we've got to take care of him," Harry Brown is said to have answered.

Goldberg said he was present when Joseph Brown set fire to the apartment after spreading paper, sprinkling gasoline about the place, and arranging a fuse.

"That's a seven minute fuse," Goldberg said Brown told him. "We'll have time to get six or seven blocks from the house before the fire starts."

Failure of the fire to do the damage expected probably saved the members of several other families living in the apartment building from injury or death, investigators said.

Crowley Gets New Clews.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley last night questioned the two Browns and Milton Goldberg, another prisoner, for several hours. From Goldberg and Harry Brown, both insurance adjusters, he obtained what he described as promising clews for investigation of additional fires. Harry Brown has indicated a willingness to talk more freely if he is assured he will be treated leniently. State's Attorney Courtney, however, declined to give any promises.

Mrs. Elsie Pisani, who has confessed driving two of the arsonists to and from the scenes of the crimes, is ill of heart disease in the county hospital. After a relapse last evening she announced that she wished to talk further to representatives of the prosecutor's office. When they arrived her condition had improved and she decided to withhold any further disclosures.

Members of the state's attorney's staf busied themselves in further investigation of fires solved in confessions of the gang members. They also sought further substantiation of the charge that the arson gang had not been content in many cases with its agreed share of the insurance money. In several cases, the confessions showed, the gang plotted to kidnap owners of burned properties and extort the remainder of the insurance.

Probe Extortion Phases.

One of the fires solved, according to investigators, was a large loop blaze that caused $100,000 damage to a building at 167-173 West Lake street in December, 1931.

D. E. Alex, owner of the restaurant equipment company in which the fire started, is charged with having arranged with members of the arson ring to set the fire on payment of $5,000. Investigators expressed the belief that Alex, who has since gone to Greece, was robbed of the insurance or paid part of it to extortioners.

A second fire in which gang members are alleged to have taken all the $18,000 of insurance money was that in the grocery store of Sam Esposito, 1638 West 69th street, who is under arrest.

Another development in the case was the discovery of a letter threatening State's Attorney Courtney and First Assistant Wilbert E. Crowley. The state's attorney and Mr. Crowley, who assigned investigators to the matter, expressed the belief that the letter was the work of a crank and said they did not attach much importance to the threat.

The letter, received by Dr. Dominic A. Palmisano, 1600 West Grand avenue, directed him to produce two incurable patients, one to slay the state's attorney and the other to kill Mr. Crowley.

SEARCH LINER'S CABIN FOR CLEW IN PODERJAY CASE

Find Porthole Is Wide Enough for Body.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Police inspected the cabin occupied by Ivan Poderjay in the S. S. Olympic on his flight to Europe after his bigamous marriage to Agnes Tufverson, New York lawyer, and developed at least two important points concerning the mystery of Miss Tufverson's disappearance.

One point of interest was the size of the porthole in Poderjay's cabin, No. 86 on C deck. A tape measure established that the porthole is 20 inches in diameter—easily large enough for an average sized woman's body to pass through, even without dismembering.

Time to Empty Trunk.

The second development was an answer to the question, "Did Poderjay have time to pass any articles or packages out the porthole to the bottom of the sea before he opened a trunk to the gaze of a steward?"

The answer is "Yes."

Until tonight, it was not known on what day of the voyage Poderjay took pains to show the stewards he had nothing concealed in the trunk, although he refused to leave his stateroom, ate all his meals in his cabin, and guarded the trunk as if it were full of valuables.

Ernest Churcher, cabin steward to Poderjay, disclosed during a police examination after the Olympic docked this evening, that it was at noon on Dec. 23 that Poderjay opened the guarded trunk, pulled out a necktie and drew out a drawer convincing the steward that the trunk contained only wearing apparel. The Olympic had sailed at 10 o'clock the night before. This meant that Poderjay had all night and all morning to have rid himself of any object or package he wished to destroy.

Well Out to Sea.

During the late hours of the night and the early hours of the morning, the Olympic was well out to sea, and heavy objects cast off would not be likely to find their way to shore.

Beyond these more or less theoretical points, the police apparently did not gain much data of importance through their minute search of the Poderjay cabin. It was, however, an elaborate search, conducted by a group of ten experts, headed by Capt. John H. Ayres of the missing persons bureau; Dr. A. O. Gettler, city toxicologist, and Detective Lieutenant William McMahon of the police research laboratory.

The police were accompanied by Sally Tufverson, sister of the missing bride, who evinced keen interest in the search of the cabin.

The delegation was armed with chemicals and high powered lights. The experts proceeded to search the cabin, the doors, the porthole and the furniture for any signs of blood or other clews.

Cabin Cleaned Several Times.

They were handicapped by the lapse of time and the fact that the cabin had been given several thorough cleanings since Poderjay occupied it last December. However, the experts believed that if a body had been dismembered or handled in the cabin the chemicals would establish some trace. It was admitted, nevertheless, that if a body had been dismembered elsewhere and brought aboard well wrapped up it would have been possible to pass it through the porthole without leaving any telltale marks.

The police experts also gave some attention to a closet which fits in at the end of two berths in the cabin. The interior of the closet measures about five feet high by two feet wide. It was pointed out that if any person had sailed alive and been overcome the night of the sailing, it would have been an easy matter for the victim to have been placed temporarily in this closet. The entrance was also wide enough to admit a steamer trunk, such as Poderjay carried away from Miss Tufverson's apartment shortly before sailing time.

Mentions "Charming Woman."

The steward said Poderjay mentioned to him that he had left "a very charming woman behind in America," and volunteered the information that he had married two different women, but he explained this was in different countries and he felt safe from the law. Poderjay seemed to be well supplied with money and displayed numerous $10 and $20 bills.

Police Lieutenant Hugh Sheridan went to Hartford Monday to question a school teacher who corresponded with Poderjay while he was courting Agnes Tufverson. He finished that assignment and was sent on to Boston to interview a Mrs. Ruth Hall, employé in a cleaning and dyeing shop, who is certain she saw Agnes Tufverson twice since last May 15.

May Send Detectives Abroad.

Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan said he had talked with Mayor F. H. La Guardia about a plan to send detectives to Vienna to question Poderjay concerning the Tufverson woman's disappearance and that the mayor had promised to decide tomorrow whether the city shall undertake the expense.

Some idea of how exhaustively the New York detectives are going into the details of the case might be obtained from the fact that Capt. Ayres had one of his staf ask the weather bureau for data concerning the weather of the night of Dec. 20 when Miss Tufverson was last seen.

Search of the records showed that it was a cold, dismal night, such as might have kept most persons indoors. And, as a matter of fact, it was indoors that Miss Tufverson was last seen. Her maid remembered that between 10 and 11 o'clock that evening, when she left the Tufverson apartment at 235 East 22d street, Poderjay and his bride were together in the rooms.

TAVERN PROPRIETRESS FINED.

Michigan City, Ind., June 26.—[Special.]—Continuing a drive against licenseless beer dealers in the Calumet district, Louise Marshall, proprietress of a tavern near here, was fined $15 today. The warrant was signed by Bernard Doyle, state excise director.

RECORD TUESDAY CROWDS FLOCK TO WORLD'S FAIR

Sunny Skies Prove Lure to Thousands.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Sunny weather brought a record Tuesday crowd for 1934 to A Century of Progress Exposition yesterday. The highest attendance on a previous Tuesday was 68,343, set June 19. At midnight last night 68,504 had passed through the turnstiles.

Fair officials said entire credit for the increase was due to the pleasant summer sunshine that followed the unseasonable weather of Monday.

Besides the recorded paid attendance of yesterday thousands of children under 16 years of age entered the grounds free of charge as winners in a school contest. No count of the free entrances was made and they will make no change in the final record. Nevertheless, the thousands of children did much to give the Fair grounds an air of happy gaiety.

Will Discuss Dillinger.

Today will be Central States Parole day at the Fair with representatives of eleven states conferring at the Illinois Host House. Though he probably will not attend, John Dillinger, Number 1 bad man of America, will be the chief subject of discussion. The meeting is under the auspices of the Illinois department of public welfare.

The representative of the Indiana parole board, Wayne Coy, will discuss all the ramifications of the famous Dillinger parole and the convict's subsequent rise to notoriety. All the phases of the parole question will be discussed by more than a score of speakers. The meeting opens at 2:30 p. m., and will last three hours.

The Salvation Army doughnut hut in the war torn village in front of the Pantheon De La Guerre was dedicated yesterday with Col. Ernest R. Tugmore, chief secretary of the central states division, as the principal speaker.

Army Lassies Take Part.

The American flag was raised during the ceremonies and a dedicatory prayer was offered by Staf Capt. Leroy Debevoise of Chicago. Other parts of the program included the appearance of army lassies in uniform and martial airs played by a forty piece army band.

Plans were completed yesterday for the celebration of American Legion day at the Fair Saturday. Legion officials stated that more than 100,000 veterans will visit the grounds during the day.

The honor guest will be Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the legion. Included in the day's events will be a parade with one hundred musical organizations represented.

RUFUS C. DAWES CHOSEN SCIENCE MUSEUM CHIEF

Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, was elected president of the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park yesterday at a meeting of the board of trustees at the Midday club. He will devote his entire time to the museum after the close of the World's Fair.

In accepting his new position Mr. Dawes announced that many of the exhibitions at the Fair, including those at the Hall of Science and those of private exhibitors, will be permanently located in the museum at the close of the Fair.

"A Century of Progress made no effort to depict the direct social effects of the use of science in industry," he said. "This seemed to the organizers of the Exposition a task beyond their power, but the museum may solve this problem."

A telegram was received from Lessing Rosenwald, son of Julius Rosenwald, who founded the museum, thanking Mr. Dawes for his acceptance of the post. William Rufus Abbott, retiring chairman of the board of the museum, made the announcement of Mr. Dawes' election.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Because many visitors have asked about the temperature at the top of the Sky Ride towers and how it compares with that on the ground level, that concession has placed six thermometers, three in each tower, which will register the temperature at the base, at the ride level [219 feet high] and at the top observation platform [628 feet up].

◆

An amusement arcade will occupy the building which has been variously named the Polish-American building, the German-American, and the Brewery Arts building during the two seasons of the World's Fair. It will be devoted to sports, games, shows, movies and novelty entertainment. Entrance to the building will be free of charge. It will open on July 1.

◆

An exponent of a system of stretching for health, Clarence E. Willard, can "grow" from his normal height of five feet ten inches to six feet four inches, and stretch his arms fifteen inches beyond their normal length. The muscle stretching system is demonstrated daily on the Crystal stage of the Electrical building.

◆

The ten thousandth Century of Progress tire came off the production line at the Firestone exhibit at noon yesterday. C. D. Smith, manager of the exhibit, and other Firestone officials marked the event by halting the machine operation for an instant.

◆

The famous "Ingersoll Washington," an oil painting by Gilbert Stuart, valued by its owners at $25,000, arrived at the Colonial Village yesterday, where it will be displayed for the remainder of the exposition.

◆

Floyd S. Young, director of the Lincoln park zoo, will visit the Swiss Village at the World's Fair at 2:30 p. m. today to examine the two pedigreed brown bears which will belong to the zoo at the conclusion of the exposition.

◆

One of the interesting exhibits in the Grecian pavilion in the Hall of States is the drinking vessel or pitcher called Amphoreus, said to belong to the Mycenean period which ended 3,000 years ago.

Diving stars from Chicago High schools will be featured in the water sports program this afternoon on the Swift bridge of service at the Fair. From two ten foot springboards placed on the band shell stage a group of 16 aquatic stars will perform. They include the 1933 and '34 junior and senior medalists of the Chicago Prep league.

TEXAN FINISHES 10 MONTH WATER JOURNEY TO FAIR

B. M. Hatfield, the Texas cowboy-commodore, who left Fort Worth last Aug. 27, arrived in Chicago yesterday with his 25 foot motor scow on which he made the waterway journey of nearly 4,500 miles. Commodore Hatfield, who came to visit the World's Fair, brought with him nineteen jugs of water, taken from various rivers and canals visited by him on his trip. He will pour the water into Lake Michigan.

From Fort Worth, Hatfield, with a crew of four, journeyed down the Trinity river to the Gulf of Mexico. After visiting a number of points along the gulf coast he journeyed up the Mississippi river to the Illinois waterway and thus to Chicago.

He has made a total of 435 talks on his way here and has had a turnover of 104 men in his crew.

ROOSEVELT BACK IN CAPITAL; 200 BILLS ON DESK

Vetoes 14 Measures on His First Day.

"I am disapproving this bill because I fear that if this principle is established it will grow and grow like war pensions, and that would be a pity for our children and grandchildren."

Congress had passed a bill to authorize payment of expenses to Yakima Indians who come to Washington to petition the government.

"I understand," wrote the President, "the established policy is to charge expenses of this character to tribal funds instead of the treasury. The bill is therefore disapproved."

Vetoes Clearing of Record.

A military deserter named James Moffitt had induced congress to pass a bill clearing his record, but the President vetoed the measure, saying: "It does not seem reasonable that malaria and large doses of quinine prevented this man from knowing he was deserting, in view of the fact that he thereafter stayed in Chicago for a year and then went home apparently without trying in any way to clear his record."

A measure entitled: "An act to correct the naval records of former employés of the crews of the revenue cutters Algonquin and Onondago," was vetoed with the following terse comment:

"This bill is disapproved because it stretches the imagination to declare men on a revenue cutter for 17 days on the great lakes in August, 1898, to be entitled to all the privileges of Spanish war veterans."

The President signed a bill adding one more to the maze of commissions and bureaus in Washington. This was the bill creating a commission to study prison industries.

"I am glad to approve this bill," he said, "because it represents a distinct advance in the progress of prison industries. Without any important competition with private industry or labor, the government can provide increasingly useful work for those who need to learn how to work, and to learn that work itself is honorable and is a practical substitute for criminal methods of earning one's livelihood."

HOW TO END SMOKE NUISANCE SHOWN IN EXHIBIT AT THE FAIR

One of the interesting and profitable World's Fair exhibits is that of the Chicago smoke abatement bureau in the first pavilion of the General Exhibits building. The display is sponsored by the smoke inspection department of the city and is operated by railroad and coal association engineering departments.

The exhibit shows what has been done to solve the Chicago smoke nuisance problem since 1911, and it demonstrates methods by which the average householder or industrialist may alleviate the evil. Proof is offered of the cost of smoke in health and wealth to the average citizen.

"By modern, up to date equipment efficiently handled," said R. B. McMullen Jr., one of the engineers in charge, "all heating equipment in homes or industry can operate with little or no smoke."

JAP AMBASSADOR ARRIVES TODAY AS FAIR VISITOR

Hirosi Saito, the Japanese ambassador, who paid a good will visit to Chicago recently, will return this morning and remain until tomorrow night, when he will resume his journey to Japan. Ambassador Saito will return to Washington in a few months.

Accompanied by Mme. Saito, their two young daughters, an attaché, E. Wajima, a governess, and a servant, Ambassador Saito will go from the Union station to the Edgewater Beach hotel. The remainder of the day will be spent at the World's Fair. An informal dinner will be given in the evening at the home of Gen. Charles G. Dawes in Evanston.

A tour of the Field Museum of Natural History and of the Shedd aquarium are planned for tomorrow morning. The ambassador will be the guest of Charles Fabens Kelley of the Art institute at an informal luncheon preceding an inspection of art treasures gathered for the Fair. After dinner at the residence of the acting consul, K. Nakauchi, Ambassador Saito and his party will leave for San Francisco at the North Western station.

Union Men, Sympathizers Stage Barn Raid.

BULLETIN

Milwaukee, Wis., June 27 (Wednesday).—Five hundred strikers and sympathizers early today tried to push into the No. 2 precinct police station at South 6th and West Mineral streets and release Vernon O'Connor, 23 years old, 3467 South Chase avenue, a striker who was held a prisoner. Four policemen, the sole guardians of the station at the time, held the mob off with riot guns until reinforcements arrived.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 27.—[Special.]—Street car traffic on lines leading south through Kinnickinnic avenue was halted at 10 o'clock tonight when a crowd of strike pickets, sympathizers, and spectators estimated at several thousand closed the tracks before the Kinnickinnic avenue station of the Electric company.

The crowds pulled trolleys from the wires, cut off air between two car trains, blocked the tracks, and threatened and jeered the motormen. Police reserves were thrown into the district and seven men who resisted their orders to move along were arrested.

Other Crowds Assemble.

Similar but smaller crowds assembled at the Oakland and Edgewood avenue station in Shorewood, where outgoing cars were held up, and at various west side transfer points.

Representatives of the EMBA, the company union, who mingled in all crowds, said definitly none of the pickets or spectators were employés of the company.

The crowd at the Kinnickinnic station began to assemble before 8 o'clock and by 10 o'clock Kinnickinnic avenue, north and south, and Mitchell street, running west from the intersection, were jammed with people. Cars were lined up in each direction for many blocks.

It was the first violence of the electric company strike, which began at 4 o'clock this morning and during the day showed no interruption of service, either transportation, light, or power.

How Trouble Started.

The action started at Kinnickinnic when Nathan Buckman, a motorman, attempted to leave for home after finishing his day's run. The crowd seized him and the police rushed to rescue him. Before he was pulled clear of the rioters he was badly mauled.

The crowd jammed together until it was almost impossible for the police to make way for pedestrians, much less move the cars. They tried to keep the crowd moving without imposing too much punishment on them, but the street was so densely packed and more people flowed into every opening the police cleared, and the cars could not move without threatening serious injury.

At 10:30 o'clock traffic through the street was brought to a complete standstill. The police, under Capt. John F. Wesolowski, made little progress with them.

The street cars were backed up for many blocks in each direction and the blockade appeared a complete success, when Deputy Inspector Joseph Drewniak arrived from downtown with twenty-five policemen and stormed into the crowd.

Police Get Busy.

"What do you fellows wear badges for?" he was heard to observe to the front rank of policemen. "Go to work on 'em!"

The Drewniak reserves set the example. The period of police tenderness and tolerance was over. The crowds which had blocked the street in front of the barns fell away, a few ran, nursing sore heads, and fifteen minutes later a passage was cleared and the cars were running through partly cleared streets.

On West Greenfield avenue, west from 3d street, 20 cars of the 3d and Burnham line were counted, abandoned by passengers and crew and all showing evidence of damage by the wreckers. Doors had been pulled off and windows broken. At 11:30 o'clock these cars stood empty on the street corners waiting for crews to get them in shape to be hauled to the barns.

Of the company's 4,700 employés only 80 were reported to have quit work upon start of the scheduled walkout at 4 o'clock this morning, and an additional 74 were absent on later shifts, bringing the total of men absent tonight to 154. Of these 154 men, 20 have asked reinstatement and their cases will be acted on tomorrow, according to Harold Ranels, labor agent for the EMBA, the company union.

Further efforts to arbitrate the issues on which the A. F. of L. unions called the strike will have to wait until the new national labor board assumes jurisdiction, Maj. John D. Moore, federal mediator, and Attorney Joseph Padway, labor counsel, agreed.

Weak Heart Complicates 'Daddy' Browning's Illness

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—A pulmonary ailment and a weakened heart complicate the condition of Edward West Browning, the real estate dealer, it was announced in a bulletin issued today by his physicians. Browning was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage on Friday and taken to the hospital yesterday. It was found that his left side was paralyzed.

ROB SOUTH SIDE HOTEL.

Two robbers escaped with $100 in a holdup of the Lakeridge hotel, 4665 Lake Park avenue, after forcing Maurice Milton, the clerk, and a bell boy to lie on the floor early yesterday.

DISCOVERIES TO SAVE WORLD, IS KETTERING'S IDEA

Not Started Yet, He Tells Rotary.

C. F. KETTERING.

Detroit, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors and foremost of the "practical scientists" speaking before the International Rotary convention today, said the world will climb from the troubles of its current emergencies on a ladder of new ideas.

"We're not finished, we haven't even begun," Kettering declared. "Its amazing how little we know. We know little about the elements, even about hydrogen which is the most simple."

Kettering's chief message to the Rotarians was to warn them not to avoid new ideas.

"You all have community problems at home," he said. "Perhaps you have not been approaching them right. Don't be afraid to tackle something in a different manner, just because it has never been done before."

Urges An Open Mind.

Through the brief and impromptu address ran the theme of forgetting the obvious and pinning hopes on an open mind rather than a mind which accepts the facilities and accomplishments of the present as static.

"We must recognize," Kettering said, "that we must continue to live in an emergency, or go some place. Wherever we go, we must start from here and we must start with a viewpoint detached from environment and credos.

"We are too prone to go by rules and rote, whereas all human development must be outside the rules. We are too prone to plan. I can make certain of the failure of any project by referring it to a committee of five to discuss its feasibility.

"I have never seen the automobile industry project the future for so much as two years. It was not planned; it grew in spite of planning. It grew because it was of value—and in that connection we discuss value as if it was as definit as a piece of rock. Value is not definit. If you purchase a theater ticket and believe you have seen a fine show, you get value received. If you think it is a rotten show, you have been gypped—though I have seen no show so bad that somebody didn't applaud.

Stay As We Believe.

"If we are to believe our accomplishments are static, we only maintain things as they are. We must use our facilities, but forget them insofar as constructive thought is concerned.

"We accept the radio as fundamental, and I have heard people say that radio has gone as far as it can. Why, we don't even know how light comes from the sun, and everything that moves is moved by radio energy from the sun. However, the sun gets no credit. We stick our thumbs in our vest and say how smart we are, but the truth is, we don't know anything. We don't even know why we can see through a pane of glass.

"We thought we knew all about water. Now we find there are two and maybe three kinds of hydrogen and of 300,000 listed organic compound, 90 per cent contain hydrogen. We have lacked imagination, and knowledge of what our accomplishments mean in relation to what can be done. If we acknowledge that we know nothing, and that the things we are so sure about are likely to be things that aren't so, we can begin to progress."

Rockford Banker Will Retire; 52 Years in Field

Rockford, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Andrew Gilruth, 74, vice president of the Illinois National bank here, will retire June 30 after 52 years in the real estate and banking fields, he announced today.

INDUSTRY ADOPTS DECALOG TO END BRAIN TRUST EVIL

Convention Warns: Guard Public and Freedom.

A decalog of business principles, designed to rescue industry from strangulation under the New Deal, was adopted yesterday by the Council of American Industry in convention at the Palmer house. The council is composed of executives of state, national and local industrial associations of the country.

The first article of the new creed strikes at the root of the evil of the New Deal, according to A. C. Rees of Salt Lake City, chairman of the council. It reads, "Every contract between employer and employé should safeguard the rights and interests of the general public."

In preparing codes, Mr. Rees charges, the New Dealers not only failed to reckon with well known economic laws but forgot the great consuming public.

Begin to See Blunder.

Mr. Rees attributed to employers with a share of the responsibility for this omission and urged them to assume leadership in reëstablishing peace in industries thrown into strife under the NRA.

"Unfortunately, many employers have given evidence of shallow and superficial thinking," Mr. Rees said. They have permitted themselves to make unholy alliances through deceptive promises of brain trusters of immediate financial gains. The absurdity of their abandonment of the consuming public in their codes is now beginning to dawn upon them.

"Many employers, as individuals, were captivated by the thought that price control would yield them long hoped for benefits. Employers who combined in this scheme of price fixing stigmatized other employers who refused to join them as chiselers.

Foes of Gougers.

"The fact is that these so-called chiselers were merely opposed to arbitrary price fixing and were willing and anxious to sell their products at a reasonable margin of profit. They felt they could not consistently oppose monopolies in labor if they, themselves, combined to promote a monopoly of prices.

"So, in truth, our much maligned chiselers are, after all, opponents of gougers in American industry. Attention should be turned to these gougers under the New Deal because they constitute the real menace to recovery."

The second outstanding principle of the creed, according to Mr. Rees, defines the obligation of the government to industry as "to preserve to the employés as well as the employers their constitutional freedom of contractual relations, guaranteeing to them their right to discuss and agree on all questions of mutual interest.

Expand Two Basic Ideas.

"Employers and employés must not delegate this sound economic principle to theorists, propagandists, politicians, or professional organizers," he said. "They must take the initiative together in bringing industrial peace and not leave settlement to brain trusters."

The other eight articles of the decalog, Mr. Rees explained, merely expand and define the two principle points.

Mr. Rees disclosed that a national campaign will be undertaken by the council on the creed to arouse leading citizens to grapple with the problem of industrial peace. The New Deal is failing, he asserted, and if action is not taken the security of industry will be further threatened.

Charges Many Crawfish.

"The New Deal is failing because it has widened rather than closed the gap between farming and industry, and because its policies have brought on a quiet, irresistible buyers' strike," Mr. Rees declared. "The strike is the answer the public is giving to the short sighted policy of brain trusters.

"The gougers are cudgeling their brains to find methods to rid themselves of agreements, contracts, and collusions with other elements that likewise attempted to capitalize the situation by demanding more money for less work.

"It is impossible even to approximate the staggering losses to employers, the workers, as well as the public, of the strikes and other disturbances now vexing the brain trust. Industrial leaders can no longer defer an attack on this wasteful menace with all its economic, social, and human applications."

The two day convention of the council closed last night. The next session will be held in Oklahoma City in the fall.

TWO ARE ACCUSED IN PASSING OF BOGUS FEDERAL CURRENCY

Ottawa, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Lewis Passarella, 35, of Chicago Heights, now in La Salle jail, was held to the federal grand jury by T. E. White, United States commissioner, today. He is charged with passing counterfeit paper currency at taverns in La Salle and Spring Valley.

Woman Also Is Accused.

Duquoin, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Federal authorities have transferred Saima Maigola, 42, a Chicago woman, arrested here on charges of attempting to pass a counterfeit ten dollar bill, to the Jackson county jail at Murphysboro. The man who was with her when she was arrested here escaped.

ALLMAN WARNS MERCHANTS OF FIREWORKS BAN

City authorities yesterday took a strong stand against the sale or storage within the city limits of fireworks. County officials, however, are permitting the erection of fireworks stands along the highways.

Police Commissioner Allman said he probably would repeat his order of last year which directed the police to warn all storekeepers that they will be vigorously prosecuted if caught selling fireworks. The order included a proclamation issued by Mayor Kelly, in which he urged Chicagoans to observe the Fourth of July safely and sanely.

The fire prevention bureau, according to Capt. Martin Carlson, has sent to all division marshals and chiefs of battalions the annual notice that it is unlawful to keep or store fireworks within the city limits, and that no building or location has been approved for such storage. The firemen were instructed also to see that the ordinance provisions are complied with.

U. S. TREASURY TAKEN OVER BY BRAIN TRUSTERS

Summer Overhauling Due from Professors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—A private brain trust of 15 college professors and instructors was today set up by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., to spend the summer overhauling the United States treasury, planning new monetary experiments and devising new taxes to saddle on the American public.

While Secretary Morgenthau himself retires to an isolated Montana ranch, his private brain trust will be given free run of the treasury. The professors and their satellites are empowered to pry into all policies and practices, paying especial attention to monetary and tax matters. Their recommendations are to pave the way for enactment of laws at the next congress.

Threat to Taxpayers.

Most serious threat to the American taxpayer is the fact that a special committee of three brain trusters is to be sent to England to study that country's income tax system, the most burdensome in the world. The English income levies, which bear particularly hard on small income earners, apparently are being considered as a model for future American laws.

A broad hint that the brain trusters will map a plan for the redistribution of wealth through taxation, long a scheme of the radical New Dealers, was contained in Secretary Morgenthau's formal announcement.

"The possibility of making use of revenue provisions as a business stabilizing device" was set forth as one of the principle objectives of the brain trust inquiry. In the absence of any official elucidation this phrase was taken to mean that the New Dealers will seek to stabilize business by redistributing wealth and purchasing power through heavy income and inheritance taxes.

Won't Tell Outcome.

Secretary Morgenthau, however, denied that he had in mind any sharp increases in taxes, saying merely that he could not tell in advance what the outcome of the brain trust investigation would be. He said he expected more attention to be paid to overlapping taxation than to increased taxation.

Nevertheless, the study of English income tax laws was taken by observers here to foretell a drastic remaking of the American income tax. Emphasis has been put on the study of British laws by the fact that Roswell Magill, Secretary Morgenthau's personal tax expert, heads the committee which is to sail for London. L. H. Parker, expert of the congressional tax committees, and Eldon C. King of the bureau of internal revenue are the other two brain trusters assigned to England for the summer.

The specific goals of the monetary and banking investigation were not revealed by Secretary Morgenthau. He said merely that both the gold and silver programs would be reviewed.

Prof. Viner Heads Group.

At the head of the 15 man brain trust selected by Morgenthau will be Prof. Jacob Viner, recently connected with the staf of the University of Chicago. Under him will be eight professors and instructors investigating revenue and finances. Six others will devote their time to money and banking. The English study is an independent branch of the program.

"We just wanted to open up the treasury and take a look at it from the inside to review its policies," Secretary Morgenthau explained to reporters after his plan had been announced. "I am new at this job, and I have been swimming with the tide. This summer I hope to catch my breath and look things over."

Plans Month's Seclusion.

Morgenthau, however, intends to retire to a secluded Montana ranch for at least a month of the summer.

The brain trusters on the financial and revenue study are Prof. Carl Shoup of Columbia university, Prof. Roy G. Blakey of the University of Minnesota, Prof. Malcolm Bryan of the University of Georgia, Prof. Henry F. Walradt of Ohio State university, Prof. K. M. Williamson of Wesleyan college; Reavis Cox and Louis Shore, instructors at Columbia, and Richard A. Lester of Princeton.

Those on the money and banking study are Prof. Harry D. White, Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis., and the following instructors: Lauchlin Currie, Harvard; Albert G. Hart, University of Chicago; Benjamin Caplan, University of Chicago, and Virginius Coe and Edward C. Simmons, Brookings institution.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Binks Is Outscrapped

June 26, 1934.

ON my return to the farm from the black bass country around Crivitz, Wis., I found that Binks, the scrappy little smooth haired fox terrier, had just engaged in one of those free for all scraps for which he is famous. In this case he mixed with a husky woodchuck. According to Paul Sleezer, official guide of the experimental farm, the woodchuck won the decision in the fight. His weight, to say nothing of his teeth, was too much for Binksy. The fox terrier is carrying a very conspicuous mark from this fight because his right forefoot is injured. The pup walks around favoring this paw, which apparently was severely nipped by the groundhog.

PAUL SLEEZER.

Paul Sleezer was on his way to the hydraulic ram when he was called upon to referee this fox terrier-woodchuck fight. He had several farm visitors with him, so they had free ringside seats for the fracas.

* * *

Mr. Sleezer is now on duty at the farm to show visitors around the place, explain the kinds of crops being grown as experiments, and also to point out interesting things. He can be found at the headquarters house. Road signs lead visitors to the headquarters house.

* * *

A census of our turkey population on the auxiliary farm reveals some interesting statistics. Of the 65 poults that have been looked after by Barred Rock hens, 57 are alive. They are doing remarkably well.

These hen raised turkeys [watched over by "foster" mothers] generally suffer from lack of food because the hens have a limited feeding range. But apparently the sheep around the place have helped the turkeys on their food problem, because the animals brought insects to the sheepfold and to the feeding lot where the noisy poults spend a good deal of their time.

All of the older woods turkeys raised by turkey hens are able to fly and roost now, so they are able to take care of themselves pretty well. There are 49 of these young poults around the farm, and one turkey hen that sneaked into the fields to hatch her clutch of eggs has just brought out ten more.

* * *

The ewes and lambs continue to demonstrate that they are the champion burdock consumers on the place. They just mow these weeds down with as much relish as a herd of cattle eats alfalfa. Just as soon as the sheep have waded through the burdock crop in one field they are moved to another, so that they can crop these weeds as much as they please.

That Wyoming Corriedale ram, destined to become the new sheep king of the farm, is still around the sheepfold, probably wondering what his new name is going to be. Readers continue to send in names for this handsome fellow, some of the suggestions coming from Ohio, Indiana, and Wisconsin, as well as from Illinois.

P. L. MacClintock of Bloomington, Ind., suggests that this ram be named Katahdin, after a famous historical ram. Clara Seineke, 4423 North Hermitage avenue, Chicago, says we ought to call him Dandy, because, from the description given of this fellow, "he is just that—a dandy new sheep."

[I plan to see the ram tomorrow. Possibly he and Rawlings, who looks after him, may have something to say on this name business!]

* * *

A heavy rain has helped the crops here on the experimental farm. It was a regular life saver to some of the test plots. Moreover, this rain slowed up the chinch bugs, although they are still with us in countless numbers. During the last few days the bugs have been moving out of the ruined oat fields and apparently are headed for the corn.

JOHNSON BALKS HARRIMAN PLEA FOR BLUE EAGLE

Insists Labor Clause of Code Be Obeyed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—The Harriman Hosiery company of Tennessee can remain closed as long as it wishes, forcing its workers into unemployment, but it must comply with the labor sections of the NRA laws before it again will be given the Blue Eagle.

That was the stand today of Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the NRA. He said he was more convinced than ever that the Harriman mills were breaking Section 7-A of the NIRA, and that he has gone as far as he could in compromising with that company over the removal of its eagle.

Says Business Is Lost.

The Harriman company has closed its mills and thrown its 653 employés out of work, saying that since Johnson snatched the mills' Blue Eagle they can not get orders enough to keep open.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight charged that the company's closing was merely an attempt to dragoon the NRA into returning the Blue Eagle. For the NRA to surrender to the company's attack would be "weak and impotent," Green said.

Meanwhile, the department of justice is moving with unusual slowness in prosecuting the Harriman mills for their alleged violation of laws and codes. Receiving the complaint of the national labor board against the company on April 7, the department did not until June 18 decide that the preliminary summary of evidence was insufficient to start a case against the company. Since then it has been sent a supplementary sheaf of evidence.

George Berry, a member of the national labor board and of Johnson's staf, however, said that he was still willing to meet with the Harriman managers as to reëmployment of certain employés who struck, if the company has any suggestion for clearing up the situation.

ASK EAGLE'S RETURN

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harriman, Tenn., June 26.—[Special.]—Employés of this small town's one large industry, the Harriman Hosiery Mills, appealed to Administrator Johnson of the NRA this afternoon to restore the Blue Eagle to the plant and thus to permit that factory's wheels to turn again. The plant was closed yesterday in protest against NRA tactics in a labor negotiation and 653 workers lost their jobs.

A committee of these workers addressed a telegram to the administrator stating they were satisfied with wages, hours and working conditions and that they "much prefer to be working than to be on government relief."

D. F. Steinbaugh, field representative of the Tennessee Emergency Relief administration, estimated that half of those who lost their jobs through the closing of the mill have to be supported by charity. The relief rolls now carry 150 families of striking employés, members of the Textile Workers union, which called a strike at the plant last fall.

The hosiery mills, one of the largest plants of its kind in the country, has been operating notwithstanding the strike and notwithstanding efforts of the NRA to impose union demands upon the management. In closing down yesterday T. Asbury Wright, attorney for the concern, charged the brain trust with cheap trickery, bulldozing and deception in trying to enforce their will.

In this city of 4,000 population, most of the conversation heard on the streets and in the stores was in sympathy with the stand taken by the mill.

Merchants commented that the closing of the factory will seriously affect their businesses, but they seemed willing to fight. Early in the battle between the mill and the NRA several of the store owners voluntarily hauled down their Blue Eagles.

Blame Beer Price War in Bombing of Tavern

County highway police at Willow Springs yesterday were investigating the bombing of Joseph Mejedly's tavern, 111th street and Archer avenue. He told police he believed business rivalry was the motive. He said that he had been selling three beers for a dime.

Ford Dealer Tells House Group of Offer.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Members of the house committee investigating the war department heard today of a collusive attempt to split up the business of selling automobiles to the government.

Testimony concerning a proposal to divide the profits from government motor purchases between the Ford, Chevrolet, and Chrysler companies was given by R. P. Sabine, the Bethesda, Md., Ford dealer who has been denied government contracts because of Henry Ford's refusal to sign up with the NRA.

Tells of Split Proposal.

The Ford dealer asserted that Norman K. Haig, director of government sales for the General Motors corporation, had proposed the split up during a meeting at Camp Holabird, Md., army automotive testing ground.

"Haig said he had had a belly full of selling automobiles to the government at cost," Sabine testified. "In the early part of this year he said he didn't see why it would not be possible for Chevrolet, Chrysler, and Ford to get together and divide up the business three ways, so they could all make a decent profit out of it."

"What was the outcome of the proposal?" demanded Representative Edward W. Goss [Rep., Conn.].

Refuses to Consider it.

"I refused to consider it and nothing ever came from it," Sabine declared.

He went at length into the troubles he has had since the NRA went into effect. Attempts by Sabine recently to win recognition of his lower bids by court action were defeated.

Sabine asserted that after Ford was barred from government business the bids of the Chevrolet and Chrysler companies showed a marked increase in price. With his attorney, F. Hunter Creech, the Ford dealer put into the record figures to show that the two rival companies had increased their bids by from $50 to $150 a car, while the disregarded Ford bid remained fairly constant.

Sabine admitted that certain war department officials had suggested that he had made fictitiously low bids, knowing he would not get the contract. But both he and Creech denied that this was so.

"At no time," said Mr. Creech, "have we submitted a bid to the government that wasn't made in good faith and in the hope of getting the contract."

Woodside Takes Issue.

J. B. Woodside, General Motors representative, also took issue with Sabine's testimony. He said that General Motors had not attempted to capitalize on the ruling out of the Ford company.

"As soon as it was learned that Ford would no longer be a competitor," he said, "an order was issued by the executive vice president of the General Motors corporation that no division of the corporation would take advantage of that situation. Any statement to the effect that the Chevrolet company or the General Motors corporation have increased prices since the Ford Motor company was declared ineligible to bid by reason of not having furnished a certificate to the effect that they were complying with the NRA is without foundation."

Winners Discuss Youth Problems

CHICAGO YOUTH WEEK TAKES ON YEAR AROUND JOB

Expand Activities to Aid Young Folks.

Five hundred representatives of parent-teacher groups, churches, social service agencies and various civic organizations unanimously pledged coöperation last evening for a continuation of the activity of the Chicago Youth Week federation. The meeting was held in the theater of the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street.

The various representatives were called together by the youth federation workers to inform them of what is being done for coördinated recreational, educational and athletic efforts among Chicago's young people. The meeting took form as a preliminary conference for planning an active program to begin next fall for a closely knit organization to direct youth activities.

Counselors Direct Work.

During the youth week this spring, the representatives were told, the federation established counselors in five sections of the city. Through these counselors churches, schools, playground groups, parents, and business men's clubs "cleared" their programs of activities for the youths of these neighborhoods.

So successful was this plan during the Youth week, said Mrs. T. B. Stephenson, vice president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, that it has been continued.

The time has arrived, Mrs. Stephenson said, for the work of these counselors to be extended, if all the organizations interested in the city's youth will join the movement. Coöperation was pledged by all present.

Leaders at Meeting.

Among those at the meeting were Supt. William J. Bogan of the public schools; Dr. P. L. Schroeder, director of the Illinois Institute of Juvenile Research; Dr. Frank N. Freeman of the school of education, University of Chicago; Walter Wright, president of the Chicago playground council; Edwin Ealls, chairman of the children's leisure time service, and Vernon L. Bowyer, administrative assistant of the civil works educational service.

Miss Jean Winter, winner of a Northwestern university scholarship during the Youth week program; Roy Soderlind, civic medal honor student from the public high schools, and Henry P. Chandler, president of the Chicago Youth Week federation, were among the speakers.

ROB DENTIST; LOCK HIM UP.

Dr. Frank Zubas, a dentist, was released from the washroom in his office at 4301 Archer avenue, where he had been locked by bandits, after three hours imprisonment early yesterday. The robbers took $200.

100 MILLIONS IS OVERHEAD COST OF NRA CODES

Industry Assessed for Administration.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Administration and policing of the national recovery administration's 458 approved codes during 1934 alone will cost industry, and indirectly through price increases for every commodity the consumers of the United States, the enormous aggregate of 100 million dollars. And this cost will be assessed annually so long as the codes are retained.

These were the statements of the national industrial conference board in a copyrighted report made public here yesterday. The basis of the statements, it was related in the report consisted in detailed budgets submitted by sixty-five code groups for various types of industry. From these sources the conference board auditors determined that the average annual administration cost for each code was approximately $181,000.

Nonrecurring Items Small.

In the first paragraph of the report the board explained that, "although these budgets in some instances include expenses incurred in connection with the formulation of codes, which will not appear in future budgets, the expenditures provided for relate in general to the code authority administration. Moreover, the incidental inclusion of such nonrecurring items is offset by the fact that in several cases the period covered by the budgets is less than one year."

The report continues: "The total annual expenditure represented by the sixty-four reported budgets amounts to $11,596,940, or an average of $181,202 for each industry. As an average this would appear that administration of the 458 approved codes, plus more than forty approved supplementary codes, would involve a cost approximating 90 millions of dollars a year. Approval of several hundred relatively minor codes still pending is expected to increase the cost to at least 100 million dollars."

Wide Variation in Costs.

In the budgets from which the estimates were made, it is related, there are wide variations. For instance, the mattress cover division of the light sewing industry submitted a budget of only $1,860 for the whole year, while the general contracting division of the construction industry's budget amounted to $2,750,000. It is improbable, the report states, that the average will be lowered, however, because the budgets of many important industries which are expected to be sizable have not yet been submitted.

Among the sixty-five budgets included in the report eleven were below $10,000, but four of these were to cover periods of less than twelve months. There were fourteen between $10,000 and $25,000; nine between $25,000 and $50,000; seventeen between $50,000 and $100,000; six between $100,000 and $200,000; eight in excess of $200,000, two of these last being in excess also of two million dollars.

Members of about half of the code groups whose budgets were studied are expected to contribute to administration costs on a basis of sales. Members of the other groups contributed on a basis of the total pay roll, on the quantity of production, or stock turnover.

CHILD'S STORY FREES MOTHER IN KILLING QUIZ

Mrs. Sadie Gregory, 36 years old, 4400 South La Salle street, was exonerated by a coroner's jury of blame for the killing of her husband, Anthony, whom she shot on Monday in their home. The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide after hearing the testimony of Mrs. Gregory's 10 year old daughter, Theresa.

Gregory, a bootlegger, had been drinking and beating her mother as far back as she could remember, said the child.

Mrs. Gregory testified that her husband struck her with a bottle and announced he was going to kill her "for talking to the neighbors." There was a scramble for the gun, she said, and she reached it first.

VICTIM IDENTIFIES ROBBER.

William Alexander, 18 years old, 7734 Drexel boulevard, who was arrested Monday in front of 845 East 79th street, was identified yesterday as a robber by Herbert Koehler, 27 years old, 5326 Laflin street. Koehler told police that Alexander robbed him of his automobile and $11.

CHICAGO TO GET 25 MILLIONS IN SLUM PROGRAM

U. S. Seeks to Buy 1,000 Congested Plots.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—A 25 million dollar chunk of the new public works appropriation has been earmarked for the construction of federal low cost housing projects in Chicago, it was learned today.

Although details of the proposed program for Chicago have not yet been disclosed, it was understood that actual negotiations looking to the purchase of suitable sites for housing developments have already been started by the public works administration. The government, it was reported, is now seeking to purchase approximately 1,000 plots of ground in the more congested areas of the city.

Public works Administrator Harold Ickes, it was understood, is planning to erect the housing projects with government funds and then to sell them back to the city of Chicago for 70 per cent of the cost. In this way the public works formula of a 30 per cent grant for construction work would be carried out.

Announcement in Week.

Mr. Ickes was noncommital today when questioned regarding the Chicago housing program. He stated that a number of proposed projects are under consideration by the PWA, but refrained from naming any of those likely to be approved. A formal announcement on the nature and scope of the program is expected, however, within a week.

According to Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], who conferred with the public works administrator, Mr. Ickes appeared quite favorable to a suggested housing development on the north side, in an area bounded by Chicago avenue and Division street, west of Wells. Mr. Ickes, however, declared that the north side project urged by Representative Britten is but one of several now under consideration by the PWA and that there is no certainty that it will be included in the prospective program. He added, however, that the area involved is "bad slum property" which should be replaced.

Mr. Britten stated that Cardinal Mundelein is interested in the north side development and has communicated with Secretary Ickes in an effort to obtain its inclusion in the prospective government housing plan for Chicago. Mr. Ickes, at his press conference, appeared to be uncertain as to whether the project urged by Britten was the same as that in which the Chicago prelate has shown interest.

Troubles Over Title.

In connection with the negotiations for housing sites now understood to be in progress, one official of the PWA pointed out that considerable difficulty is being encountered in Chicago and other cities with respect to obtaining clear title to the land. In many cases, it was said, the owners are abroad or cannot be located, and in other instances it is virtually impossible to trace the title. The negotiations for land in Chicago, officials said, probably will require eight or ten months longer.

The projected government housing developments in Chicago, as well as in other cities, it was reported, will be undertaken in coöperation with local housing authorities, probably with the definite understanding that the project will be taken over locally at 70 per cent of the cost after the government has completed construction.

A total of 2,793 notes representing $48,341.64 were returned to borrowers or destroyed yesterday in the Criminal courts building as the climax to a drive by State's Attorney Courtney to stamp out the loan shark racket in Chicago. State's Attorney Courtney explained the working of legitimate loan companies to the rescued borrowers before the notes were returned to them by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney.

The notes were turned over to the state's attorney by defendants in eight cases prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorney Kearney. The notes, which averaged $55 each, had brought from 300 to 900 per cent to the loan companies before they were driven out of business.

One of the borrowers told State's Attorney Courtney that he borrowed $10 seven years ago. After paying on the sum until shortly before the prosecution of the lender the man owed the company $50.

E. L. RYERSON JR. NAMED CHIEF OF COMMUNITY FUND

Edward L. Ryerson Jr. was chosen yesterday president of the executive committee of the Community Fund of Chicago, an organization which gathers contributions for the Allied Chicago Charities, Inc.

Fred A. Preston was made chairman of the committee to direct the annual fall drive for funds.

With Mr. Ryerson on the executive committee were chosen James H. Douglas, Clifford W. Barnes, Albert D. Lasker, and Victor Olander, vice presidents; Frank D. Loomis, secretary, and James R. Leavell, treasurer. The other committee members are Lester Armour, Ernest S. Ballard, H. A. Behrens, C. W. Bergquist, Kent S. Clow, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. W. L. Hodgkins, James S. Kemper, Sol Kline, Fred A. Preston, R. Douglas Stuart, and Elizabeth H. Webster.

2 Suspects Convince Police They Aren't Dillinger Men

Joseph Rappaport and Elmer Matsen, named in conspiracy warrants as members of the Dillinger gang, last night proved to police that they had no connection with the fugitive Indiana outlaw. They were held, however, because the police found a machine gun, a shotgun and pistols in their car when they were arrested Monday on the north side.

ATTORNEYS' CLASH HALTS HEARING ON T-N-T INDICTMENT

Hearing on a motion to quash the indictment against 14 defendants who are charged with conspiracy to extort $500,000 from business men through the trucking and transportation exchange [T-N-T], was halted yesterday by Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court to avert the possibility of physical conflict between attorneys.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson, who doubled as witness and prosecutor, became irked at questions put to him by Defense Attorney Joseph Harrington.

"I will prove," Harrington said, "that a few witnesses were presented to the grand jury. After hearing what they had to say, the jurors refused to indict. The true bills were returned after several assistant prosecutors told the jurors that if all the witnesses listed were called there would be facts brought out to constitute a crime."

Assistant State's Attorney Thompson, who was under oath as a defense witness, leaped to his feet with a shouted declaration that "nothing like that happened." The argument then became so heated that an adjournment was called by the judge.

TEACHER UNION BATTLES OVER STAND ON NRA

Delegates Delay Vote on Criticism.

After a spirited fight on the floor, the American Federation of Teachers, in convention at the Morrison hotel, yesterday delayed till this morning a vote on a resolution charging that employers are controlling NRA code authorities for their own interests and declaring that labor must place less reliance in the NRA as a solution of its problems.

The resolution, which further urges organized labor to refuse to serve on code authority advisory boards until labor is granted more recognition, precipitated a three sided battle. This was waged by the resolution's proponents, another faction which opposed too hasty action, and a group which considered the resolution too mild. Weary delegates finally halted debate after indicating that the resolution, with few changes, will be adopted today.

New York Group Opens Fire.

The proposal that the Teachers' federation criticize the National Recovery administration, as it is now being conducted, came from New York local No. 5, of which Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture and No. 1 brain truster, was a member until two years ago. The resolution was approved unanimously by the federation's committee on policy and was presented on the floor by G. D. Hargreaves of Grand Forks, N. D., secretary of the committee.

James P. Barron of Atlanta, a member of the policy committee, led the fight against the resolution, charging that he had not been notified of a committee meeting and was not present when the matter was considered.

The contested resolution asserts that "under the NRA the power of the federal government has organized employers into powerful trade associations dominated by the employer class," and that in many instances under the NRA labor has "by legal subterfuges been deprived of its legal and necessary rights to strike and picket."

Hits at Company Unions.

The resolution also condemns "the alarming growth of company unions," under the NRA.

"We urge," it concludes, "that the American Federation of Labor place less reliance on the NRA for furthering the interests of labor and instead concentrate on its own vigorous organization campaign."

CONSUMER PAYS FOR NRA DEFECTS, DOUGLAS CLAIMS

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—It is the consumer that suffers most from the shortcomings of the NRA, Prof. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago and members of the consumers' advisory board asserted tonight before the American Home Economics association convention.

"Since the advent of the NRA employers have gathered together in their code authorities and resolved that they are entitled to a full return on that larger or smaller portion of their capacity which under NRA rulings must lie idle," said Prof. Douglas. "The overhead losses are charged to the output end. This increase in prices causes a reduction in demand, hence a further increase in price, and the industry is forced down hill.

"For these causes the consumer is forced to suffer further unemployment or such a reduction in hours as will not permit him to earn a decent week's pay."

FRANCE REVOKES ORDER EXPELLING AMERICAN YOUTH

PARIS, June 26.—(AP)—After Patrick Connolly Walberg, 21 year old American, had packed his bags in preparation for being expelled from France, the French government decided tonight he could stay here.

The revocation of the deportation order came at the last minute, and Walberg knew nothing of it until the detectives he had expected failed to arrive in time to get him to the Belgian border by midnight.

Gaston Bergery, former deputy, in behalf of whose leftist organization Walberg was accused of engaging in street battles, said two deputies who were convinced of the American's innocence interceded on his behalf.

BOY, 4, INJURED BY CAR.

Evansville, Ind., June 26.—Bennie Wolf, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wolf, Evansville, is in the Deaconess hospital with a fractured skull received today when he was struck in front of his home by a hit-run driver.

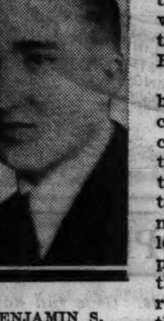
JUDGES TO NAME 3 NEW MASTERS; SELECTION MADE

Criminal Court Issue Incenses Jurists.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In addition to tackling the controversial question of Criminal court assignments, the judges of the Superior and Circuit courts will name three new masters-in-chancery when they hold their meetings Friday.



BENJAMIN S. ADAMOWSKI.

There have been no formal conferences concerning the selections but the custom of each judge to name his own master will be followed and it is reported that the three judges already have made their choices.

One of the places will go to State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski of the 25th senatorial district, it is reported. In two terms he has made a substantial record at Springfield. He will be nominated by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court to succeed John C. Lewe who was elected to a vacancy on the Superior court bench on June 4, observers believe.

Report Havard Is Choice.

Another master's seat was vacated at the same election by the elevation of Cornelius J. Harrington to the Circuit court. The latest information is that Judge John J. Sullivan now will nominate Charles H. Havard, a veteran lawyer, and a former master.

Adolph H. Easter, who formerly served as master by nomination of the late Judge Joseph H. Fitch of the Superior court but was not renamed following Judge Fitch's death, will resume his old powers through sponsorship by Judge Lewe, who succeeded Judge Fitch.

Incidental to inquiries into coming appointments there came disclosures of considerable repressed heat among the judges over the question of assignments to the Criminal courts.

Name Friend and Sullivan.

The names most frequently heard in connection with Criminal court assignments were those of Judges Denis E. Sullivan and Hugo M. Friend, neither of whom has seen but extremely brief service on the Criminal bench during their long periods of service.

It is denied emphatically that the demand that Judge Friend take his turn on the west side is connected in any way with a desire to "punish" him for permitting the reopening of the ballot boxes in the DeGrazio-Galvin contest over a Republican nomination for state representative from the 27th district.

The count of the ballots in five test precincts in that contest was completed yesterday and showed Joseph N. De Grazio, primary winner, lost approximately 210 votes. He defeated Representative A. O. Galvin, the contestant, by 4,122 to 1,856, however.

Former Judge Appointed.

Former Judge Charles A. McDonald was appointed a federal master in chancery yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Attorney McDonald served 13 years on the Superior and Appellate benches and retired in 1922 to become vice president of the Foreman National bank.

He has been in private practice since the bank was consolidated with the First National several years ago.

U. S. Agents Call Threat Note to Gettle a Hoax

Los Angeles, Cal., June 26.—[Special.]—A note demanding $6,000 from William F. Gettle, recently rescued kidnap victim, on pain of dynamiting his home and family, was characterized as a "hoax" and a crank note by federal operatives today. They said it was not regarded as a serious threat, but while search is proceeding for the writer Gettle's home and family was placed under guard.

Claims to Have Found a Virus as Cause of Mumps

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., June 26.—(AP)—Discovery of a virus responsible for mumps was claimed today by Dr. Simon Flexner, chairman of the state public health council and director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Mumps has variously been attributed to a virus, to bacteria and to spirochæta.

Woman Dies of Lockjaw Caused by Combing Hair

Sycamore, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Dorothy Kerr, 30, died today of lockjaw caused, according to a verdict returned by a coroner's jury, by "too frequent" combing of her hair. Two weeks ago she was burned when having a permanent wave. Combing irritated the burn, and she was sent to the hospital last Friday.

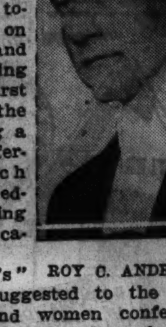
Business Leaders Discuss Careers with Job Seekers

Newark, N. J., June 26.—(AP)—"Work and wait," national business leaders advised the jobless college generation today.



ROY C. ANDREWS.

Ten successful business men pooled their suggestions at today's seminar on the "how" and "why" of getting a job—the first session of the new "choosing a career" conference to which leading college educators are acting in an advisory capacity.

The "dont's" and "do's" suggested to the 2,000 young men and women conference students were varied and emphatic.

"Don't be an explorer unless you can't help yourself," said Roy Chapman Andrews, director of the American Museum of Natural History and leader of the famous Gobi desert expedition.

"Don't," said James P. Warburg, vice chairman of Bank of the Manhattan company, "deliberate whether to enter the banking business. There is no banking business.

"Don't worry about social background as a business asset," asserted Bruce Barton, advertising executive. "If I could hire young Vanderbilt or Max Baer, I'd take Max Baer."

Urged to Sell Insurance.

"How will we get a job?" was a question asked.

"Walk," was the response from Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance company. Parkinson, however, saw in insurance a large and encouraging field for today's youth.

James D. Mooney, vice president of General Motors corporation in charge of overseas operations, said "intelligent encouragement" from Washington was enhancing the export picture, adding, "I can unhesitatingly assure you that you will find it a most satisfactory life's work."

Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company, in a message read to the conference, advised: "Make up your mind what you can do and want to do and go after it."

Advice of Rail Chief.

"1. When you have entered an employment which seems permanent, stick to it.

"2. Train your mind to think a problem through.

"3. Learn to size up an individual, strengthening the judgment as to with whom association is desirable.

"4. Keep in mind that success and distinction are rarely gained when monetary compensation is placed ahead of accomplishment.

"5. Learn to employ your leisure profitably."

Kermit Roosevelt, president of the Roosevelt Steamship company and a director of International Mercantile Marine, said shipping was not at present promising, but would be better.

Great possibilities of the food industry were expressed by Colby M. Chester, president of General Foods corporation.

THE PRESIDENT'S MOTHER SIPS TEA WITH KING, QUEEN

She Doesn't Bother to Preen; Just Goes.

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—Youthful in spirit as any debutant who ever walked up the palace halls to a royal court, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt had an animated visit with the king and queen of Great Britain today.

The mother of the President of the United States, visiting in England, went to Buckingham palace for tea.

There was so much to say and the hours flitted past so quickly she almost stayed for dinner. Mrs. Roosevelt might have done just that, but she had to return to the American embassy where preparations had been made for a dinner in her honor.

Makes Fine Impression.

As the 80 year old mother of the President left the private apartments of Buckingham palace, to which few visitors penetrate, it was said in official quarters that seldom has a stranger made an impression so gracious and friendly on this staid capital.

Unknown to her, the gentle old lady who talked to the king and queen about children and the President was being described "the most effective ambassador of goodwill ever sent to Great Britain by the United States."

It was a neighborly call, without the slightest suggestion of fuss or circumstance. Mrs. Roosevelt didn't even know she would hear from the king and queen.

But today their majesties sent a friendly note to the American embassy. They hoped the mother of the President would find time to come over to Buckingham palace, and they suggested tea.

No Preening for Her.

The suggestion fit into Mrs. Roosevelt's plans perfectly, and off to the palace she went. For her there was none of the preening, worry or study of court etiquet which precedes the usual presentation at Buckingham palace. She merely went out to tea, assuring the ambassador she would be back in time for dinner.

Her automobile was driven through the garden entrance of Buckingham palace, a gate customarily reserved for royalty, rulers of foreign states and close relatives of the royal family. She was taken immediately to the private apartments, where King George and Queen Mary awaited her.

Seldom, it was said at the palace, has a visitor come with such charming informality. Mrs. Roosevelt met the king and queen on common ground, and in a moment was talking to them as if they were old friends.

The queen and Mrs. Roosevelt, both mothers and grandmothers, did most of the chatting over the tea, King George sitting back and listening.

DROWNED BOY IDENTIFIED.

The body of a boy, found Sunday in a water filled clay hole at North avenue and River road, was identified yesterday as that of Joseph Olei, 2317 76th court, Elmwood Park

NRA PLANS SPREAD OF EAGLE'S WINGS OVER ALL AVIATION

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—The NRA reported plans today for spreading the Blue Eagle's wings over every part of the aviation industry.

Hearings on a proposed code for the commercial aviation industry were set for July 10. This part of the industry—as distinguished from the air transport and aircraft manufacturing industries which already have codes—covers all nonscheduled, fixed base flying activities and all phases of airport operation.

Pilots would be limited to 100 flying hours a month. Licensed transport pilots would have a minimum wage provision of $20 a week.

T. B. INSTITUTE HELPS 10,000 IN 5 MONTHS OF '34

During the first five months of 1934 the twenty-two registered nurses of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute made 8,731 home visits, gave 881 persons nursing care and 9,432 persons instructive care, according to a report made yesterday by Mrs. Hattye K. Palmer, supervisor of the nurses.

The program carried out, Mrs. Palmer asserted, included instruction in home care of the tuberculosis sufferer and advice on proper sanitation and personal hygiene.

"It is the nurse's duty," she said, "to help the healthy person stay healthy, as well as to care for the sick. One of the most important phases of tuberculosis work is the correction of physical defects that might lead to tuberculosis."

GAMBLING LID IS CLAMPED TIGHT ON NEW ORLEANS

Fine Hand of Huey Seen in Political War.

New Orleans, La., June 26.—[Special.]—Gambling houses which for months have run wide open, catering to devotees of all kinds of games of chance—dice, roulette, faro, and what have you—are closed tighter than a drum today, and no one knows when they will reopen. The doors were slammed shut after midnight Monday on orders of city police. This followed a tip that detachments of state troops had assembled at Jackson barracks and would be ordered out to clean up the parish of Orleans.

Long's All for It.

Gov. Allen in Baton Rouge today said he had nothing to say regarding the calling out of troops. Senator Long said, "If I was in Allen's place I'd have the troops out and stop gambling in New Orleans pronto. Walmsley has boasted that he's running a wide open town. I think I would show him that he can't get away with it."

At Baton Rouge Senator Long seems to be in charge. Mayor Walmsley, who was there, said: "If the senator is so concerned over the welfare of the people of New Orleans, why doesn't he close up the gambling houses in Jefferson and St. Bernard parishes?"

They Run Wide Open.

These two parishes are on the other side of the city, really being a part of it, and so far are paying no attention to the closing in New Orleans. All places are running wide open. The political powers that be in St. Bernard and Jefferson are ardent supporters of Senator Long and always return him tremendous majorities.

All New Orleans is guessing as to what further steps Senator Long and Gov. Allen will take to punish the Walmsley machine in New Orleans now that they, temporarily at least, have shut down gambling. In the meantime heavy detachments of troops are still in barracks at Jackson barracks at the lower end of the city subject to the call of the governor.

PARKER SCHOOL NAMES OSBORNE TO BE PRINCIPAL

Raymond Osborne, for 26 years on the faculty of the Francis W. Parker school at 330 Webster avenue, known as an outstanding private school, will assume the principalship on July 1, according to an announcement yesterday. He succeeds Miss Flora Cooke, principal of the school since its establishment in 1901.

A new system of increased tuition to render the school self supporting, announced early this year, is reported to be receiving a good response from parents. Although tuition which ranged from $180 to $300 annually is now from $300 to $550, enrollment for the coming school year already totals 350. Last year there were 485.

Mr. Osborne said that the school would continue on the same basic principles and fundamental ideals which won it national recognition. Mr. Osborne received his M. A. degree at Yale university. Since 1926 he has been serving as assistant principal.

EX-TEACHER POINTS TO PASTOR AS MATE; HE DENIES WEDDING

San Antonio, Tex., June 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Wineta Long Welburn, former Sunday school teacher, seeking a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty, identified the Rev. William S. Welburn as the man she married last July. He has denied this.

She then told of their meetings, before the marriage, most of them in the parsonage of the church where Welburn was pastor.

"I became suspicious," she said. "I told Bill about it and he said he guessed we'd have to go to Mexico and get married. I told him, 'O, no, you won't have to do that for me.'"

Mrs. Welburn testified that, after a conference with her mother and sister, it was agreed a marriage ceremony would be performed at Boerne. They were married, she said, at Boerne last July 25.

"The last time he saw me was about Oct. 13, 1933, one month before the birth of the baby," she testified.

The plaintiff based her charge of mental cruelty on the ground that the minister had denied before his congregation he had married her, and denied he is the father of the child. The defense has said it will show some one inpersonated the pastor.

N. Y. WILL CURB SUNDAY LIQUOR SALES AT BARS

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—The sale of alcoholic beverages at bars, restaurants, and hotels in New York City will be prohibited Sundays between the hours of 3 in the morning and 1 in the afternoon after July 1, when the new state liquor law goes into effect, according to Edward P. Mulrooney, chairman of the state alcoholic beverage control board.

The sale of liquor daily under the new law will be prohibited in New York City between 4 and 8 o'clock in the morning, as under the old law.

Pepper Leads in 35 Counties; Behind by 4,738.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 27 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Although Claude Pepper was leading in 35 out of the state's 67 counties, Senator Park Trammell early today still was out in front for the United States senatorial nomination by a margin of 4,738 votes on the basis of returns from 1,180 of the state's 1,288 precints in yesterday's Democratic run-off primary.

At this stage of the tabulation the vote was: Pepper, 91,916, and Trammell, 96,654.

The two candidates began their political careers in Florida after their early education and training in Alabama, where they were born in nearby counties.

Trammell started as a clerk in a store at Tampa, was admitted to the Florida bar in 1899, and became mayor of Lakeland the next year. After serving as a state legislator and attorney general, he was elected governor in 1913. In 1917 he first went to the United States senate.

A farm boy, too, Pepper worked in steel mills in Alabama to help him through the university. He next studied law at Harvard and for a time was professor of that subject at the University of Arkansas. In 1925 he moved to Perry to practice. He has served a term in the state legislature.

CLOSING IN ON CRIME.

The uncovering of a formidable and apparently highly successful conspiracy to collect insurance for incendiary fires marks another step forward in Chicago's campaign against organized crime. The chief credit is given to Lieut. John L. Sullivan and Sergt. Thomas Kelly for skilful investigation developing a slight clew. With all praise to these officers we like to regard this achievement as evidence of a competence and morale in the police department which has been increasing and we are hoping represents something permanent in the government of Chicago. Men like Lieut. Sullivan and Sergt. Kelly have natural abilities which produce striking results when permitted to operate freely. When honest and competent members of the force are conscious that the force is not considered an agency of corrupt politics, but that they may expect loyal support from superior authority in the performance of duty, they very quickly raise the level of police efficiency. Mayor Kelly and his police commissioner have toned up the regular defenses of the community from crime. Together with State's Attorney Courtney's notable administration this community is getting an enforcement of law against organized crime which is making history. No great city in America is moving more effectively toward the overthrow of the forces of crime than Chicago. This the community should recognize and insure its continuance by emphatic and unfailing support of the officials who are leading this advance.

INHERITANCE OF WEALTH.

The recent erotic or marital adventures of several daughters of the very rich do not lend much support to the privilege of inheritance. The hard working average American finds it difficult to see why an irresponsible youth who comes by a great fortune by accident of birth should have its disposal while giving every evidence of his or her unfitness to control it to any good purpose.

Instances which raise this question frequently involve international marriages and it is interesting to note that American dollars seem to buy less in this field of enterprise than they used to. They formerly bought titles or positions of considerable value as such values go, ranging as high as an English duke, than which there is supposed to be nothing more desirable in the market of social ambition. Countesses, baronesses, princesses, even mere ladyships in the aristocracies of western Europe express understandable social values for the socially aspiring. But of late the enterprise of fortune hunters offering nothing of real quality has been astonishingly successful. Large if late fortunes have been put by callow American girls, the spoiled darlings of foolish parents, into the keeping of foreigners whose titles belong in musical comedy if anywhere.

The explanation of course is that the earlier alliances were made by Americans who had enough acquaintance with Europe to discriminate, whereas the later ones have not. New riches have no means of testing the quality of the article purchased.

However, this is not an important aspect of the question of inheritance. That wealth must be disposed of when the accumulator dies is obvious. How is neither obvious nor easy to determine. That it should be taken by the state would satisfy only communists. The right of parents to make reasonable provision for their children is recognized by every one not communistic. Any law of inheritance in a free society will allow for fair provision for dependents. But in most instances where the accumulation is great a good part of the estate would remain for disposal. We think the principle or policy of inheritance might be broadened to include those individuals who have contributed to the making or maintenance of the fortune to be disposed.

Excessive taxation of inheritances is justified by its advocates on alleged grounds of social justice, but the redistribution of wealth which it accomplishes has very little to commend it either as justice or public policy. When a large part of an estate has to be liquidated to pay taxes, the prices of securities held by many individuals having no relation to the deceased are forced down, banks may be forced to sell holders out, and at best the way is opened for speculators to buy control of the property, which in the case of a great industry or business is likely to result in serious loss and injustice to old employés who have given years loyally to the upbuilding of the business.

The problem is complicated and difficult but it is probably not beyond solution. Testators have experimented and the results have not always been desirable. Yet experiment should continue, for only in this way can the experience essential to wise legislation be acquired. Certainly it would be better for most young inheritors to save them from the temptations of too much money, and there is a justice, which ought to be earnestly sought, in a fair distribution to individuals who have helped to create the wealth amassed.

JUDGES AND THE CONSTITUTION.

The judgment of members of the legal profession upon the qualifications of candidates for judicial office has properly been given special weight by voters as being based on special knowledge. If bar association recommendations have not always been believed to be wholly disinterested they have been in the great majority of instances followed and have been a necessary counter to influences which if unresisted would have been destructive to judicial integrity and a calamity to the community.

On questions of professional service and qualifications the practitioner is obviously better able to judge wisely than the layman, but there are general considerations of public welfare which the lay public must consider in its own behalf. In the coming campaign, for example, we think responsible citizens must take into serious account and try to elicit from all candidates their attitude toward the maintenance of constitutional principles. One recent appointment to the federal judiciary is a reminder of the reality of this issue and the appointment raises again the question whether the intentions of the political forces in power at this time are not for the deliberate subversion of the American form of government.

The effort to belittle and obscure this issue should not succeed through shortsighted partisanism, and in our community, as in every other in the land, loyal citizenship should be on its guard for the defense of our institutions. Laws representing departures from American doctrines and inconsistent with American conceptions of private right and public welfare have been passed and will be presented for judicial interpretation. The courage and loyalty of judges will be tested as they seldom have been in our national experience. If the American heritage of liberty is to be preserved it will be very largely the result of judicial loyalty and intelligent defense of constitutional principle. This service should not be left solely to the courts of highest instance but belongs to the whole American judiciary.

THE CANAL IS REALLY OPENED.

There will be no outpouring of oratory or special decorations when the Mississippi river and gulf towboat Florine pushes two loaded barges through the loop on the Chicago river today, but the event will really be more significant than the grand opening of the Illinois waterway a year ago. This tow, entirely businesslike in appearance, marks the first through movement of commercial freight from New Orleans to Chicago via the completed Mississippi-Illinois river and canal system.

The newcomer offers the economies of water transportation to barge load trafic at contract rates in no way related to standard rail rates, but based on cost of service. The success or failure of such ventures will prove or disprove the value of the investment in our southern canal connection.

A GOOD FAILURE RECORD.

Business mortality figures show that Chicago is one of the most prosperous places in the country in which to do business. Only $544,700 was tied up in debts of concerns which failed in the month of May. In that same period New York enterprises went down owing $4,128,718, Philadelphia failures had liabilities of $549,400, and Pittsburghers went to the wall with $1,530,900 on the sooty cuffs of their creditors. In such cities as Detroit and Los Angeles, both less than half the size of Chicago, failure liabilities were nearly as large as in Chicago. Even in Buffalo and Newark, where live but 526,000 and 467,000, respectively, business debtors closed up with aggregate debts of $526,066 and $467,694, only slightly smaller than the month's figure for this city of 3,376,000. The record for succeeding months should be even better, with millions being spent in Chicago by Century of Progress visitors.

CONCERNING PRECISENESS.

A literate contributor to Vox Pop would correct the prevailing idea that the battle of Waterloo was fought at Waterloo. As a precisian he asks that it be fought twelve miles south of the village of La Belle Alliance. The unprecise will have their own way with the sanction of the scholarly. The Vermont town of Bennington has resisted for years the assaults of accurate persons pointing out that the battle of Bennington was not the battle of Bennington but of a creek over in New York. All Bennington saw were the wounded, the prisoners, and the victors. Nevertheless it was the battle of Bennington and there's the monument to prove it. Any one who successfully contradicts this must lift the monument. It's a big one, granite, and a hundred feet high or more. While it stands the battle was of Bennington.

Shiloh was the battle of Pittsburgh Landing. Shiloh, the little chapel, did not see much of it. The few houses at the Landing saw a great deal. It wasn't Bunker's hill. It was Breed's hill. Prescott chose the lower location on the slope for his redoubt. The battle of Concord was fought, running, on the pike. King's mountain was fought in the foothills. A fellow with a measuring stick would say Gettysburg was fought in the hills. Why not Cemetery Ridge?

The battle of New Orleans was fought at Chalmette or Chalmette's plantation, and the battle of Hastings was the battle of Senlac. What is Hudson seal, where are the amines in vitamines, and why is German silver or alligator pear?

Editorial of the Day

[Lafayette, Ind., Journal Courier.]

The old suggestion, that America take islands in lieu of debt payments in money or goods, has bobbed up again. If you wish to get a rise out of England, propose that she trade in Jamaica in payment of the debt. Then, if the British rejection of the idea puzzles you, study the map. Jamaica was grabbed in 1851 or thereabouts by the British. The Clayton-Bulwer treaty had been signed. That pact barred England from seizing territory in this hemisphere. In those days several weeks were required to complete ratification of a treaty. History records that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was in effect five days before Britain flew her flag over Jamaica. Yet, rather than go to war over the violation of the new treaty, the United States suffered the flag of England to continue to flutter at Kingston. So it was, as you may see by your map, that England established herself, early, and with foresight, in close strategic relation to the Isthmus of Panama. As it has turned out, the mouth of our interoceanic canal is commanded by the British naval and air base on Jamaica. So there will be no offer by England to apply Jamaica on the debt she owes to Uncle Sam.

SUMMER RECIPES. Films from Hollywood complained of as being quite naughty may be readily cleaned and purified so that they will not harm any one at all who still cares to see them. First they should be soaked all night in turpentine and then dried and sandpapered. They may then be coated with whitewash for three days, after which they should be carefully peeled and bathed in any good antiseptic solution. After carefully drying overnight they should be sprayed with nux vomica and attar of roses, in equal parts, and then run through a rinsing machine. If they still have an unpleasant odor they should be taken out in the woods and buried for two weeks. If, after this treatment, it still remains necessary to clamp a clothespin on the nose, they should be dropped down an unused coal mine and left there for ten years.

INVITATION.

Something around me waited for the night
The world grows dark at last; the great, soft black
Is lapping up my room and in its track
Something is coming, making me aware,
Inviting, whisper-voiced. I am to share
All that is lovely in this full, young night:
Visions, since life began, withheld from sight,
Space without end, adventure void of fear,
Freedom that holds earth boundaries despised,
Swift ecstasy of things immortalized.
Indulgent, warm, my foolish body keeps
Its calm routine and safely, dully sleeps;
Rejecting, free, we swing into the skies,

"SCIENTISTS SAY Love to Blame for Most Suicides."—Headline. Can't scientists ever get the idea that some of us may get awful tired of hearing about toothpaste over the radio? Or paying all we've got over to the income tax and all the other tax collectors? Or reading about where the socialites are going to spend the summer? Or being soaked five bucks a bottle for blended whisky? Or, oh, there are other things than love that make one look yearningly towards the seventeenth story window.

THE FIELD MUSEUM has received some lovely bronzes of horses. Which ought to be a great help to this generation who have heard about horses only in bedtime stories told 'em by grandma. A horse, children, was what they used in place of gasoline in the old days. Horses were hitched to buggies and drew people around the streets. They traveled at about five or six miles an hour, which, of course, wasn't very fast when we're accustomed to hitting it up to seventy or eighty in our gasoline carriages today. Horses, dear children, were not as meek and long suffering as automobiles. When his driver got rough with his horse in the old days, the intelligent animal often hauled off and gave him a swift kick in the pants. When we see the way drivers abuse their cars these days, not looking after their brakes or their steering gear or seeing that they do not run into somebody else's gas buggy, we feel very sorry that they have not great heavy iron horseshoes on such as the horse used to have and that they do not haul off and give their owners, especially if they are drunken drivers or hit-and-run drivers, a good hefty kick in the pants. Yes, gas buggies run faster, but they will never be equal in some ways to the horse until an inventor puts iron horseshoes on 'em and teaches 'em to kick.

"FOUR ABC'S Stay Out of Cuban Cabinet."—Headline. How nice of the Cuban ABC's to stay out. Can you imagine any of our alphabet boys, NRA, AAA, CWA, CCC, or any of the rest of 'em, staying out of anything? Oh mercy, no!

IT LOOKS NOW as though we would vastly exceed all previous years in the number of fatal automobile accidents. It's been as high as thirty-two thousand, but pooh, that isn't anything compared to the way the death rate from cars is being shoved along these days. Ah, how soft the dwellers in the invaded states during the Civil War had it after all. And those French peasants who lived in the shell torn regions during the great war really dwelt in security and comfort compared to those of us alive today (touch wood). If I yearned to reach a grand old age (which I don't) I would enlist in the army. The trouble is that we may not have a war where I could feel safe, for in peace times of course a soldier has no more chance than the rest of us. What a sweet, dreamy sort of existence it must have been to those who dwelt in Gettysburg during the w. k. battle there! Or Shiloh, Vicksburg, or Antietam! All they had to dodge were bullets and shrapnel. Which was simplicity itself compared to dodging a drunken driver, or a lunatic driver. Or one of those wild animals that weave in and out in the heaviest traffic.

What a sweet fruitful place,
Is your body, your voice, your face!
A garden, where a magical summer lingers.

Softly furred,
And faintly spiced.
Here, the curved languor
Of pears, with their pale
Pastel pleasantness.
Here, the passionate
Purple of plums,
The piquancy of bright
Sturdy apples . . .

How ripe, and fruitful of good, all these,
In the magical summer of this place,
Your body, your voice, your face!

IS CANCER CURABLE?

The word cancer to most of us carries a horror of a lingering, painful illness and inevitable death. Much hope of a substantial character has, however, been injected into the cancer picture through popular education on the subject and a wide dissemination of information about the disease. The question, Is cancer curable? may be answered in the affirmative provided the growth is detected in its early stages and before it has spread to inaccessible portions of the body. We have gained much of our knowledge of the nature of cancer through the efforts of laboratory investigators, clinicians, and workers in the field of X-ray and radium.

Secrecy is the greatest enemy to early recognition of the disease. Fear that the doctor will pronounce the growth cancerous prompts many to hide the condition, nursing the hope that the lump will disappear or that the sore will heal. The early signs of cancer must be recognized and must guide an intelligent public to seek competent advice and adopt prompt curative measures.

There is no single cure for cancer in all its forms. No vaccine or serum has been developed that will stop the growth of cancerous tumors and render the patient immune. Early removal of the cancerous tissue or tumor is indicated as promptly as possible after its nature has been recognized.

The exact cause of cancer has not been discovered. We do know, however, that heredity, injuries, and irritation play a positive rôle in the development of the disease. The tumor that sooner or later characterizes cancer is caused by the rapid increase of certain types of cells. These cells do not obey the normal laws of similar cells elsewhere in the body. They are wild cells that have in a sense run amuck.

Persons between the ages of 40 and 50 should be particularly alert to the early recognition of cancer growths. Men at this age are not so susceptible, but during this particular decade a woman undergoes a transition in her physical life that apparently predisposes to cancer. Cancer developing in the later ages in both sexes is not so malignant as that developing earlier in life. In the decade between 25 and 35 the disease is usually of short duration and the death rate is high.

The following suggestions are offered with the positive knowledge that their observance will save lives and prevent suffering:

Any sore on any part of the body, particularly the mouth, that fails to heal within a normal period.

Any irritation, soreness, or growth of a mole, whether pigmented or not, or any evidence of bleeding about such parts.

Any unusual female discharge or irregularity of menstruation.

Any lump in the breast, no matter how small, or any discharge from the nipple, particularly if this discharge is bloody.

Any tumor or abnormal growth in any part of the body.

Any discharge of blood from the rectum. This may be due to hemorrhoids or other causes, but investigation should be made.

Injuries to the uterus as a result of childbirth sometimes prove favorite locations for the development of cancer. A careful examination should be made to determine the presence of such injuries, and, if found, prompt repair should be undertaken.

A prominent gynecologist has recently stated that because of better education and understanding on the part of the public 75 per cent of cancers of the cervix that now come to him are sufficiently early to be completely eradicated.

FOOD AND FAT.

F. C. writes: I am one of those very fat people who never eats anything. I tried spasmodically and unscientifically to reduce for several years, but I failed because I was continually kidding myself about the amount of food eaten. I decided that I had a glandular malfunction and thus I explained my failure to myself. I went along fat, jolly [I had to be to have any friends], compensating for my lack of attractiveness by hard study and slightly unusual scholastic achievement. When I tried for my first job only the fact that I had such a college record got it for me. I weighed 265 pounds and am 5 feet 2½ inches tall. That was in the spring of 1930. That summer I lost a few pounds because food was not accessible at all hours of the day and I couldn't quite make up for it at meal time. In the spring of 1931 I had a complete going over, including endocrine study. There was nothing wrong and the immense overweight had done nothing to kidneys, heart, or blood vessels. A strict account showed that I was consuming about five or six thousand calories a day. I went on a diet of about two thousand calories, which was further reduced during the next three months to sixteen hundred, and finally to twelve hundred. I had protein, carbohydrates and fats in a 4-2-1 ratio. Exercise was not increased because I had always been very active. I have not only kept substantially on that diet but have no desire to overeat. I can admire nice looking food and get as much satisfaction from a bite as from a large amount. This morning I weigh 153 pounds. I am still a large woman, but the difference is remarkable. I am firm and strong and my skin is clear. I have lots of energy and endurance. However, I did not quite escape paying the fiddler. I had a gall bladder drainage and incidental appedectomy last July. Of course, my friends, especially the fat ones, said that was the result of reducing. It was not. The weight reduction made operable a condition that was the result of overweight.

Last summer we received a girl into our training school who was 16 years old and weighed 222 pounds. She was the typical hypopituitary, hypothyroid type with low metabolic rate and hypertension, enormous long bones, huge feet and hands, dry skin, and coarse hair. An examination showed the rest of the picture to run true. The intelligence was less than border line. She was given a complete examination in a fine clinic and a growth of hormone was recommended. There was also amenorrhea. The girl was drowsy, slow, and without any spark whatever. Because of our isolation I refused to use the growth of hormone as I felt I was not qualified to interpret anything that might go wrong. To make a long story short, we enforced a diet similar to mine, but allowing a few more carbohydrates because of her age and stage of growth. This morning she weighs 162 pounds and looks like a different person. She has done better school work, is more alert, and less introverted. The menstruation is normal and the whole personality has undergone a marked change. The intelligence is still rather low and the bony structure has not changed, of course, but the skin is clear and the hair soft and shiny, and she walks like a child instead of an elephant. I thought these two cases might be interesting as presenting an uncomplicated case of overweight and a case complicated by glandular imbalance, both helped by the right diet.

TRUST DEED.

Dundee, Ill., June 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About six years ago four children, all of age, sold a piece of property, half cash down and the balance in five years or before. 1. The title was held in trust by a bank in Chicago. The mortgage was not paid. Instead of foreclosure, [2] the bank deeded the property back to one of the four sellers. 3. Has he the sole right to rent and make a lease for rentals? For over a year he has been collecting the rent and divided same. Insurance papers are in his name. Has he, as trustee, this right? A. B.

1. It is not clear whether you mean that there was an ordinary trust deed as security for mortgage notes [being practically a substitute for a mortgage], or that the bank actually held the legal title under an act of trust.

2. Under the ordinary form of trust deed, substantially the only function of the trustee is to execute a release when the debt is paid. Your speaking of the bank deeding the property back implies that the original transaction was unusual and we should have the wording of the deed before advising you.

3. We cannot advise to advantage without having the facts before us. If you cannot ascertain the facts yourself, you should employ an attorney to investigate them.

LIMITATION PERIOD ON NOTE.

Chicago, June 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1920 I sent $500 to my father in Michigan and he sent a note promising settlement of same when his property was sold. No interest was mentioned. He signed his full name, but did not have it witnessed. 1. Does this have any legal standing? 2. Could it be placed on record at the courthouse of the county in which the property is located and made binding? C. D.

1. The Michigan limitation period is six years. Hence your rights would be barred by lapse of time unless the period has been extended by a part payment or a new promise.

OMNIBUS CLAUSE.

Chicago, June 11.—[Friend of the Insured.]—I have been told that all automobile policies contain an omnibus clause which covers any one riding in my car. What is this clause, and do all policies have it? J. T.

The omnibus coverage provides that the policy shall insure in the same manner and under the same conditions as the policy holder is insured (unless otherwise stipulated) any other person or persons while riding in or operating any such automobile, and any person, firm, or corporation legally responsible for the use or operation thereof, if such use and operation is with the permission of the named policy holder, but this omnibus coverage shall not be available to any automobile repair shop, garage, sales agency, or service station, nor to any agent or employé thereof. It is important to remember that in case of accident and claim under the policy the insurance company first satisfies the policy holder's liability and the remainder, if any, to satisfy persons, firms, etc., entitled thereto. This important clause is included in most public liability policies, but there are some policies in which it is still omitted.

THE RETAIL OPTICAL CODE.

Chicago, June 22.—On Wednesday, June 20, The Tribune had a news item stating that some of the State street stores, and merchants in some other cities, were protesting the retail optical code, which became effective June 18. There is nothing new contained in their protest. The brief submitted by the opponents of the code was the same as that submitted by them before the NRA in Washington months ago, and after careful investigation by the NRA officials it was rejected in its entirety. The opponents of the code would have you believe that they, while "numerically few, actually transact the majority of the optical business done annually." This is simply one of their extravagant claims which did not stand up under the investigation by the government. It was found that those who oppose the code actually do less than 10 per cent of the optical business done in the United States. These figures are from the government records. These objectors make it appear that two large manufacturers have joined in a monopolistic scheme to use the NRA to extend their monopoly over the retail optical business. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The code of fair competition for the retail optical trade places a ban on misleading advertising and all types of bait practices. It requires the use of lenses of first quality and forbids the sale of inferior, what we might term junk lenses. No optometrist of any repute, nor any optical establishment which valued the welfare of its patrons, would use anything but lenses of the first quality, any way. Nor would the average glass wearer buy second quality or junk lenses if he knew them to be such.

The advertising of a definite price for a complete pair of glasses is obviously bait, as there is no way to guess how much it will be necessary to charge for a pair of lenses until the needs of the eye have been determined by a careful, painstaking examination. After careful investigation, the government recognized this fact fully and as a protection to the public forbade in the code this type of advertising, holding that it was bait, pure and simple, designed to get the suckers in. The government found that in spite of the claim of underselling, the actual price charged in bait price advertising establishments was fully as high as, if not higher on the average than, the charges made by reputable, responsible eye examiners, and that the quality of the lenses and mountings, on the average, was infinitely lower.

GEORGIE PREFERS ICE CREAM.

Chicago, June 23.—My mother gave me a dime, so I go out and buy an ice cream cone. I am here in the house eating it now. There are some boys out in the street with firecrackers. A boy just lighted a big one and threw it, but wait—it didn't go off. He looks disappointed. There he goes over to pick it up. And wowie! I am going out to see how bad he is hurt and also to buy another ice cream cone. Georgie Davis.

BICYCLISTS' RIGHTS.

River Forest, Ill., June 22.—There would not be any bicycle problem if the average motorist did not have the idea that the streets and roads belonged to him. Why should the motorist feel antagonized because bicycle riders use the streets and highways?

If your correspondent, Mr. E. C. Schroeter, had any sense of fairness he would know that the bicyclist has as much right to the use of streets as the automobile or truck driver. The automobilist seems to think that the streets are made only for him, and if the bicyclists, pedestrians, and children are in his way all he has to do is blow his horn and then he has the right to run over them.

The writer of this article has driven a car for over twenty-five years and finds it no trouble to slow up when there are children about. It causes a delay of perhaps a few seconds, but what difference does it make if you arrive home a minute earlier or later?

A few months ago a little girl on roller skates was crossing the street just ahead of my car. The writer thought what would happen if she fell in front of the car and immediately slowed down for her to pass. As she crossed she did fall and as she did so she turned her face in agony in my direction expecting to get killed, but what a relief when she found out I had stopped! Had I run over her it would have been an unavoidable accident.

The truth of the matter is that most accidents are avoidable. An automobile has a lot of power, but the driver should use it with more caution and common sense. Max P. Rieger.

DISHING IT AND TAKING IT.

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—In your editorial of June 16 you say "Mr. Ickes can dish it out to Mr. Simpson, but when Mr. Simpson does the dishing Mr. Ickes shows a certain incapacity to take it." I think that statement could be applied correctly to The Chicago Tribune. When Mr. Ickes called The Tribune on the carpet The Tribune howled as loud as any.

I don't think power has gone to Mr. Ickes' head, but I do think he has a knowledge of the dignity and prestige that go with his office and rightly so. After all, wouldn't you, Mr. Editor, be proud to be secretary of the interior, and, as such, wouldn't you take pains to see that false statements weren't published against you?

In my estimation, Mr. Ickes could have gone further and stated that lately the whole Chicago Tribune is a cock and bull story and still not be stretching the truth. Virginia Lindgren,

HORSE.

Oak Park, Ill., June 21.—Undoubtedly many other people were as disgusted as I was this afternoon at 4:30 when a mounted policeman rode along La Salle street, near Van Buren, and kept jerking at his horse's mouth until the animal was almost frantic. The same thing has happened frequently on Quincy street at the Federal Reserve bank, at 8:30 in the morning. Edna T. Cowell.

FARMERS FIGHT FLOODING LANDS FOR TVA PROJECT

Alabama Dam to Hit No. Carolina Residents.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hendersonville, N. C., June 26.—[Special.]—In the fertile valley of the French Broad river near here, farmers of old colonial stock are eying with belligerency the Tennessee Valley Authority, which proposes to drown their ancestral homesteads to make a reservoir for the Muscle Shoals dynamos more than 360 miles downstream in Alabama.

As part of its $350,000,000 seven dam program to set up a "yardstick" for electric power and to establish a planned economy and government regulated society in the Tennessee valley, the TVA proposes to build a dam on the French Broad river. This stream is a tributary of the Tennessee.

Will Cost 30 Millions.

According to Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, head of TVA, the dam is to cost 30 million dollars, including payment for the land put under water. It is to be possibly 125 feet high, and the present proposal is to build it on a site a few miles south of Asheville, N. C. The TVA idea is to use it to store water, which in low season will roll down river, over the Morris dam, and then on to the Wheeler dam, thence over the Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals to create electrical energy.

The valley here, which would be used as a natural reservoir, contains between 50,000 and 70,000 acres of the fattest land in the mountains. Some 6,000 people are on its farms, many of them descendants of frontiersmen who came here in the days of the Watauga settlements. Farming is diversified, much garden truck is raised.

Protest to New Dealers.

Residents of the valley have blood in their eyes. The French Broad Valley association was organized last fall to protect against any flooding of the valley. It sent delegations to TVA headquarters in Knoxville. They returned with reports that the TVA would give them ample notice for hearings, if it contemplated the project. The association says the first notice they got was when Dr. Morgan testified in Washington that TVA plans to start on all the dam projects.

Glenn Marston, a farm owner, secretary of the association, says some of the land produces special crops worth $200 to $300 an acre a year. Poorer land raises $18 to $20 of crops. "This is the finest land in west North Carolina," he says. "We hold that the TVA cannot demonstrate that this fertile valley is worth more for storing water for electric power than it is for farming. The government is spending millions in some sections to reclaim desert lands, here it proposes to inundate the finest valley in the Blue Ridge."

Valley folks say they cannot understand why their ancient landholdings should be put under water, in order to provide the cabins of mountaineers with electric cook stoves, lights, and iceboxes. In the hills it's against the code to put ice in the moonshine, anyhow.

Would Be City of Dikes.

Surveyors, however, have been running around squinting through their instruments, and valley folks are getting all het up. Hendersonville itself, a town of some 5,000, the protestors say, would have an artificial lake on three sides and would have to be diked off from those waters. They hold that would kill the town, which has quite a resort trade, as the storage reservoir would go up and down in water level, as the water is needed, leaving a fringe of stagnant pools at low water.

"We'd take a shotgun to them if we dared," said Grandma Osborne, referring to the government surveyors. "Four generations of my folks are in the cemetery yonder. I kain't imagine what we'd do if moved from our homes."

Mrs. T. E. Osborne, 66 years old, lives in a 125 year old frame home with seven rooms and six fireplaces. She was born there.

Share in Nation's Wars.

She was quilting on the rose bordered veranda when Hal Foust, TRIBUNE automobile editor, approached her.

"My great-great-great-grandfather," she said, "came from north Ireland to America in 1732. My folks have been in all this country's wars. You'd think we'd have some rights to our own property.

"The way TVA threatens to take our homes reminds me of what happened to my mother during the civil war. Troopers put pistols to her head to take the family's gold."

A mile farther down the road THE TRIBUNE car turned into another driveway shaded by giant oaks. There a gray haired woman was sprinkling flower beds before a house with tall pillars and stone chimneys, a dignified structure, although paintless and with sagging porches. In the rear a man with slouch hat and overalls was sitting with his wife and two young boys as the fading pink on a western mountain ridge gave glow to a full moon rising from the east.

"They can't compensate us for the loss of our homes," the farmer said, "even if the government paid us a fair valuation for our acreage. My grandfather came here in '63. I was born here, and after going to college and serving in France I've come back here to rear my family."

Asked about this date of '63, he related that Joseph T. Lee, 53 years old, after losing two plantations and his slaves at Charleston, intrusted old Johnnie, a Negro servant, with a bag of gold to make his way through a lawless, war torn country from the coastal city to buy these 105 acres in the mountain valley.

"If this land is necessary in a development for national defense I'll surrender my home," said this farmer, L. L. Burgin. "It certainly isn't needed for cheaper electricity. I have a radio, electric lights, irons, etc., and my bill from a private utility averages only $1.50 a month. The only justification for this TVA expenditure of millions, with resultant tax increases, is that we are preparing for war like the rest of the world and need nitrates for explosives."

Another Glad to Sell.

"You have a neighbor since 1922," said Mr. Foust, "who told me he'd be glad to sell to the government for $125 an acre."

"You know you wouldn't," her husband remarked quietly, and she agreed with him. "We had a boom here in '26 and I was offered $400 an acre. There haven't been any sales hereabouts for years and I haven't any idea of present sales values.

"You'll probably be able to find some others who would be willing to sell to the TVA, but they're newcomers [such as those neighbors of only twelve years]. They've moved before and they're willing to move again. But none of the old stock here wants to move."

SHAPE PROGRAM FOR ADDITIONS TO CAMP ALGONQUIN

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A program for improving Camp Algonquin, on the Fox river near Cary, operated as a summer haven for city children and their mothers in need of rest and country air, and supported largely by readers of THE TRIBUNE, was outlined yesterday at the annual meeting of the camp board of directors.

The program, which would include erection of several new buildings but would not anticipate enlarging the capacity of the camp, was described by George R. Carr, chairman of the summer outing committee. The improvement is to be accomplished over a period of years.

A map of the camp as it would appear under the new plan was shown at the directors' meeting, the largest ever held there, Mr. Carr said. Several members saw the resort for the first time. Among these were Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Francis R. Dickinson, and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed.

19 Directors Attend.

Others at the meeting included Harold White, Mrs. Guy W. Phelps, D. M. Deininger, auditor and controler of THE TRIBUNE; Joel D. Hunter, general superintendent of the United Charities of Chicago, which operates the camp; Miss Florence Nesbitt, assistant general superintendent, and Mrs. Astrid Save, superintendent of Camp Algonquin. Nineteen persons attended.

"In former years we have criticized ourselves for having no definite goal for improvement," said Mr. Carr. "We have one now. We can work toward total fulfilment of it gradually. We want none of the natural beauty of the 43 acres of woodland destroyed. In the plan which has been drawn up no artificiality is involved and a chief factor is the preservation of the forest growth."

The map was drawn and a report accompanying it made out by Franz Lipp, landscape architect. Listed among developments are a new administration building to include a groundkeeper's house and a recreation hall for social workers; a chicken house; a library near the present hospital and an open shelter for music, picnics, and dancing adjoining the great play meadow in the lowland area.

Proposes New Pool.

New tennis courts and a new swimming pool and a wading pool also are planned. Even recreation grounds for the camp cooks are included in the proposed plan, and numerous campfire and council rings under shelters have been introduced.

Mrs. Save outlined some immediate needs of the camp, including six dozen teacups and caucers for use at mothers' evening party gatherings, 12 baby cribs, sand box toys and toys for nurseries and the nursery school, all of which Mrs. Reed offered to supply.

Only a few of the 340 persons in camp, of whom almost 40 are college girls and boys who act as counselors for board and room, were visible as the tour of the camp was made. Mrs. Save explained that they were on picnics or hikes, were boating on the river, or playing ball.

MOTHER AWAITS CHAIR OF DEATH; ASKS CLEMENCY

Ossining, N. Y., June 26.—[Special.]—A young mother of three small children paced restlessly in the Sing Sing prison death house here tonight. She prayed that executive clemency may save her from the electric chair, where she is scheduled to die Thursday night.

MRS. ANNA ANTONIO

Mrs. Anna Antonio, 28 years old, was convicted on the charge that she had plotted the death of her husband, Sam Antonio, to collect his insurance.

Joseph Murphy, who was convicted of murder in the "Mike" Malloy case, also is scheduled to die on the same night. All four will be taken to the death chamber on that night unless executive clemency intervenes.

Every visitor to the death cell is a new hope to Mrs. Antonio, who pleads for some news which will stay the executioner.

"Surely, somebody will help me; they must," she begs as each person passes her cell.

If the state exacts the death penalty she will be the first woman to die in the electric chair here since Ruth Snyder was electrocuted along with Judd Gray for the slaying of her husband in 1928.

LAWYERS URGED TO PROTECTION OF CONSTITUTION

The United States is facing a struggle to determine whether a written or an unwritten constitution shall be the principal factor in government, declared Dean Edward T. Lee of the John Marshall Law school last night. Dean Lee spoke at a celebration of the school's thirty-fifth anniversary, held in the Blackstone hotel.

"Lawyers," he said, "must fight for the constitution, for a system of checks and balances. Temorparily the checks and balances are not working because the legislative and the executive departments of the government are in control of one party. But the checks and balances will work again. When they do their operation may mean slow progress, but it will mean safe progress."

Dean Lee in humorous vein spoke of the honorary degrees which American universities are conferring on government officials and of the fulsome praise poured on the recipients by university presidents.

"But men are not to be rightly measured by what they do in the good old summer time," he said. "It's the degree conferring season."

Chicagoan Loses Life in Hobart, Ind., Crash

Henry A. Dodd, 30, 4225 Addison street, was killed last night when his car collided with that driven by Ernest Aftlund of Chesterton, Ind., at the intersection of Indiana 6 and Hobart avenue in Hobart, Ind. Dodd was dead by the time he reached a hospital in Gary.

Fisherman Drowned When He Falls Out of Rowboat

Fred Benda, 45 years old, a restaurant owner living at 1412 Gunderson avenue, Berwyn, was drowned yesterday when he fell out of a rowboat while fishing in Blufflake, three miles from Antioch. Witnesses on shore saw Benda, apparently leaning over the side of his boat to fix his bait, fall into the lake. Before they could go to his aid, he had climbed back into the boat. But as he stepped over a seat his foot caught and he again pitched over the side. He sank before rescuers arrived. The body was recovered.

Mrs. McLean Defies Ill Omen; Wears 'Hope' Gem

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—With the fabulous Hope diamond suspended on a diamond link chain from her neck, Mrs. Edward B. McLean, former newspaper publisher of Washington, defied the supposed ill omen of that stone when she sailed today with 430 other passengers bound for a 37 day cruise of the North Capes, via Rekjavik, Iceland. Asked the worth of the gem, Mrs. McLean told reporters she had been offered $1,000,000 for it and had refused the bid. She was accompanied by her son and daughter, and they will leave the cruise at Southampton and remain for a time in England.

CONOCO
AND GET THE MOTOR OIL OF GREATER LUBRICATING QUALITIES—WITH THE LOWEST RATE OF CONSUMPTION
CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST
AAA SANCTION NO. 3001
P-R-O-V-E-D!

These facts should help you decide which motor oil to buy to protect your motor and prolong its life . . .

MOTOR oil is very expensive, regardless of price, unless it fully protects your motor from wear and has a low rate of consumption. There is a difference in oils of various brands—but the greatest difference is between all other brands and New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. This new and remarkable oil has two to four times the vitality, or film strength, of any other mineral oil on the market—much less carbon and sludge effect—and an increased oily penetration, called the "Hidden Quart that stays up in your motor and never drains away."

To convince you of the value of these new features, New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Oil competed against five quality brands of oil in the first and only test of its kind ever made. This test was held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway under the supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

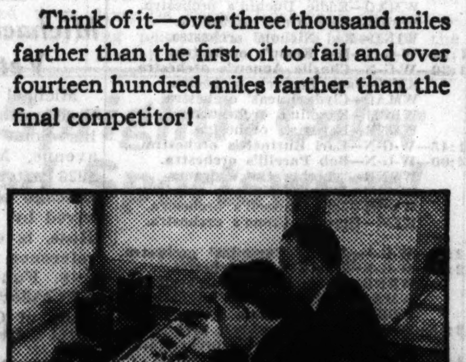
Six new, strictly stock cars and six different makes of oil of the same S.A.E. grade were used. Five of these motor oils were nationally known, widely advertised leaders. The other one was New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. The oils were assigned the cars by the drawing of lot numbers. Each car was carefully broken in with the oil it was to test, then drained, and a complete fresh fill of five quarts was put in each and the crankcases sealed by an AAA official. No more oil was added.

A dramatic test was ready to begin—all starting equally and driven an average of 500 miles a day at 50 miles an hour—normal driving conditions—until their motors refused to operate and were wrecked.

On the fourth day, Oil No. 4 cracked up its motor at 1,713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 was next to fail at 1,764.4 miles and Oil No. 5 at 1,815.9 miles. A day later, Oil No. 1, at 2,266.8 miles, leaving only one contestant against Conoco. The two cars speeded on until at 3,318.8 miles, Oil No. 3 burned out its motor.

Alone, New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil sped on for two days more. On the tenth day, at a total of 4,729 miles, a connecting rod finally went out!

Think of it—over three thousand miles farther than the first oil to fail and over fourteen hundred miles farther than the final competitor!



Mileage and all final details were checked by these two AAA officials. Electrical timing instruments were used.

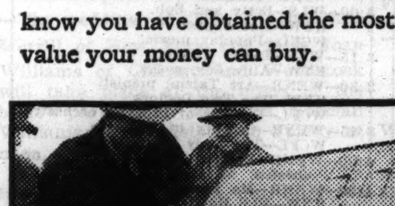
Here are the representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

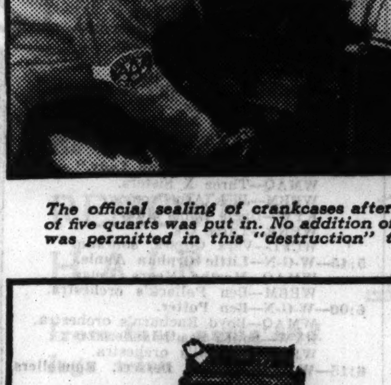
CONOCO

The "Hidden Quart" had won—the greater film strength had won—just as it will win for you in providing better protection and lower oil consumption. Drive into a Conoco Station or dealer, fill with this remarkable new oil, and know you have obtained the most in oil value your money can buy.

Five quarts of each brand of oil of the same S. A. E. grade from measures checked by the Bureau of Weights and Measures, State of Indiana, were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.



The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in. No addition of oil was permitted in this "destruction" test.



These were new motors before the test. Close examination will show how each was wrecked when the oil it contained failed to lubricate. They were wrecked to prove to you how to protect yours.

Warning TO NEW CAR OWNERS . . .

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results indicate that it gives them greater protection against damage than straight mineral oils.

Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.

Pittsfield, Mass., June 26.—(AP)—Photos of a stroke of lightning, which bounced up and down 10 times between the earth and a cloud, although to the eye it seemed a single flash, were made public here tonight.

The lightning was caught in a storm here this month by a camera film traveling a mile a minute, made by A. P. Loomis of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., and operated by General Electric engineers.

The first stroke was down, fairly bright, and considerably forked. It appeared to grease a pathway in the air for what followed. This "grease" was ionization, a chain of air particles reaching from cloud to earth, all so highly electrified that they probably made an air column more conductive than the best copper wire.

Chase Each Other.

For a millionth of a second after the first stroke the film was dark. Then down the ionized airway a thin dart of electricity shot from cloud to ground. As it faded a streak of fire shot upward a tremendously heavy stroke traveling from the ground to the cloud.

Eight times more this was repeated. Each time a thin dart shot to the earth and a heavy blaze responded, streaking up to the cloud. All lay in the identical ionized air path.

The downward darts traveled at speeds ranging from about 2,800 miles a second up to around 7,500 miles. The big upward strokes showed speeds of 14,000 to 23,000 miles a second.

Composition Is Doubtful.

The light downward strokes are called "leaders." Whether they are real darts or just long thin lines of electricity is in doubt. The picture evidence at present indicates they are more dartlike than anything else.

The Pittsfield pictures supplement photos taken in South Africa by Dr. B. F. J. Schonland. He found the leaders and that some of them traveled nearly five miles from cloud to ground. In nearly all his pictures a leader preceded a main stroke. At Pittsfield, however, there was no leader ahead of the first flash. Also this first flash was the only one which forked.

ARTISTS PROTEST BAN ON NUDES IN OUTDOOR EXHIBIT

Park Board's Ruling Under Fire.

The ruling of the south park board that no nudes may be shown in the third annual open air art fair of the Chicago Artists' Equity association evoked protests at a luncheon meeting of officers and patrons of the Equity yesterday. The art fair will open a 12 day season Saturday on the Congress street plaza in Grant park.

Gilbert Rocke, a founder of the Equity association, charged at the meeting that the park board's action was a "smoke screen" behind which the board is trying to attack socialistically inclined artists. He declared that the board members themselves are not opposed to nudist pictures.

"They think that by making such an edict, they will hit all the communists," he said. "Well, they won't. The Equity no longer has anything to do with the adventurers who had charge of our first fair and made a racket of art—a racket from which everyone but the needy artist profited."

264 Artists Registered.

Most of the 264 members of the Equity have registered to exhibit in the outdoor show. If the restriction against nude paintings and sculptures remains in effect, a large proportion of their work will have to be withdrawn, the artists said.

Ben Meyers, artist-lawyer, who heads the Equity's legal committee, stressed the fact that the association is ordinarily an organization for protection rather than protest. He said, however, that the ruling of the south park board has raised an unavoidable issue.

"In getting the permit to have our fair there," he said, "we got a permit allowing the fine-minded police of our city to judge our art exhibits. The ruling refers not only to nudes, but to all pictures that they call objectionable—they being the board members, who are merely glorified policemen, a more clever type of politician. When they think in terms of allowing policemen to be art critics of a no-jury show, then I say that we have an issue to face."

"You might as well say no jury as no nudes," declared Tud Kempf, sculptor. "I've registered to exhibit in the fair, but how am I, a sculptor, to get out and exhibit my work under the ban when nine-tenths of the sculpture in the world is nude?"

Confidence that the ban would be lifted was expressed by Mrs. Frank G. Logan, charter sponsor of the Artists' Equity, whose husband is honorary president of the Chicago Art institute.

"I'm going right down and talk to the park board again," Mrs. Logan said. "I know them all well. I'm sure they will be fair."

President Roosevelt's voice will be impersonated during the broadcast of Columbia's "Twenty Crowded Years," a dramatic cavalcade of the events since the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand at Sarajevo on June 28, 1914, to be presented in sixty crowded minutes tomorrow evening. The broadcast begins at 7:30 with WBBM the local outlet.

At the White House it was explained yesterday that broadcasts may use impersonations of the President's voice when they are definitely of historical nature. This has been the rule since the "March of Time" was ordered to desist from imitating the President's voice.

In the Columbia broadcast William Adams, who played Roosevelt's part in the "March of Time," will be cast as the President, Ray Collins as Herbert Hoover, Stephen Fox as Woodrow Wilson, and Gene Leonard as Capt. Schwieger, commander of the submarine that sank the Lusitania. The voices of many other notable figures will be recreated during the hour.

Four studios will be utilized in presenting the highlights of twenty years in this comparative capsule of time. Scores of actors, voice impersonators, sound effect experts, and dozens of musicians will contribute to the show. Howard Barlow's orchestra will provide musical background.

The program was well on toward its final rehearsals when revolt flared anew in Cuba, thereby forcing the script writer to tear his continuity up and revise it to make room for the flareup.

Conceding the Cubans a right to revolt if they choose, the producer was reported to have complained at the thoughtlessness of "starting an outburst like that just on the eve of an important broadcast."

President Roosevelt will broadcast another of his fireside chats from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow from the diplomatic room of the White House. The President will review the work of congress.

Karl Krueger, conductor of the Kansas City Symphony orchestra, has been selected as the first guest conductor for the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which will begin broadcasting from the Swift bridge at the Fair Sunday over W-G-N-NBC. Mr. Krueger will take the baton from Eric DeLamarter after the first week. Mr. Krueger conducted the series of Opera Intime at the Palmer house last season for Olivet institute under the chairmanship of Mrs. Howard Linn.

Ruth Easton, young radio actress, who stole the show from Richard Barthelmess in "Spring Song" in the last Vallee variety program, is considering several Hollywood offers as the result of her performance. . . . Ferde Grofe, who bolted from Paul Whiteman a while back to organize his own orchestra, starts a CBS series at 11:30 p. m. tomorrow. . . . Xavier Cugat, the carioca maestro, sailed yesterday for Spain. He will broadcast from Madrid. Expects to return to the airways from New York in September and make America beghin [that's a dance] conscious. . . . With Harold Stokes still in the hospital, Roy Shield is conducing the orchestra on NBC's morning Carnival.

Henry Frankfurter Dies Aboard Elevated Train

Henry Frankfurter, 59 years old, 4912 Kenmore avenue, an attorney at 100 North La Salle street, suffered a heart attack while on an elevated train yesterday while going to his office and died a short while later. A fire department inhalator squad was unable to revive him. Frankfurter, who had been practicing law in Chicago for the last 37 years, is survived by his widow, Addie S., and a daughter, Mrs. Carl H. Martini.

PAUL WHITEMAN'S MOTHER DIES IN DENVER AT 68

Denver, Colo., June 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Elfrida M. Whiteman, 68, mother of Paul Whiteman, orchestra leader, died today in Presbyterian hospital after a long illness.

As a child Mrs. Whiteman had an unusual voice. When she was 15 she met Prof. Wilberforce J. Whiteman, then a young teacher at Bedford, Ia., where she was born. She took lessons in singing from him and they were married Dec. 14, 1883.

Later they moved to College Springs, Ia., where Mr. Whiteman was head of the music department of a college. Then they moved to Greeley, Colo., where Whiteman was director of music in public schools until 1890, when he accepted a similar position in Denver schools. In 1924 he retired because of poor health.

SON LOSES RACE.

Summoned to Denver by the grave illness of his mother, Mrs. Wilberforce J. Whiteman, Paul Whiteman, his wife, and 10 year old son arrived in Chicago yesterday afternoon from New York, only to hear that she had died. The Whitemans will leave for the west this morning. They will return Monday. Paul's father was for many years superintendent of schools at Denver.

Society Sees Sculptures of Noted Animals

Herbert Hazeltine Greets Preview Guests.

BY JUDITH CASS.

HORSES, which engrossed society's attention at the Lake Forest horse show on Friday and Saturday and again on Monday when Arlington opened, were the center of attraction again yesterday afternoon at the preview of the sculptures by Herbert Hazeltine that Marshall Field III. has presented to the Field museum.

Horses are not the only domestic animals in the collection of British champions that Mr. Hazeltine has reproduced in bronze and marble, for there are sheep, cows and pigs, but it was the sturdy Percherons and graceful race horses that were the most admired yesterday by the dozens who attended the preview.

The ladies' choice, so Mr. Hazeltine said, was the Percheron mare, Messaline, and foal, in Bardiglio marble, but the men seemed to stand longest in front of the case containing the handsome stallion, Sudbourne Premier, done in bronze plated with gold and ornamented with lapis lazuli, ivory and onyx, reminiscent of those days of booming stock markets and such extravagances as Cartier ornaments for horses.

Artist Greets Preview Guests.

Mr. Hazeltine and his son, Marshall, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field were there all afternoon, greeting the guests, most of whom lingered long in the cool white room. Mr. Hazeltine and Marshall are here just for a few days and then the former will leave for his home in Paris and Marshall will go back to Harvard to attend summer school. He has two more years at the university which conferred an honorary degree on his father last week.

The attractive Hazeltines, father and son, have been entertained greatly during their stay in Chicago and were the guests of the William H. Mitchells in Lake Forest over the week-end.

A few of those who admired the sculptures during the short time this reporter was there were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and her guest, Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham of Honolulu, who was just passing through the city on her way home from Paris; Mrs. Clifford Rodman, one of the Stanley Fields' stunning daughters; her brother, Joseph N. Field; John P. Kellogg, Mrs. Laurence Robbins, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson and her daughter, Miss Joan Ryerson; Mrs. John V. Farwell III., and Mrs. George Senseney.

Tell Engagement of Marion McKinley.

The announcement made yesterday by Mrs. Anthony McKinley of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marion McKinley, to William J. Sennott Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Sennott of Evanston, was a surprise to nearly all of Miss McKinley's friends.

Miss McKinley is well known to Service club members and audiences for her dancing and singing, for she has had prominent rôles in club revues since her debut in 1930. She is a graduate of the University School for Girls and a member of the Junior league. She also is a fourth generation Chicagoan, for her great-grandfather, Eliot Anthony, settled here in a house on La Salle street in 1842. His son, Charles E. Anthony, Miss McKinley's grandfather, lives here.

Mr. Sennott is a graduate of Loyola. Miss McKinley will go east on July 11 to join her mother for the rest of the summer. The wedding will take place here in October.

Another engagement announced yesterday is that of Miss Louise Heuer of Davenport, Ia., to John Booth Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardnar Stevens of 1500 Lake Shore

Admonition.

YESTERDAY was the birthday of Thomas Coyne, head partner in Alfred L. Baker & Co., La Salle street brokerage house, and office associates came to work bearing gifts. There was a baseball marked "Champion" and a variety of toys of the five-and-ten cent variety. One of the games Mr. Coyne received was a set of jacks, the child's game played with a rubber ball. As he was unwrapping this gift, Mac, the corner police officer, strolled in, and, seeing the jacks, challenged Mr. Coyne to a game. The broker took him on, and La Salle street pedestrians about 11 o'clock yesterday morning were treated to the sight of the broker and the corner officer sitting on the curb playing jacks. We report that Mr. Coyne took the copper for a cleaning.

WE respectfully present the following as the nicest story of the week: The other evening a sweet-faced elderly woman boarded the Chicago and North Western 5:17 train, followed by a porter carrying a heavy suitcase. He deposited it on the seat beside her and assured her, in answer to her question, that there would be a redcap at Davis street, Evanston, to carry it off for her. Apparently she was still worried about the matter, for she consulted the conductor about it when he came by, and then, as the train approached Evanston, leaned over to ask two dignified Evanstonians sitting across the aile if they thought there would be a porter at Davis street. They said they believed so, and obligingly managed to give her the right change for a dollar, so she would have change to pay him.

The train stopped at Davis street, and the old lady peered anxiously about.

"Where can that redcap be?" she fussed. One of the Evanstonians who had changed the dollar said he would see about getting one for her.

"Wait a minute. Here comes a man who can take care of you," he said, indicating a man coming down the aile. Then, stopping him, he said:

"Here, Fred, here is a lady who needs some help." Then to the old lady: "He will see that you are taken care of. He is president of the road."

A VISITOR from London tells the story of the American who was a guest in London's smart military club, the Cavalry club. A hard bitten old major looked over the American and said:

"Which war? 1776 or 1812?"

A WOMAN drove her own car with a motorcycle escort for the first time in Chicago Sunday—at least so the police say. She was Mary Anderson and the escort was in honor of Prince Mikhail Goundoroff, the young Russian prince here with a display of Russian imperial treasure to be on display in Chicago during A Century of Progress. Miss Anderson drove the prince and his secretary, Haskell Coffin Jr., son of the portrait painter, from the Blackstone to the home of Donald Forbes-Robertson, son of the British celebrity of the theater, who lives on Addison street.

MIMI AND SANDY, the two young children of Nicholas Holmson who are with him in Lake Forest this summer, waved their nurse off to church last Sunday morning. She was a new nursemaid, and there were elaborate good-bys. As she was going down the walk, Mimi dashed to the door for a final farewell.

"Have a good time," she called politely.

City Designers Score Triumph in First Show

Fabrics and Styles Please Visiting Buyers.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

An unqualified success was chalked up last night by the Chicago Wholesale Market council in its initial demonstration of the materials and designing talent available in this metropolis for the manufacturer of apparel. The pre-season fabric showing held at the council headquarters, 371 West Adams street, attracted 450 textile buyers from the midwest area and presented them with proof positive of the chic and the quality of garments designed and manufactured here.

Applause started as the first of the coterie of Chicago's prettiest mannequins stepped into the spotlight from behind silvered gauze curtains. It continued on a rising crescendo until the last of the dazzlingly garbed bridal party that comprised the finale had disappeared from the runway. There is no doubt, officials said, that the enthusiastic approval given this original effort of the council will result in establishing it as a regular event.

The sensation of the evening proved to be the creations of Ernest Newman, the only free lance designer represented in the showings, whose gowns were entered by two concerns. Other designers were listed under their company names, sometimes representing a group. No garments were shown, however, that were not designed and made by Chicagoans.

One of the most spectacular of the Newman creations was a black Chantilly lace dinner gown worn by Gay Hayden. A four inch deep fringe of black cellophane that girdled the high neck and extended out onto the shoulders of the tightly fitting long sleeves stamped it instantly as a favorite. The skirt was toe length and rippled into a suggested train at the back.

Another of a silky white lace, displayed by Ada Woolfe, drew gasps by reason of an array of iridescent artificial plums arranged as a choker about the neck and a white cellophane braid outlining the V décolletage. A deep godet of pleated white net was set into the center front and touched the floor.

Cleo Spohr modeled a third, a chartreuse transparent velvet on daring lines. The halter neck bodice dropped away to an exaggerated back décolletage extending below the waistline, but a cowl draping of the velvet, swinging from the shoulders, lent both grace and chic.

The majority of the fabrics included in the showing confirmed the report of more elaborate and richer materials for fall. Lustrous satin in jewel tones was prominent, and laces brocaded with metal threads. Velvets are due for a tremendous vogue, apparently, in street dresses as well as negligees, several of which were modeled.

Reports Silk Loaded with Lead Causes Illness in Rat Test

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Rats wearing silk which had been treated with lead to give it weight became ill. One of them died, in experiments which were described today to the American Home Economics association conference in the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Miss P. Belle Kessinger told that the silk used was the same as that which often is sold to women without information as to its lead content.

She said her rat experiments seem to contradict results obtained at Harvard on human beings, who showed no ill effects from the lead type of silk.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Good bill at the Oriental this week—screen AND stage! The latter is just 99¾ per cent better than most of the shows I've seen there lately. Which possibly gives you an idea as to how the usual turnout ranks with this observer.

The picture, adapted from a story by Julian Street, dialog by J. P. MacEvoy, is a little slow at the start, but makes up for that when it gets under way. The young chap in the next seat—a perfect stranger—like to went into convulsions. He roared, he clapped, he doubled up with laughter. And all with the most utter unselfconsciousness. Nice to be able to let loose like that occasionally, don't you think? Most of us are so blooming afraid to be natural . . . !

The featured player is W. C. Fields. He plays Sam Bisbee, a small town inventor, whose workshop is the meeting place of convivial cronies.

The Bisbees live on the wrong side of the tracks—which has not prevented the Bisbee daughter from falling in love with Bob Murchison, son of highty-tighties. . . .

Mrs. Murchison calls upon Mrs. Bisbee with icy intent. This is melted by the discovery that her hostess is one of the Warrens of Virginia. The ladies are getting together in fine style over tea and Mrs. Bisbee's family album—when Sam arrives, three sheets in the wind, jovial and bumbling, and insists on displaying pictures of HIS ancestors! . . .

These include a prize fighter, a beaming housemaid, and the black sheep of the family, who wears stripes, and a number, prominently displayed.

Exit Mrs. Murchison!

Life is always more or less like that in the Bisbee family. . . .

Well, the young folks' romance, Mrs. Bisbee's sufferings, Mr. Bisbee's peculiar adventures with his peculiar inventions, and his fateful meeting with a princess, in this country on a good-will tour—a princess who proves a fairy princess in the annals of the Bisbees!—are entertainingly depicted.

Mr. Fields, minus his characteristic little shoebrush mustache, has his familiar troubles with hat, cigar, hands, and feet. He's always tangled up in something. If he doesn't do the wrong thing he says it. But O, and O HO—DOES HE COME OUT ON TOP! . . .

I would describe "You're Telling Me" as clean entertainment had not this cleanup drive made me a bit dubious about the drinking angle. Because Bisbee's sober breaths are few.

See you soon.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the joys of conducting a column about cosmetics is the cosmetic loot that falls into our fair white hands. You should hear the yowls of jealousy from the rest of the feminine staf—yowls that could be heard in Bermuda yesterday when a stunning brown and beige box of guest powders was plopped on our desk.

It looks like a round candy box, but its makers have escaped the wishy-washiness of design that is usually the candy box curse. It's a triumph in smart packages, beautifully tailored and topped with a brown satin bow.

But feminine fingers will itch at the sight of the contents. In the center is a fat round box of diminutive guest puffs in pretty colors. Surrounding this in a circle are smaller round boxes of powder, six of them, in a shade for every guest. It's undoubtedly the neatest trick of the cosmetic week.

This swanky box of guest powder is one of the smartest answers to the gift-for-your-hostess problem you ever will come across, but don't overlook its merits as a personal possession. In the guest bedroom or in your powder room you'll be forever stamped as a perfect hostess if you flash this round tray of six powder shades when company comes. If you're here to see the Fair and want to remember a friend with a gift from our town this would be perfect.

The shades, by the way, are perfectly beautiful. There's one in particular, called "South Wind," that the sun tanned sisters will go for in a big way. Pale and wan as we are, our personal preference was for the ivory, a warm, off-natural shade that we're grateful for because it's helpfully flattering.

All in all, this powder tray is a delectable thing to set before guests. You'll find it in a couple of Chicago shops.

Fur Previews Offer Thrills on Warm Days

Models Most Wearable in Style History.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If a Hollywood preview of any film is tempting, you should try out the thrills of a fur fashion preview during a summer month. Lounging around expectantly in a fashionable, air cooled shop watching the mannequins wear the newest fur creations is an indoor recreation that will make you plead for more.

Here are a few of highlights. Next winter the fur coats will be the most wearable ever presented, and the gals who used to pull their coats swankily around their anatomies will have a chance at that trick all over again. For most of the smartest models boast a single button or clasp high at the neckline, and the rest of the coat wraps luxuriously around in any way you want it.

White pique with inky black caracul fur is something to mark down in your own little style book. A wizard of fur designing has featured this most unusual combine and it's a sensation. A very sleek black caracul coat is made with tailored collar and lapels, these same lapels and collar frosted in spanking white pique that is buttoned into place with shiny black buttons.

For an afternoon model the same coat goes luxurious with a two skin collar of silver fox that also snaps into place to frame the face. These two distinctly different coats are obtainable in one model and if this isn't a fur find, nothing ever has been.

Short coats are tremendously chic, swagger affairs that flare below the hipline, the smartest things you can find. Ask to see the stunning hair seal made with flapped pockets and a high rippling collar; or the brown and white summer ermine number, intricately cut, with the white stripes in vertical lines. A novelty effect achieved with new panther fur features a long coat that can be used for sportswear.

But the minks, fashioned in new long super-slim lines, the suave black caraculs and broadtails festooned with breath takingly beautiful pelts of silver fox, are the spotlight stealers of this spectacular new collection brought to town by a world famous fur designer.

An evening wrap from the new collection has been photographed. Lovely white moire caracul fashions an extraordinarily beautiful creation for formal evening wear. The sharp high shoulders, the waist length cape, and the wrap around silhouette are fashionable 1934 winter accents. Obtainable in a Chicago shop.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young singer. She stakes him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for an opportunity of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara sells her car for expense money and gives half to Jerry. He follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry at Mulligan. He and Jerry are antagonistic. After three days Jerry is fed up with camp life. He tricks Cara into leaving with him.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

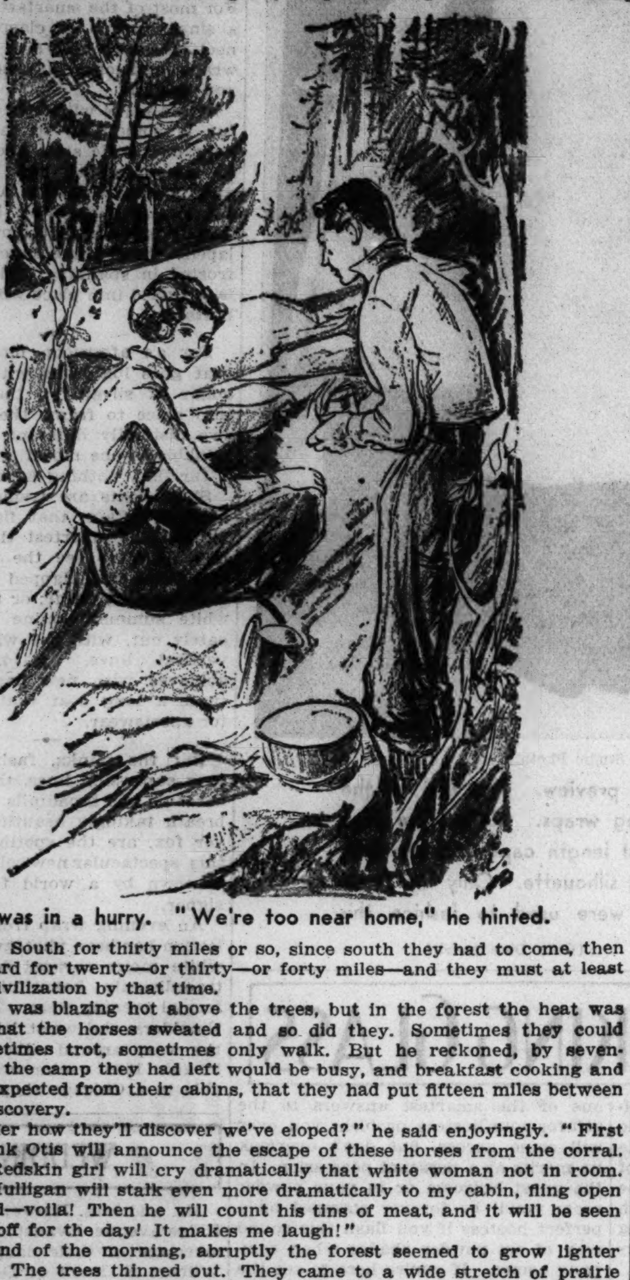
Jerry foraged for collapsible tin mugs and the horses nibbled at branches or grass peacefully side by side.

Cara sat cross-legged watching him, noting carefully all his preparations, because he didn't really know everything, did he? And it was up to her to give the wise hint if needed. He had brought no feed for the horses, but that of course, didn't much matter for one day. She noted also that he hadn't brought the small axe which all exploring woodsmen carry. Well, they wouldn't leave the trail. He was feeling grand and great. He was looking so light hearted and so darling. O! She was truly glad for this day!

They didn't linger long over breakfast and talk and cigarets, for he was in a hurry to get on. "We're too near home," he hinted, laughing. She listened to his laughter, and did not see that his eyes were serious, intent. He rolled his pack, fastened it behind his saddle, stamped out the fire—yes, he would show her he knew the simple necessities of the wilds—mounted her as that fellow Mulligan had done, if not quite so adeptly, and struggled on to Buck, who was a little too gay for his liking. They trekked on southward.

He had thought the journey out carefully—having been unable to put forward any reasons for borrowing any map at Mulligan's and there being none visible. South for thirty miles or so, since south they had to come, then southwestward for twenty—or thirty—or forty miles—and they must at least come near civilization by that time.



He was in a hurry. "We're too near home," he hinted.

The sun was blazing hot above the trees, but in the forest the heat was humid, so that the horses sweated and so did they. Sometimes they could canter, sometimes trot, sometimes only walk. But he reckoned, by seven-thirty, when the camp they had left would be busy, and breakfast cooking and two guests expected from their cabins, that they had put fifteen miles between them and discovery.

"I wonder how they'll discover we've eloped?" he said enjoyingly. "First I should think Otis will announce the escape of these horses from the corral. Then your Redskin girl will cry dramatically that white woman not in room. Then Boss Mulligan will stalk even more dramatically to my cabin, fling open the door, and—voila! Then he will count his tins of meat, and it will be seen that we are off for the day! It makes me laugh!"

At the end of the morning, abruptly the forest seemed to grow lighter before them. The trees thinned out. They came to a wide stretch of prairie land, without so much as a beast upon it. It rolled to the horizon on all sides except behind. She knew it at once for one of those lonely, waterless, unfertile stretches over which, unless guided, the wise traveler hesitates to wander.

The trail ended at the prairie edge.

"Thank heaven for sunlight! You can have your woods, darling," Jerry said, eyeing the treeless plain before him.

She put forward:

"But what now? Shall we keep along the edge of the forest?"

"You promised: No questions, darling. I'm guide. I'm going by compass, you know. We'll strike across. It's directly south."

"Well, it can't go forever, can it?"

"It might go on for hours, and the sun's up, and the horses will want water."

"The horses will have to wait till we strike water. God knows this country seems to me a masterpiece of natural irrigation."

"You've been guided so far, you see, Jerry, and——"

"And what?"

"My dear girl, don't I tell you I have a compass?"

"You haven't an axe."

"An axe!" he repeated teasingly.

"If we get to woods again and don't pick up a trail, we ought to blaze one as we go, to get back by. I've a jackknife."

Of course, they were thinking of different things! She was thinking of getting back! He checked the words on his lips. He had been on the brink of telling her, but he wasn't quite sure enough of her to do that until getting back that night was beyond all possibility.

He said: "Horses are supposed always to find their way, too."

She replied: "A pretty tale. But out here you'll often come across the skeletons of animals, sheep and horses, who have died lost in the great plains up north."

"Don't be gruesome," he said. "Let's canter."

They began at a slow, easy canter to ride over the empty prairie. The afternoon wore on and the horses were distressed. Their bits were flaked with lather that dried on. They lolled their tongues out. She loved the horses and had to worry: "You've a little water, haven't you? Enough to wipe their mouths out with?"

He answered in a high voice: "O rot! They're all right." Indeed he had brought barely enough water for themselves in a flask in his pack, trusting to all those rivers, lakes, springs which had seemed to abound before. At least, had he trusted, or had he not thought of the horses?

He had not thought.

"You know, darling," she remarked, from her own parched mouth, "when one makes a long trek one always takes water into consideration. I mean, one maps a journey out by the position of streams, even if it makes it ten or twenty miles longer. We must have come ten miles over this prairie and there's not a sign——"

"Keep your temper, Cara." She had not lost it, but he had nearly lost his and recovered control with a struggle. "Do allow me to know, sometimes. Look to your right." She looked and saw shadows on the hazy horizon. "Hills, trees, no doubt water," said Jerry.

They rode on, bearing too definitly west, because even he knew that they must find water. The shadows grew more definite, above them were higher shadows, far away. The prairie land grew a little greener, its flatness began to break. Cara stopped and insisted on sharing their water with Jessie and Buck. A drink for her and Jerry, a mere sopped handkerchief full for each horse. They slavered round it thankfully. She knew perfectly well that they should not have ridden thus, and began to be quietly angry. After all, hadn't she been promised just a beautiful day of serenity and aloneness, a day perhaps of love, a day of sweet talk to make a memory—and here they were riding these sweat soaked horses to exhaustion before the return journey.

She thought: "They must rest. It'll mean riding all night. Well, but that at least will be cool for them."

"We ought to turn back as soon as the horses are rested and watered," she asseverated.

He would not answer. They rode on towards greener verdure, trees. Mile upon mile of rough scrub and coarse grass merging and growing up into a forest that as yet was a dim streak of darkness. But between them and the forest was a sound that made the horses prick their ears and nicker softly. A stream rushed down from the distant hills. They reached it, deep and fast on a rocky bed, flowing north, presently, after long and turbulent journeyings, to empty itself through a many mouthed delta into the waters of Hudson bay.

Beauty Answers

Salt Water Baths Aid Feet.

M. C.: Bathe tired aching feet in salty water. Let the water dry on, rather than drying the feet with a towel. You will find it most beneficial. Exercises for weak arches may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

How to Gain Weight.

N. C.: Fresh vegetables and salads should be a part of your menu when you are trying to increase your weight. You may take creamed soups. Use plenty of butter on vegetables and butter your bread thickly.

BY MARY MEADE.

We've stuffed celery for years, ever since some adventuring soul had the notion that it might make good eating. but the thought that one could pack a whole head of celery with some nippy richness and then cleave off slices for salad, that is an idea not yet even out of its perambulator.

So, to give the youngster a send-off at Chicagoland tables, let me draw you a picture. Start by cutting the tops from a bunch of celery. Then wash and dry the separated stalks. Stuff the smallest with cream cheese, a cheese pickle spread, or a pimiento cream spread. Fill the next largest stalk and press it onto the first. Continue with all the stalks which are crisp and good, pressing each onto the one below it. When finished it should look like an enlarged bunch of celery, same shape, but filled with cheese. Now tie the stalk with a string and chill thoroughly. To serve, cut down through the stuffed celery in slices, using a long sharp knife. Serve these slices on beds of crisp lettuce, passing French dressing as an accompaniment. Or don't bother with the salad idea, and serve them undressed as a relish or an appetizer.

And, while we're in the mood for stuffing things, have you ever met, in your wanderings, that most sophisticated of appetizers, the cheese-stuffed olive? One simply takes the large stuffed green olives, which already have pimiento in their hearts. Cut them in halves, lengthwise. Now slice American cheese about one quarter inch in thickness and cut each slice into half inch squares. Place a square of cheese between each two olive halves, and press the halves together. Serve these as appetizers with before-dinner cocktails, or use them as something to pass at sitting-down time.

But, when we begin to grow frivolous about appetizers, pray let's remind ourselves that this, after all, is summer. The hot little sausages and melted cheese canapés as piquers for and a happy reawakening when thermometers slither down next fall. So, for the nonce, I'll gratefully accept raw vegetable canapès as piquers for my palate. The smart plate of mixed appetizers for hot days includes endive leaves spread with some nippy Roquefort cheese mixture, daintily sliced or rosetted raw carrots, and raw cauliflower which has been chilled and cut in small pieces. Drained and chilly cucumbers are likewise turning up all unadorned, cut in long slim eighths with the peel removed. Or a dainty canapé arrives when a thin pinked round of cucumber sits on an equally thin and crisp round of carrot. On the cucumber perk one wee rosette of nippy cream cheese.

I wonder, by the way, whether the trick I passed to you for pinking cucumbers and lemons has slipped your mind? It's much less work than is the maddening job of trying to go around and snip triangles out of the edges of your slices after they are cut. For the cucumber, simply peel it, then, starting at one end, score it with a paring knife all the way to the other end. Make these cuts shallow, slanting slightly, and cut one about every half inch about the cucumber. Now meet the cuts you have made with more long cuts, this time slanting the knife in the opposite direction, taking a slim three-sided strip out of each cut. Finish by chilling thoroughly and slicing thin.

And, since we seem to be having ourselves a review, do you recall the fruit and vegetable friller we bubbled over about last fall? It happens to be the very thing for turning out dainty summer appetizers. It looks a bit like a food chopper, but upon adjusting your carrot, apple, or whatnot, and turning the handle, it shaves off for you a perfect curl of crispness. It will be more like a ruffle when it comes out, but it is simple to coil it into a tiny nest. Into the center of this rosette drop a bit of cream cheese or sandwich spread from a pastry tube. Poke it through the bottom with a woodpin to hang on by and you have still another delicacy to add to your platter of hunger-teasers.

Hollywood

By Sidney Skolsky.

Hollywood, June 26.—Again you and I are going behind the closed doors of the various stages at the different studios and watch them make pictures. The first set we visit is "Student Tour."

"Student Tour" is a musical in which a group of students, accompanied by the Messrs. Durante and Butterworth, go on a world cruise. In one corner of the set Charles Butterworth is sitting attired in a white linen suit and a panama hat, and looks like spilt milk. We know that the cruise has reached a warm country by the costumes of the players. Right. We are now in Shanghai.

The set is supposed to be a Shanghai night club, and there are Chinese dancing girls and acrobats about waiting to go into their act, there are some real Chinese gals and some of the chorines are made up to look like Chinese maidens, and it is not until after close inspection that you note the difference.

The fact that the set looks exciting doesn't provide excitement. Director Chuck Reisner is arranging his camera and his lights for a scene in an upper box with Florine McKinney. It will take about 20 minutes for them to get props and technical effects right before they even reherse the scene. Now, I know that you wouldn't want to watch electricians move arc lights, and play with them to get the correct lighting, for that length of time, and so we'll leave "Student Tour" and continue with our own tour. But don't say I didn't take you on the set.

Janet Gaynor is one of your favorite actresses, and I guess you'd like to see her. Miss Gaynor is now making a new flicker, "Servants' Entrance." We go on the set to watch her. Director Frank Lloyd of "Cavalcade" fame has his set-up ready. It is the long hall of the fine house occupied by a retired German brewer and his wife, played by Sigfried Rummann and Louise Dresser. All we are waiting for now is Miss Gaynor.

It is a new set and will be used for only a couple of scenes. Therefore no temporary dressing room has been built on the set for Janet Gaynor. She is in her dressing room, a neatly furnished five-room house about a quarter of a mile away. A studio car with a chauffeur drives up to the stage door. Miss Gaynor has arrived.

Director Lloyd has his three players reherse the scene as he watches them through the camera. Now he is ready to take the scene. He leaves the camera to the cameraman and stands away in a position where he can watch his players.

We watch them make the scene four times, and whatever flaw there is it is technical, for these three players, Miss Gaynor, Miss Dresser, and Mr. Rummann know their lines and never falter; they also know their gestures and never vary a movement.

Janet Gaynor plays a servant girl, a maid, in "Servants' Entrance." She is the only performer on the set who has a maid with her. Miss Gaynor's maid stands by and hands her the necessary props to play the scene. Miss Gaynor's maid watches the scene carefully. She okays it. Miss Gaynor makes a pretty good maid—to her maid.

Next we'll watch a big outdoor scene. We go to the outdoor set at Metro, which is called "the New York street." Every major studio has a permanent set of a New York street. This particular New York street is supposed to be Fifth avenue and 45th street, at least that is what the signs on the lamp post say. The picture is Joan Crawford's "Sacred and Profane Love," a title, which due to the new censorship, will be changed. The scene takes place because the story calls for Miss Crawford to go shopping in a classy shop on Fifth avenue.

The sun is shining and it is a hot day but the extras are wearing heavy overcoats and galoshes and there is snow on the ground; that is, studio snow. A fleet of special autos and taxicabs start moving up and down this Fifth avenue when the signal for action is given.

It is expensive to have real autos work in a picture. An auto gets more than an extra. It costs $25 a day to hire an auto to play in a scene.

In addition to the fleet of autos there are about a hundred extras in the scene. And when the scene is played we can see Joan Crawford getting out of her car and walking into this Fifth avenue shop.

Filmland Has Two Worries for Summer

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 26.—[Special.]—It's a tossup whether the infantile paralysis epidemic or the threat of movie censorship involved in the clean pictures campaign is disturbing Hollywood more. When Hal Rosson, Jean Harlow's husband, and Ida Lupino, 18 year old yellow haired English leading woman, were stricken, the movie colony stirred with apprehension.

In Miss Lupino's case the suspected source of infection was her big swimming pool, in which Ida had entertained the major fraction of teen-age Hollywood at pool parties. Now the Lupino pool has been drained, and many others, including Marlene Dietrich's, Arlene Judge's and Carl Brisson's have likewise been drained until the epidemic is over.

Luckily for Miss Lupino and Rosson, each was stricken in a mild form. Dr. T. P. Gerson has informed Paramount studio that Miss Lupino will be able to resume work on July 15, and that in her case the disease has not affected her nervous system. There have been 1,000 infantile paralysis cases in Los Angeles county since last May 1, so it was not expected that the film colony should escape entirely.

Ronald Colman, whose lineage is Scotch, may never know it unless he reads this, but Colman's butler last week gave an 1824 American 50 cent piece to the Colman milkman, Fred Jennings, while he was paying the bill. The milkman, who is a numismatist, put down $35.50 to profit. An American half dollar of that year is worth $36.

Milkman Jennings, like so many others holding all kinds of jobs in Hollywood, is one of the middle west thousands who followed the movie lure here but never connected with movies in any capacity. He used to operate a string of midwest sideshows.

Merwyn Light, who helped illuminate the New York stage last season, has arrived to carry out a Warner film contract. The 23 year old actor will first go into "Just Out of College," being one of four youths in the lead rôles. He also probably will work with Jim Cagney in "Gentlemen Are Born."

Two films are in prospect for Marlene Dietrich: "Red Pawn" and "Lady of the Lions." She'll probably start the first named shortly, and in spite of local talk about a break between Marlene and her director-discoverer, Joe Sternberg, the studio says Joe will again direct her. "Red Pawn" is a story by Ayn Rand about a Russian woman who had herself sent to a Siberian prison camp in order to avenge herself on a man.

drive. Miss Heuer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heuer, is a graduate of Mount Vernon seminary, Washington. Mr. Stevens, who prepared at Lawrenceville, was graduated from Princeton in 1929. The wedding will take place Sept. 29.

First Debutante Party Tomorrow.

Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill is giving the first debutante party of the season when she entertains at dinner tomorrow in her Lake Forest home for four young women who are certain to be among the most fêted debutantes of the coming season. They are Miss Deborah Butler, Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, Miss Betty Brooks, and Miss Fanny McPherson. Mrs. Hamill will take her guests on to the Thursday night dance at the Onwentsia.

Young Corwith Hamill, who will be a junior at Yale next year, and George E. Hale II., the William B. Hales' son, who will be a senior there next year, are sailing for Europe in a few weeks to spend six weeks bicycling in England.

Another party at the Onwentsia tomorrow is one that Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps are giving for Miss Margaret McLennan and John B. Morse, who are to be married on July 14 at the home of Miss McLennan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. McLennan, in Lake Forest. Mrs. Stanley Keith will give a dinner for Miss McLennan and Mr. Morse at her home Friday night, and next Tuesday the bride-to-be's sister, Mrs. Woodbury S. Ober, will give a tea and kitchen shower.

The Alfred T. Cartons will give a buffet supper a week from Sunday, and the next evening Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner will give a dinner dance at the Shoreacres club. Tuesday, the 10th, Mrs. James R. Addington will give a luncheon and hosiery shower, and the following Thursday Miss Mary Reed and Miss Jean Schweppe will give a dinner and take their guests to the dance at the Onwentsia.

The prenuptial festivities will end with the bridal dinner on the eve of the wedding that Mr. and Mrs. McLennan will give, and with the luncheon that the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. George A. Richardson, will give on the day of the wedding. The wedding will be a quiet family affair. Miss Katherine McLennan will be her sister's only attendant.

Miss Mary Clokey to Be Bride Tonight.

Nine bridesmaids, a maid of honor, and a flower girl will precede Miss Mary Wilson Clokey, daughter of the A. Wilson Clokeys of Hinsdale, to the outdoor altar in the Edward Warren Everett gardens tonight in Hinsdale, where she will be married to Edwin Ruthven Moore, son of the late Edwin Ruthven Moore and of the late Mrs. Archibald Percy Ogden of Evanston. The ceremony will be read at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Alfred Lee Wilson, a former classmate of the bride's father at Wooster college. A reception will follow in the Everetts' home.

Miss Marjorie Moore, the bridegroom's sister, will be the maid of honor, and Hattie Ogden, his stepsister, will be the flower girl. The three out-of-town bridesmaids, who are staying with Miss Clokey, are Miss Anne Iglehart Sanford of Baltimore, Miss Louise Brewer of West Hartford, Conn., and Miss Rowe Raab of Sheboygan, Wis. The other bridesmaids are Miss Julia Patterson and Miss Margaret and Miss Gertrude Kelly of Evanston, Miss Katherine Hench, Miss Ruth Brinkman, and Miss Mary Stresenreuter of Hinsdale.

James A. Rogers of Los Angeles will serve Mr. Moore as best man, and ushering will be Lefferts Edson, Ralph Brabbee, and William Fitzhugh III. of New York, Richard Ballett of Cincinnati, and Jere Patterson, John Banks, Gordon Brown, David Gallagher, Robert Ellis, Henry Wardwell, and George Cogswell.

Mr. Moore and his bride will have a most thrilling wedding trip, going first to Lake Louise and Banff, then down the west coast and over to Honolulu, where they will join the Everetts and travel back to San Francisco with them. Mrs. Everett and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Everett, have been in the orient during the winter. After their return to California Mr. Moore and his bride will go on a week's yachting trip with the best man and his parents and then will return here to make their home.

Add to the list of debuts to take place Sept. 15 that of Miss Barbara Bersbach, who will be presented at a tea that afternoon at the Indian Hill home of her mother, Mrs. Frank J. Bersbach. Miss Bersbach finished recently at the Shipley school, where her younger sister, Helen, is a year behind her. The two of them are leaving at the end of this week to attend a ten day house party given by a Shipley schoolmate, Miss Huldah Cheek, in Nashville, Tenn. Afterwards they will go east for a few weeks, but will be here for the month of August. Miss Bersbach will remain at home for her debut year. Helen will return to Shipley.

Miss Emeline Bush Lands Tomorrow.

Chicago will be welcoming home Miss Emeline Bush by the end of the week, for this attractive daughter of Mrs. William H. Bush is arriving in Quebec tomorrow on the Empress of Britain, en route home from England and a trip around the world.

Miss Bush will have plenty of exciting experiences to tell her friends. She has been away for nine months. She spent the early part of her travels with her mother and sister, Miss Caroline Bush, in China, and when they returned to Chicago she finished out the trip with friends. She spent three weeks in Egypt and has just spent five weeks in London. Mrs. Bush returned recently from her ranch in Amarillo, Tex. The family will remain in town for the next few months.

Bennet Botsford Harvey Jr. is the most recent addition to the families of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hatfield Harvey and Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Wegener. He was born at the Passavant hospital and is the first child of Bennet B. Harvey and the former Dorothy Wegener. He has a cousin, Roberta Royal Vilas, daughter of the former Roberta Harvey and Royal C. Vilas.

Salvia.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Straight out of the old time flower garden comes this "Salvia" quilt block. When it was first made in 1845, red and green materials were not so varied as they are at present. The modern color scheme makes the quilt gayly beautiful by applique of scarlet and blue green on a white ground. The completed block measures twelve inches square, and there are twenty-four appliqued blocks in the quilt.

Brushing Comes Back as Daily Duty for Hair

New Era in Hairdressing Makes It Possible.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you like to read about extravagances whether you ever hope to become a participant or not?

Well, you'd never suspect a hairbrush, for instance, of wearing a $100 price ticket, now, would you? There is such. And I was told of an afternoon sensation at a department store counter when a male buyer said he would take three of the $100 ones. The girls are wondering yet of what money heritage he is. Whether he had a bet on or whether he had so much money it didn't matter, or whether he knew the worth of the brushes.

Hundred dollar brush history is wrapped up in bristles of such rarity that I have forgotten how many thousands are discarded before you wrest a pound of them of proper length and quality. From this pound again, often no more than an ounce of bristles is usable, indicating that while we wham away at the tresses we little think of the work behind the perfect bristle. But so sure are the makers of their finished brush product, they're willing to give a five year guarantee and more.

If you've wondered why that brush you picked up carelessly on the counter but to recoil before the startling figures ticketed thereon, you may know that there has been much choosing and rejecting of boar bristles before that nail brush, bath or hair brush was nominated to counter display.

Which serves to introduce today's topic. Hairbrushing as a feminine industry is back. For a long time women were scared to death to put a brush to their cherished marcel waves. Permanents have helped the hair brush revival, also the fact that many women have learned to set their own waves skilfully. It's good news for heads that brushing is the vogue again. You can talk of hair tonics and scalp lotions and ointments for this and that hair and scalp ailment, but for hair preservation and for sheer hair beauty, you can't beat the brush any more than you can beat it for disciplining unruly urchins. [Don't hold that last against me. I've only heard it's an active disciplinarian.] I just like the discipline idea as it can be applied to scalp and hair with the brush.

Write Today for Invitations to Cubs Game

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

If you don't mail your letters some time today you're out of luck, boys and girls! I'm going to read them all tomorrow, you know, and I can't very well do that if you don't get them to me, can I?

You'd better scribble away as fast as ever you can today, and be sure the mail man gets it down here on my desk by tomorrow morning, bright and early, if you want to come out to Wrigley field with me on July 5.

On that day I'm going to take fifty boys and girls to see the game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs. If you enjoy hearing and reading about the Cubs, won't it be thrilling to see them actually playing?

We're going to try to select the youngsters to whom the game will mean the most, so if you're as wild about baseball as I know most youngsters are, and haven't written your letter yet, ask your mother for a piece of paper, an envelope and a stamp, and sit right down and tell me all about it.

There are three rules—very easy ones—which must be observed to make your letter eligible. Here they are:

1. Your letter must include your name, address, and age.
2. It must reach me here in the Tribune Tower by Thursday.
3. Each boy or girl must write his or her own letter.

Tomorrow, after reading all the letters in which these rules were observed, I'll select the 100 winners, and their names will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. Invitations will be mailed on Monday, and Thursday, July 5, will be the big day!

Address your letters to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

JUMP TAKEOUTS OF ONE NO TRUMP.

The immediate takeout of three in a suit over partner's one no trump opening bid is a slam try. To be more exact, it is a request to develop a slam try. In other systems, where the opening no trump may contain no kind of natural rebid, this is called a forcing takeout and is used primarily to insure that the bidding shall not be dropped short of game, with perhaps also the suggestion that slam may be there if the opening bidder has a very strong hand.

In our system, its forcing function exists, naturally, but that is really incidental since the opening bidder is expected to rebid anyhow over any response. Only if the opening bidder had made a very shaded, in our view unsound, opening no trump bid would the game-forcing aspect come into effect. Under normal conditions, this takeout assumes game as a matter of course, and informs the opening bidder that he will find slam material in the responding hand. It urges that the slam be contracted for if further bidding shows that the hands fit well and especially if his opening bid was normal in strength and composition, so that he has no reason for signing off.

In such case, the opener needs only a little in reserve of his original bidding requirement for the slam to be at least a worth while playing chance, if not a laydown. Confirmation or location of aces is the most important part of the subsequent bidding. With only two aces, the opening bidder must sign off immediately. If responding hand can show two aces—the method will be shortly explained—then the opener can resume the slam try if in other respects his values are adequate and there is no blemish or deceptive feature in his hand.

After You Hit Be Willing to Run.

I have already observed that shaded opening bids are hit-and-run propositions; drop the bidding summarily if your partner cannot coöperate optimistically or on lines which rule out a misfit. The same applies to overcalls when the opponents have opened the bidding. The following hand, the first one played in the 1932 Master's Individual championship for the Karn gold cup, illustrates both these situations.

North [dealer] and East passed, and South bid a spade. Two clubs by West, two hearts by North. Neither side was vulnerable, and at most tables East bid three diamonds—a doubtful bid, but not a bad one, as a major suit game for N-S seemed imminent, and there might be a better fit in diamonds than in clubs for sacrifice purposes.

Now several Souths bid three spades, which North rightly carried to four. This is necessarily set either one or two tricks, depending on Declarer's play and reading of the adverse holdings. The overruffing by the enemy is fatal. South's rebid is definitely bad, and he must take all the blame. Having made a shaded bid, he had no right to rebid over two overcalls, especially with a singleton of North's suit. He should leave it to North whether to raise in spades or double. If North raises, he should pass. Where will he put all his clubs? He has no rebid. Unless North can next bid four spades, game appears hopeless.

Conversely, at one table West made a similar blunder. In spite of his heart holding and the evidence that both minor suits were misfits for his side, he did not infer that North-South might have trouble in making their game, being unable both to cross-ruff and also draw trumps. He overcalled four spades with five clubs. Double. Down 1,000. Such bidding deserved what it got—bottom score for East and West.

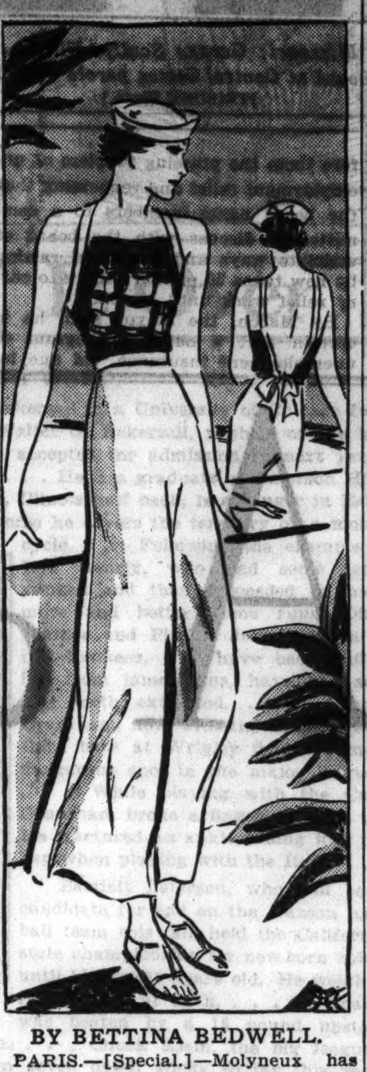
Molyneux Puts Sailing Ships on Beach Pajamas



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Molyneux has made use of one of the most beautiful objects in the world—a ship in full sail—to print the low cut bodices of his new beach pajamas. See sketch to know exactly how a lady looks wearing a white sailed ship across the front.

The bodice of these pajamas is not extensive, as you can see. It is about handkerchief size and is made of dark blue shantung with the ship printed in white and with white shoulder straps that run around the arms and extend down the back to the waistline where they meet the white belt and tie in a bow.

The trousers are rather short slacks in cut and are made of white linen. They are made brief like this so that they do not get a deep band of wet and dirty sand around the bottom as do so many of the longer slacks. Everybody is making shorter pajamas this summer.

The little gob hat is made of white linen, also, with a stitched brim turned up all around and a silly little bow of white linen sewed on the back.

Keep the Baby Cool and Quiet in Summertime

Clothing Should Be Reduced to Minimum.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Having covered the first two of the measures for keeping the baby well in summer—that is, right feeding and cleanliness—we shall touch today on the third and fourth. These, you may remember, were seeing that your baby is kept both cool and quiet in the warm weather.

If in general we would think of the baby's comfort in terms of our own it would help us in caring for him. What do we do when the weather is hot? We dress as lightly as possible, bathe frequently, seek the cool spots, and so forth. Applying common sense to the problem of the baby in summer we realize, first, that he must be dressed lightly and loosely. Outdoors a slip will usually be enough, besides his thin little shirt, diaper, and band. In the house the slip and even the shirt may be dispensed with.

Sponge baths we've mentioned. On a hot day put the baby in the coolest indoor or outdoor spots. If you live in the city manage your housework so that you can wheel the baby to the parks or open squares where there is likely to be greenness and coolness.

The sun bath should never be given around midday—in fact if the weather is extremely hot it may be omitted. Often the baby is better off indoors at that time.

See that the baby's mattress is soft but firm. Have his room well ventilated but do not let his crib be in a draft. A simple screen is an essential in caring for young babies. So much for the coolness angle of baby care in summer.

As to the quiet, that is obtained in various ways, since this means not having the household subdued but keeping the baby himself quiet. For one thing, he must have plenty of sleep during hot weather, both day and night. During an extremely warm spell he must not be excited by being held a lot and rocked and amused by fond relatives, and by being taken on hot journeys or to visit where his routine is upset and one cannot control circumstances. To help the baby to a good night's rest, one of his sponge baths may be given just before his 6 o'clock feeding to cool and quiet him.

For those mothers of young babies who wish to keep them, suggestions as to care of the baby in summer have been incorporated in a leaflet which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Radio Will Provide Amusement.

"Dear Miss Brown: May we ask another favor for one of our families? Mr. W. is a widower and has seven daughters, ranging in age from 17 to 5. Their home is dreary and the girls have no amusement. Kerosene lamps are used for lighting purposes. Do you think it possible to secure a radio that functions without electricity for them? They have a victrola but the records are very old, and the youngsters are no longer interested in playing them. If a radio is not available we'd like to secure some records for them. Miss G."

KELKER PICTURES CAR TRANSFERS AS A TIME SAVER

Shows How Long Distance Riders Would Benefit.

Maj. R. F. Kelker, consulting engineer for the city in traction matters, yesterday pictured the time saving benefits that riders of the surface and elevated lines would experience if a transfer system were established. Testifying before the Illinois commerce commission, Maj. Kelker declared that between 25 and 38 per cent of travel time would be saved riders using both transit services between distant points in the city.

Action for universal transfers between the surface, elevated and motor coach lines was started two months ago at the instance of Mayor Kelly. The city petitioned the commerce commission for an order requiring establishment of the transfer system and the commission in recent weeks has been hearing testimony on the matter.

Testifies on Time Saving.

Maj. Kelker yesterdal cited specific instances of travel time reduction that would be possible with a transfer system. A person who travels from 115th street and Cottage Grove avenue on the south side to Lawrence and Kedzie avenues on the northwest side would save 34 minutes by use of both surface and elevated cars, he declared.

The time required to travel this distance by street car is 130 minutes, Maj. Kelker said. The combined services, including time for transfering from surface car to elevated train and walking from the Kedzie avenue "L" station to the destination, would take only 96 minutes, he pointed out.

Similarly, Maj. Kelker said, a person traveling from 92d street and Commercial avenue to Howard and Clark streets would save 33.5 minutes. Residents of any part of the far south side would save 16 minutes on trips to the loop if they were permitted to transfer from surface cars to elevated trains at 63d street. Far northwest side residents would save 10 minutes by changing from surface cars to Logan Square elevated trains.

Kelker Concludes Testimony.

Maj. Kelker concluded his testimony during the day. The hearing was then continued to July 12 when attorneys for the transit companies, who are fighting the universal transfer plan on the ground that it is not feasible at this time, will put in their testimony.

VOTE TO MAKE UNOFFICIAL PARK OF LAKE ZURICH

Lake Zurich, which for years has been the subject of a court battle to determine its ownership, last night was the subject of an election. By a vote of 80 to 78 it was made an unofficial park district by the citizens of the town of Lake Zurich.

At the present time, owing to a Supreme court decision, the lake is considered the property of August Froelich and Mrs. Margaret Pearce, who own two-thirds of the land around it. But the vote will give the new park district the power to buy it if the owners want to sell.

Five citizens were elected to the board of commissioners, and their first job will be to have the Lake county court approve the election. After this they may begin negotiations for the lake's purchase.

Objection to the district, as evidenced by the 78 votes, was based on a belief that the county has too many taxing bodies already. If the park district is successful in buying the lake the shore will be turned into a playground and the lake will be open to all without the present $10 fee for boats per summer.

ICKES THROUGH WITH MALMIN DISBAR DEMAND

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes said today he was "through" with the disbarment proceedings against Lucius J. M. Malmin and C. W. Larsen, Chicago attorneys whom he accused of attempting to blackmail him into securing a federal position for Malmin.

Asker whether he intends to make a sworn complaint against Malmin and Larsen, following the ruling of the special Supreme court commission now considering their disbarment that such a course is necessary, Mr. Ickes declared:

"I didn't swear out a complaint. I don't know whether the Bar association did. But it's up to the Bar association. If they want to throw the cases out on a technicality, let them go ahead. I am not going to try to clean house—that's the Bar association's job.

"I don't know what they're going to do with the case, but I'm through."

Low Fog and City Lights Cause Fire Alarm Deluge

A low fog, almost invisible in the night, last night was the cause of a deluge of fire alarms received by the city fire department. Street lights and house lamps were reflected by the low ceiling and on the north side of the city it appeared as though there were a fire somewhere. In addition to the red reflection of the fog the mist appeared exactly like low hanging smoke.

Conference Discusses Parole Problems

LA GUARDIA ASKS 30 MILLIONS FOR POOR TILL MARCH

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—For the second time since he took office Mayor La Guardia addressed the board of aldermen today, setting before them the pressing problem of unemployment relief and requesting that the board name members to a committee to discuss with the board of estimate ways and means of raising by new taxes 30 million dollars to carry relief work until March.

By March, the mayor said, he is certain that a national program of unemployment insurance, old age insurance and health insurance will have been adopted by congress, relieving the municipalities of the country of the heavy burden of relief appropriations.

A dozen plans for raising the relief money have been presented to the mayor, he said. He did not name them, but it is certain the 2 cent tax on subway fares is among them.

PLAN LAUNCHED TO KEEP TAB ON ABSENT PAROLEE

11 States Work on System of Reciprocity.

Machinery to keep tab on paroled convicts from other states was set in motion yesterday by the Central States Parole conference, which opened a four day conference at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club.

George Scully, supervisor of Illinois paroles and chairman of the conference, told the opening session that many officials hoped the committee on reciprocal agreements between states would suggest means to reciprocity in supervision among all of the commonwealths. The committee's recommendation are expected tomorrow.

Favor General Plan.

The committee seemed to favor Scully's suggestion that each state department of welfare notify a sister state when a parolee was being sent so that parole agents could investigate the ex-convict's new home, his employment and associates, and keep close track of his conduct.

"This plan," Scully said, "may necessitate legislative action in some states, but it may be possible that by mutual agreement between the departments of public welfare of the several states a working arrangements can be reached. If this is accomplished this conference will have amply compensated the states which participate."

Eleven states sent delegates to the conference. They were: Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Illinois.

Supt. Scully said that at the present time Illinois has reciprocal working agreements with New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, California, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

"We have every hope," he added after his opening address, "that every state can be brought in. We are in touch with officials of all of them, and if the coöperation already exhibited continues we shall be successful."

Parole workers attending the afternoon meeting showed especial interest in the speech of John P. Smith, superintendent of police in Detroit, on "Politics in the Parole System."

Doubts Politicians' Wisdom.

"Politics," he declared, "has interfered with police and the parole system until it is a damnable shame. You have no security and neither have I. You do a good job, then politics steps in and you are fired.

"Sooner or later people are going to take politics out of everything concerned with parole. Who should say when a criminal shall be released, the politicians or the people trained to know? Certainly not some one just elected to office who is paying off political debts.

"I don't fear politicians," Smith concluded, "because I've sent too many men to prison to fear them. But you here will have to see that state governments don't put people in your places just to reward them."

Charges Procedure Has Failed.

At the morning session Hinton G. Clabaugh, former chairman of the Illinois parole board, declared that "probation and parole are the two outstanding and most valuable assets of the criminal, especially the professional."

"Theoretically," Clabaugh declared, "parole is a beautiful thing with its sentimental appeal, but in practical operation it has failed and crime conditions throughout the land continue to grow worse. I think neither probation nor parole should be possible in crimes of violence."

GOV. LANGER FACING TWO RIVALS TODAY AT NORTH DAKOTA POLLS

Bismarck, N. D., June 26.—(AP)—Voters, "X's" will mark further action or retirement for Gov. William Langer in tomorrow's primary. James P. Cain and T. H. H. Thoresen, also are candidates with him for the Republican nomination for governor. About 250,000 votes are expected.

Gov. Langer was convicted in the federal court of defrauding the United States government by having federal relief employés contribute part of their salary toward maintenance of an administration newspaper.

A statement issued today in his behalf said:

"The great majority of the people of the state are standing solidly behind the governor and his administration's acts during the 18 months that he has been in office."

The campaign committee cited Mrs. Langer for her noble and untiring efforts in behalf of the interests of the common people of the state at a time when the governor was detained in Bismarck on account of federal court action. Milo Reno also was thanked as "a great veteran of the farmers' cause."

The Cain faction retorted:

"The decisive facts confronting the voters at this election are these: The present administration has discredited the state and practically wrecked the Non-Partisan league in the process of building up a personal political machine for private profit. The Anti-Langer league faction is primarily interested in protecting the state."

"A church Social in the Basement—another pleasure Gas Heat brought to our home"

Read the story of Mrs. Oscar Mathisen, 1115 Lockwood Ave., Chicago, Illinois

How would you like to have an extra room in your house, free of charge? A room that is cool in the summer time, where you can entertain friends, where the children can play when the weather's bad.

That's exactly what Mrs. Oscar Mathisen has in her home. She not only entertained her friends but . . . let her tell her own story. "Why, do you know," she says, "we held a church social in the basement—another pleasure gas heat brought to our home. Our home is a different place since we installed gas heat. It used to be a big job cleaning the house. Dirt, dust, grime used to cover walls and curtains. Now, with gas heat, it's no trouble at all to keep things clean."

Experience with gas heat like this is the pleasure of over 20,000 families in this area. They've said goodbye to all furnace drudgery—shoveling coal, hauling ashes, getting up at dawn to fix the furnace and many other disagreeable tasks which come with old-fashioned methods of heating.

New low rates for gas heat

You, too, can have clean, automatic gas heat. Temperatures just as you want them, day or night, by just touching the little thermostat on the wall. Gas heating rates are now lower than ever. Less than half of what they were a few years ago. And you can try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment.

We'll install a gas burner in your present furnace entirely at our expense. You try gas heat one month, two months, a year. If within that time you decide that you don't like it, we'll take it out and replace your former equipment in good workmanlike order. While you are trying it you pay only $3 a month rental, for the nine heating months, on the equipment in the average home.

But, if your experience is like that of 20,000 other families, you'll want to keep gas heat. If so, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment. And, you pay rental only during the heating months. That's why you should install gas heat now. Before the rush begins. Also, you'll be rid of dirty fuel in your basement. You'll have a cool summer room as clean as any room in the house.

"I'm very thankful for gas heat," says Mrs. Mathisen. "It has changed all our ideas of keeping house."

CONSTANT CARE INSURES GAS METER ACCURACY

Every working day, in more than 400 Chicago homes, a new gas meter is installed by The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company to replace the meter in service.

Every one of these new meters has been tested by inspectors employed by the City of Chicago, to meet the specifications of the United States Bureau of Standards. Old meters are constantly replaced with inspected and approved meters, in order that the high standard of gas meter accuracy may be maintained.

Even during the last four years, when slack business and reduced rates have been lessening company revenues, and when salaries and wages and dividends have had to be cut, this policy of meter replacement has been maintained.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company believes that accurate meters are a part of good service. That's why 400 new meters will be installed in Chicago homes tomorrow, and every working day in the year.

You invest nothing TO TRY GAS HEAT

● Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

Playoff for State Title Today.

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Harry Cooper of the Glen Oak Country club tied Tommy Armour of Medinah today at the end of 36 holes of play for the Illinois state professional golf championship, with a 141 score. Cooper had been seven strokes behind at the end of the first 18 holes.

Thus the situation is the same as it was a year ago when Armour and Cooper wound up in a deadlock for the state pro title at Tommy's home course. In the eighteen hole playoff Cooper took Armour's measure, 69 strikes to 75. They will attempt to settle this year's tie at eighteen holes tomorrow afternoon.

Lead Field by One Stroke.

Cooper and Armour finished one stroke ahead of Jack McDonald of Springfield and Burt Montressor of Decatur, who had 142 each.

By virtue of a course record breaking 66 yesterday in the first round, Armour was leading Cooper by seven strokes and the latter was given little or no chance to overcome that deficit. Cooper, however, has been coming from behind regularly of late, having won the western open at Peoria a week ago.

The Illini course was swept by a strong southwest wind today, but that didn't deter Cooper. Neither did the 95 degree temperature. Harry toured the half rolling, half flat layout in 68 today, three strokes under par, being out in 33, and back in 35. Armour turned in a 35—40—75.

Armour Misses 5 Foot Putt.

On the eighteenth green today Armour could have won the championship by holing a five foot downhill putt, but he failed to sink it. He took 6 strokes on this par 4, 342 yard hole.

Armour held a two stroke lead over Cooper when they teed off on the eighteenth. He hooked his drive into a bad lie behind a tree. Tommy made a fine recovery, but a shaky pitch left him 25 feet short of the green. His next rolled five feet past the cup and he took two putts for the six.

Cooper's tee shot on this final hole was a straight drive. His pitch landed on the green 20 feet from the pin. He missed a three on his first putt by a few inches, and then tied Armour with his par four.

In the pro-amateur play this afternoon three twosomes tied for first place with 67. They were Eddie Williams, Chicago, paired with Don Armstrong, Aurora, Hunter Hicks, playing with Joe Paletti, both of Chicago, and Yontz Bonnett, Bloomington, paired with Sam Bernardi, Chicago.

About 75 amateurs will begin qualifying play tomorrow morning for 32 places in the match play which will run through the remainder of the week. Don Armstrong, Aurora, is on hand to defend his title.

STUHLEY GIVES DUNDEE BEATING; PROMOTER DIGS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Vince Dundee of Newark, N. J., middleweight boxing champion of the world, received a badly cut eye, a licking, and $1,200 last night at Mills stadium in his second appearance in Chicago since he won the title from Lou Brouillard. Hayden [Young] Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill., gave Dundee the trouncing while Promoter Billy Cepak dug up the cash, which will leave him short about $500 on the basis of an attendance of 2,500 with estimated gross receipts of $2,000.

Stuhley's victory, despite the fact that he dropped the champion for nine seconds in the eighth round with a solid left hook to the jaw, was by a margin about as wide as the paper this is printed on. Judges Edward Klein and William Battye each voted 51 to 49 for Stuhley while Referee Phil Collins called the ten round fight even.

Over Title Limit.

That the decision was popular with the crowd goes almost without mention, since Stuhley seldom has fought elsewhere than in Chicago. Nevertheless, Dundee fully expected to get the decision, and undoubtedly he based his hope on his fighting finish in the ninth and tenth rounds, when he chased the tiring Stuhley around the ring and hammered home a series of right hand blows to the body.

Stuhley fought cautiously throughout, waving his left hand in the champion's face and on many occasions pushing Vince from him with an open glove. Dundee was the aggressor in all except the fifth and eighth rounds,

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WHEN IS AN AMATEUR?

THE Ohio conference, a group of smaller colleges in that state, has ruled that college athletes may accept pay for their services without forfeiting their conference eligibility except in the sport in which they receive remuneration. They may compete against pros in any sport without losing their amateur standing, provided they receive no pay.

This step to the right or the left, according to your viewpoint, has been discussed many times with the old guard or exponents of a strict, even if complicated, amateur code holding steadfast in opposition. So far none of the larger conferences have indorsed a liberal position in regard to pay for services.

Approval or disapproval hinges on one's view of what should constitute college amateurism. There is no question there is a practical side to more liberal interpretation. Two favorable arguments are self-evident—earnings to complete a college education and experience.

In our middle western colleges and universities especially a majority of college athletes are poor boys educated in part by their own efforts, working their way through school, or by sacrifices by parents and relatives. To deprive them of opportunity to play baseball or other sports for money during the summer months is a hardship. Students with something not athletic to sell are not so handicapped.

The Wake's inclination, however, is toward liberalism.

In recent years two classes of college athletes are in evidence. There are those who naturally like sport, who participate for their own pleasure combined with a spirit of college loyalty. To that is added the spur of club or fraternity to have a member on the varsity team.

Then there are boys preparing to make coaching and supervision of physical education their life work. Naturally they are more interested in practical work by actual experience along that line. To them permission to engage in summer sports against pros, either with or without compensation, is a boon supplementary to their college work.

Colleges without a coaches' school, or school of physical education, are at a distinct disadvantage in competitive sports against colleges having such schools, which naturally attract an athletic type.

BUBBLING MATE WINS TEST FOR JUVENILE STAKE

BY FRENCH LANE.

Six 2 year olds, all eligible to the rich Juvenile stakes on the Arlington Park Jocky club's program, came together in the Maywood purse yesterday afternoon.

They were all wrong.

The surprise winner was Bubbling Mate, a chestnut son of Bubbling Over, which Trainer John McPherson, veteran Kentucky horseman, sent to the post for J. and H. Sheitler of Chicago.

Winner Shows Courage.

To win Bubbling Mate had to run the gamest race of his career and few juveniles ever have showed more courage. Bubbling Mate was in front from beginning to end, but he turned back his challengers handily as four of them moved up on as many occasions to dispute his right to the lead. They came dangerously close to snatching the lead away from him, and only a horse with plenty of heart could have withstood them all.

After bouncing into the lead soon after the start, Bubbling Mate first had to withstand a determined challenge from Great Haste. He no sooner had whipped that fellow than Jocky Mack Garner moved up on the outside on the lower bend on Fort Springs. For just an instant Fort Springs' nose was up even with that of Bubbling Mate. Next Sunned and Race Craft made a bid, but they were shaken off in a hurry and the battle down the stretch developed into a two horse race, Bubbling Mate versus Fort Springs.

Garner Makes Strong Finish.

Garner, on Fort Springs, was riding a much stronger finish than was Corbett on Bubbling Mate. Still Bubbling Mate kept going and after running head and head with Fort Springs for a furlong, rallied in the last half dozen strides to get the decision by three-quarters of a length.

Fort Springs was five lengths in front of Sunned, which beat Great Haste by a length and a half. Our Reigh, a son of Reigh Count-Anita Peabody, did not fancy the tough going and ran last all the way.

Bubbling Mate galloped the five and a half furlongs in 1:12 2-5, which was more than eight seconds off the track record. In the mutuel betting he paid $31.02 to win, 10.62 to place, and $5.74 to show. Fort Springs paid $4.90 to place and $4.28 to show. Sunned paid $8.64.

The attendance showed quite an increase over opening day and the wagering also was up. Official figures were not announced, but the Arlington Park Jocky club officials indicated that the no pass rule, adopted by the Illinois racing commission, has helped them rather than caused business to fall off.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—The White Sox showed marked improvement in their meeting with the Yankees today as they held the first placers to a 6 to 2 score. There was a time, in the second inning, when they were only one run behind.

Though they were barely nosed out, the cellar inmates had to confess they were none the less defeated, this particular setback being the fifteenth of the current wearisome trek and their sixth in six games played this season at the Yankee stadium.

There was nothing about today's affair that will go down in history. It should be recorded, however, that Lou Gehrig knocked his No. 20 home run. Besides his home run he had only a double, which figured in a three run blast in the first inning.

Game Over Early.

This blast was the fruit of four hits in a row after the first batsman had been retired. Saltzgaver singled past Boken and Chapman put him on third with a single to center. Gehrig then doubled to right, Saltzgaver scoring and Chapman stopping at third. Hoag singled to center, scoring Chapman and Gehrig. Chamberlin received Haas' throw in and for no reason at all tossed the ball into space half way between first and home. Hoag reached second while Shea was chasing the unique effort, but when he tried to go on to third he was out, Shea to Dykes.

The Sox broke loose to a surprising degree in the second inning. Bonura led off with a double and held on while Boken tapped to Crosetti, but he scored on Dykes' single to left. Chamberlin singled to left center, Dykes stopping at second. Combs hurt his left ankle going after the ball and had to be assisted from the field. Hoag transferred to left and Ruth went to right. Shea flied to Chapman, but Lyons doubled to right, Dykes scoring and Chamberlin managing to get to third, mainly because no play was made there. Uhalt ended the uprising with a foul to Dickey.

Sox Protest a Bit.

The next scoring came with two out in the Yankees' third when Gehrig was given credit for his No. 20 homer midst the feverish objections of the Sox personnel. The ball hit the screen, 295 feet from the plate, and bounced back to the outfield, and those two omnipresent paragons of efficiency, Umpires Moriarty and Geisel, waved Lou home, though the great slugger himself was content to stop at second.

The Sox had something started in both the fourth and fifth innings, but were too weak to carry on.

Two walks, a you-take-it single sandwiched in between, and an infield out enabled Ruth to score in the fifth.

In the seventh Saltzgaver rubbed it in by stealing home, past Lyons. He singled and went to third on Chapman's single. Gehrig flied to Haas. Then Saltzgaver and Chapman executed a double steal, Saltzgaver scoring. Dykes threw out Hoag.

STENGEL AND LOPEZ CHASED; BOYLE HURT

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It's now six in a row for the Cubs, and Lon Warneke, their ace pitcher, has officially registered his tenth victory of the current campaign. All this happened without much excitement yesterday as the Brooklyn Dodgers folded up, 5 to 2, in the third game of the series.

It marked the third triumph in six days for the Cub star and rounded out a stretch of 26 innings in which he has yielded only three runs. One of the three did not score yesterday until the ninth when Warneke was forced to put on a little extra pressure and set down two men on strikes, one of whom was the famous Hack Wilson.

The battle turned tame as soon as the Cubs could get a whack at Ray Benge, the ex-Philly. They slapped him for two runs in the first inning and the Dodgers never were able to catch up. Another run in the third, featuring Chuck Klein for the second time, increased Warneke's working margin. After that the Cubs were quiet except in the seventh when they brought Benge's labors to a conclusion with two more tallies. One of these was a homer sailed into the seats by the revived Ki Cuyler.

Tough for Dodgers.

Only a limited portion of the Brooklyn activities were staged under the auspices of Manager Casey Stengel. Mr. Stengel, as well as his catcher, Al Lopez, went away at the request of Umpire Charley Rigler. The latter called Klein safe at first in the third inning and the guess seemed to be correct. Stengel, however, insisted on having a few words. He also was rude about shaking his finger under Rigler's nose, so the offended umpire told him to beat it and take Lopez along. Lopez was included because he failed to confine himself to parlor language.

Along with the beating and the chasing of their boss and ace backstop, the poor Dodgers encountered further misfortune. Ralph Boyle, their center fielder, while racing to first in the eighth trying to beat one of Bill Jurges' great stops, took his eye off the base for a look at the throw. When he stepped on the base he touched only the corner and his right ankle turned. He was carried off the field. It was diagnosed as a severe sprain, but he was removed to the hospital for an X-ray to make sure no bones were fractured.

Get Two Runs in First.

As soon as the first man was retired in the opening inning the Cubs began to function against Benge. Hack singled to center and Klein duplicated the hit, sending Hack to third. Babe Herman tuned up on a half dozen fouls and then lined a single to right, Hack scoring and Klein dashing to third. Cuyler supplied a fly to Frederick on which Klein scored. The inning closed when a third strike was called on Hartnett.

Warneke slapped down Frederick's hard drive for an out to start the second inning and the jolt may have been responsible for what followed. Leslie singled to center and Cuccinello singled to right. Stripp looped a single into center, Leslie going home and Cuccinello to third. The throw to the latter base eluded Hack, but luckily it didn't go into the Cubs' dugout. Otherwise Cuccinello would have scored under the usual ground rules. Lopez bunted perfectly on a squeeze play, but Cuccinello became lost somewhere along the way and was an easy out at the plate. Warneke then threw out Benge for his third assist of the inning.

The slight disturbance that gave the Cubs a run and also removed Manager Stengel and Catcher Lopez

Chuck Klein lets one go by while batting in the first inning yesterday at Wrigley field. He picked out another one of Ray Benge's offerings and knocked it for a single, advancing Hack, who had preceded him on the bases. Both men subsequently scored.

FIVE AMERICANS QUALIFY TO PLAY IN BRITISH OPEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANDWICH, England, June 26.—Gene Sarazen, Densmore Shute, MacDonald Smith and Joe Kirkwood qualified for the British open golf tournament today at the end of the 36 hole preliminaries. They will be in a field of 101 which will begin 72 holes of medal play tomorrow for the championship.

Smith and Shute each shot a 73 today for totals of 148 and 149, respectively. Sarazen and Kirkwood scored 75 apiece, each totaling 150. Robert Sweeny, a young American living in England, set an amateur course record of 69 today, bringing his score to 145.

Bert Gadd, a 25 year old British professional, carried off the qualifying round scoring honors by shooting a 69 this afternoon, which gave him a total of 140, one stroke ahead of his nearest rivals.

Cotton Tied for Second.

Right behind him were three of his fellow countrymen — Henry Cotton, Percy Alliss, and James Adams, each with 141. Following his record breaking 66 of yesterday Cotton took a 75 today. Alliss and Adams each cut seven strokes from the Royal Cinque Ports course par of 74 for second rounds of 67. Each had posted a 74 over the Royal St. Gorges course yesterday.

The qualifying limit of 152 was the lowest ever recorded in the British Open.

Shute, the defending champion, started today's round realizing that he would have to shoot quite close to par to qualify following his erratic play yesterday, when he could do no better than 76. He began with a pair of fives, but then settled down to steady play and came home one under par to assure himself of a place in the championship field.

Sarazen Also Pressed.

Sarazen also realized that he would have to play consistently today in order to escape elimination. After going out in 36, he was caught in a heavy rainstorm just as he was starting the last nine. For six holes thereafter he played erratically and only a determined rally on the last three holes saved him from the possibility of being a spectator tomorrow.

Mac Smith went out in 32 without being off the fairway. His only mishap on the homeward route occurred at the 14th tee, when he drove out of bounds.

Kirkwood, famous for his trick shots, lived up to his reputation and gave the gallery considerable amusement in doing so. He showed that his nonsense is practical, too. When his ball landed in a trap on the fifth, he found that a normal stance with a right handed club was impossible. So he drew a left handed iron from his bag and knocked the ball to the green, 150 yards away. A six at the 18th was his worst hole.

Miss Johnson Leads Public Parks Tourney

Shirley Ann Johnson of Sunset Ridge, scoring a 44—46—90, led a field of 26 players in the qualifying round of the Public Parks City tournament a' the Evergreen Golf club yesterday.

She was closely pressed by Mrs. Isabel Meany of Cog Hill and Clarice Richardson of Jackson, both of whom posted 91. Mrs. Meany had nines of 47 and 44 while Miss Richardson scored a 46 going out and a 45 coming in.

Shirley played consistent golf, but had difficulty with the greens on the second nine, four putting the 11th and three putting the 13th, 15th and 16th.

Ann Conroy of Cherry Hill finished well up with the leaders with 47—46—93. Rose Long of Cog Hill shot 49—46—95. The highest qualifying score was 106.

Match play starts today with the finals Saturday. The leaders' cards:

CANZONERI AND KLICK MEET IN BROOKLYN PARK

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Frankie Klick, California lightweight, will make his bid for a chance at the title held by Barney Ross when he opposes Tony Canzoneri in a 10 round bout at Ebbets field in Brooklyn tomorrow night. The winner will be generally recognized as the outstanding challenger for Ross' 135 pound title.

Canzoneri, from whom Ross took the crown a year ago, is favored, 6 to 5, to beat Klick. The pair met once before, last October, and Canzoneri won in 10 rounds.

Tribune Golf Pupils Learn About Mashie

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

More than 7,000 men pupils who can be considered full fledged students in THE TRIBUNE's second annual free golf school, having already attended three classes, not only took their fourth lesson last night on the 19 courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, but also gained a working knowledge of other important points in the game, such as rules, etiquet, and the proper selection of clubs.

The regular enrollment of the school was considerably augmented by hundreds of other golfers who came out last night at the invitation of the association's professionals to pick up tips on the fine points of the game. The invitation still stands for the remainder of the week's classes—for women tonight, for couples tomorrow night, and for juniors Friday night.

Story Enlivens Lesson.

Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, vice president of the association, not only gave a demonstration of the mashie shot, scheduled for last night's lesson, but took up several points in the rules of which the average golfer is often unaware. He also explained the handicap figures.

Walsh brought down his class of nearly 200 men, in the course of his lecture on the rules, when he told the story of an irate grounds chairman at a private club who found a member just about to drive a ball off a tee four or five feet in front of the tee plates. The official lectured him at great length, threatening to have been expelled. When he was finally exhausted, the alleged culprit said, "Are you all through now?" The chairman replied in the affirmative.

"Now please go away, will you, while I play my second shot?"

Another 200 appeared at Elmgate, where Jim Dwyer, Hap Martin, Terry McGovern, Tom Kelly, and Harry Maroney taught the mechanics of the mashie swing. Elmgate's women's class tonight will have a distinguished visitor in Helen Hicks, who will give an exhibition of shots.

Classes Grow Weekly.

Pat Cusack of Walnut Hills, whose classes have been growing weekly, reviewed previous lessons for a class of 100 and then lectured on the use of the mashie, the rules, and choice of clubs. At Golfmoor, where Dan Lynch spoke to a class of nearly 100, George Colman, 4829 Lake Park avenue, as a result of last week's teachings on the midiron, reported he had trimmed his game by seven strokes.

Chicago Meadows attracted more than 125 pupils for the mashie instruction from Les MacArthur and Joe Chamberlain. The latter pair, not content with teaching their own classes, are now spreading the gospel of the school by giving Friday night lessons at the Crystal Lawn club near Joliet.

Stan Pelchar encountered his most enthusiastic class last night at Twin Orchard. He and Vic Tonneson of Indian Boundary concentrated on the variations of the No. 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 irons as applied to approach and run-up shots to such an extent that their students stayed on half an hour after the regular lesson to ask further questions.

Schedule Is Changed.

Scotty Irwin and Ed Horenberger of Vernon lectured on the mashie, giving a demonstration of the full, three-quarters, and half swing for chip shots. The importance of the mashie was stressed to a class of 150 at Evergreen by Al Megeff, Ray Hutchison, and John Hanik. Seven professionals, led by Jack Norton, worked with a class of better than 200 at Big Oaks.

All pupils of the school are again reminded of the abbreviated schedule of the school for next week, occasioned by the Independence day holiday on Wednesday. There will be no classes on Tuesday and Wednesday, with the couples' class, ordinarily held on Thursday, being omitted completely. A class for men and junior boys will be held on Thursday, and for women and junior girls on Friday.

EXHIBITION LACROSSE.

Cisar Retains Lumbermen's Golf Championship

Rounds of 85—83—168 over Bob O'Link yesterday gave George Cisar his second consecutive championship in the Lumbermen's Golf association of Chicago yesterday. He retained possession of the Herman H. Hettler trophy.

A field of 71 braved the heat, gale, and then the cold to shoot in the 28th annual tournament. Cisar finished eight strokes ahead of Harry W. Bishop, who had 92—84—176. The wind cost Cisar many strokes.

The Edward Hines trophy [low net afternoon, handicap of 10 or over]—G. J. Pope, 88—12—76.

Chicago Lumber Institute cup [afternoon net, handicap of 12 or over]—C. F. Fagan, 102—24—78.

The Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty trophy [low net afternoon]—H. G. Kemper, 86—13—73.

Putting, 18 holes—A. H. Ruth, Peter De Vries, J. H. Van Landingham and J. E. Magnus tied at 33.

First [handicap 1 to 10]—C. S. Bishop, 88—6—82.

Fourth [handicap 28 or higher]—C. M. Hines, 120—30—90.

H. A. Peterson led the gross shooters in the second monthly tournament of the Junior Trafic club of Chicago yesterday at the Calumet Country club, turning in an 82. He was followed by Al Marti, 84; M. B. Howe, 87, and a nonmember, C. M. Carlson, who had an 83. Blind bogey winners included C. Novak, 80; F. P. McInerney, 81; J. E. Lonn, 82; H. P. Bates, 83; P. J. Kline, 84; H. C. Griffin, 85; W. L. Donaldson, 86; W. P. O'Brien, 87; Art Hellstrom, 88; H. J. Larson, 89, and Dave Lunebach, 90.

The Iroquois club will hold its tournament tomorrow at the Cherry Hill Country club. Jack Woods is chairman of the sports committee. Among those expected to attend are Robert M. Sweitzer, William D. Meyering, and Ben Lindheimer.

The Bowlers' fifth annual golf tournament will be played tomorrow at the Wilmette Golf club. The committee on arrangements includes Jule Lellinger, Herman Lehmpuhl, Steve Owens, Rudy Hazucha, and Bill Wernicke.

DONKEYS TO BE USED BY MILLS, HOUSE OF DAVID

The House of David baseball team, headed by Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran pitcher, will meet the Chicago Mills at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, tonight. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock and three innings of donkey baseball will be played.

Alexander will lead fifteen members of the bewhiskered team and ten mules to Chicago this morning. He will start the game for the House of David, while Manager Bill Harley will use either Speed Bowers or Lefty Sullivan.

In the donkey game all infielders and outfielders are astride the donkeys while they are on the defensive. The batter, after hitting the ball, must leap on the donkey and attempt to reach first base.

The House of David team and its donkeys will play in two other Chicago parks this week. It will meet the Logan Squares at Logan Square park, Kedzie and Elston avenues, tomorrow night and will play the American Giants at Coles park, 39th street and Wentworth avenue, Friday night.

HIGGIN DEFEATS JOY; SERLETIC, GARLOW DRAW

Joe Roman beat Jimmy Richards [4].
Joe Esposito beat Hank Bucker [4].
Patrick Henry beat George Taylor [4].
Pete Sofie and Steve Zene drew [4].

Kocsis Leads Qualifiers in College Golf

Cleveland, O., June 26.—[Special.]—Thunder, lightning, rain, and wind today failed to stop the march of Charley Kocsis, Michigan sophomore, as he established himself as medalist in the 36th annual national intercollegiate golf tournament with 147 strokes. He was two strokes ahead of the field and three over par. Michigan won the team championship with a total of 614 strokes.

Caught in an electric storm, preceded and accompanied by wind which reached gale-like proportions, the Big Ten champion was only one over perfect figures for the day with a 73. On the outgoing nine, before the storm, he was one under par, with a 35. He was even with par at the 12th hole when the storm began, but he finished only one stroke over. He shot a 74 yesterday.

First Team Title for West.

It was the first time that the team championship had left the east in the history of the tournament. It was the second time it left the Big Three—Yale, Harvard and Princeton—Dartmouth having won in 1921. Yale, the defending champion, finished second with 617, while Georgia Tech's low scoring four man aggregation scored 618 for third honors. Notre Dame was fourth with 625.

Notre Dame placed five men in the match play pairings for the individual championship, more than any other team entered, when Pat Malloy Jr., Tulsa sophomore, shot a 75 which combined with his 85 of yesterday to give him 160 and place him in a playoff with four others for the 32d position in the rankings. He took a par four on the first extra hole to get into the match play bracket for the individual championship.

White Totals 149.

Ed White of Texas, southwestern champion, who shot a par 72 yesterday, the only perfect score in the qualifying rounds, had a 77 today for a total of 149 to tie for second position with Charley Yates of Georgia Tech and Roy Ryden of the University of California at Los Angeles.

William Ward, Syracuse [150], vs. Pat Sawyer, Minnesota [157].
Johnny Banks Notre Dame [151], vs. Arthur Wood, Harvard [157].
Fred Newton, Rollins [155], vs. Bill Zieske, Minnesota [159].
Charles Yates, Georgia Tech [149], vs. Winfield Day Jr., Notre Dame [157].
Vincent Fehlig, Notre Dame [158], vs. Roy Ryden, U. C. L. A. [149].

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

Black bass found in the big reservoirs between Crivitz and Mountain, Wis., are within a short distance of Thunder mountain, a piece of land that for years has been associated with the famous Thunder river trout stream. After spending a few days catching the small mouths in the High Falls reservoir, an artificial body of water which has been harnessed to produce electric power, we are ready to testify that the fish literally have stolen some thunder from Thunder mountain. They are full of fight and, when conditions are right, hit lures with a wallop.

If a fisherman will work his fly rod on the reservoir either very early in the morning or late in the evening, after the wind has gone down, he ought to have no trouble landing a good catch of small mouths. Of course, the fly fishing game practically is in the lap of the weather man. We found this true on our recent trip to the High Falls fishing region.

If the weather man keeps a wind blowing all through the evening hours of fishing it is difficult to work surface lures. On a bright, hot day the bass bore down deep, often beyond the reach of fly rod lures.

We tried the early morning hours of fishing on this recent trip [with operation starting around 4:30 o'clock] and also after dinner fishing. To us the evening hours are more productive and also more fun. We found one morning that it was no trouble to fool six or seven small mouths in quick order before the sun got very high, but when the rising sun sent the bass down deep we had to quit using dry flies.

As the sun grew brighter the bass left the shallow water. Changing to a wet fly, having a little gold spinner in front, it was possible to get bass, but you had to go down deep for them. Inasmuch as we believe surface lures to be a lot more fun, because we like to see a bass smack a bug on top of the water, this wet fly fishing is not so attractive to us.

TWILIGHT GAME TOMORROW.

SIGILIO GETS BIG TEST TONIGHT IN PETE NEBO BOUT

Tonight's Card

Frank Sigilio vs. Pete Nebo [10], 138.
Bobby O'Dowd vs. Lenny Cohen [6], 120.
Sailor Born vs. Frank Keevil [6], 140.
Mickey Misko vs. Einar Hedquist [6], 160.

Sigilio, undefeated in 17 professional appearances, will be meeting his strongest opponent in Nebo. A victory will place him a step closer to his goal, a title match with Barney Ross, lightweight, junior welterweight, and welterweight champion.

The Cicero Italian, like Ross, is a Golden Gloves product, but unlike Barney he did not win a championship. This has only spurred him on since he deserted the amateurs a year ago.

Sigilio's main forte is his powerful punching. He scored knockouts over Frank Keevil, Harry Booker, Joey Kaufman, Young Terry, and Midget O'Dowd to windup a winning streak of 16. Low weight, which weakened him, and inability to corral Tommy Corbett and land his favorite punches broke the string. The bout was called a draw.

Sigilio is not expected to have the same difficulty in landing tonight, but Nebo is a different type of boxer than Corbett. He goes where the fighting is and the Cicero youngster may be kept so busy defending himself he will have little opportunity to go on the offensive.

A knockout is possible, however, for anybody Sigilio hits almost always finishes on the canvas. If Frank accomplishes this feat it will be something Champion Ross, Tony Canzoneri, Kid Chocolate, and others could not do a few weeks ago in fights at Kansas City, Mo., and San Francisco, Cal.

Sherald Kennard, Fargo, N. D., welterweight, and Mickey O'Shea of the north side, were signed yesterday to meet in an eight round windup bout at Marigold Gardens Monday.

Tommy Corbett, Omaha, Neb., lightweight, and Gene Higgins, Chicago, may meet in the windup encounter Tuesday at Western stadium. . . . Davey Day, west side 135 pound boxer, will be inactive for two weeks longer because of an attack of boils. . . . Johnny Phagan began drilling yesterday for a match against Tony Bruno at Milwaukee, Wis. Monday. . . . Al Stillman and Dave Maier, light heavyweights, clash in a return bout on the program. . . . Freddy Caserio, who makes his professional debut at Wrigley field July 18 on the card headed by Leo Rodak and Kid Chocolate, left early this morning for Princeton, Ill., where he will spend 10 days' on a farm with Ario Soldati.

The Meek Tourists.

The plump ones find the going somewhat steep,
Yet follow up the mountain trail and down

Of course, they bite—poor tourists all are tame.
Then herded out for twenty miles or so
They see the home of a near-Eskimo.

Next they are led to view the Sho-Sho falls
And shown some ruins with adobe walls.

"I USED TO THINK I COULDN'T SELL A LIFE PRESERVER TO A DROWNING MAN"

"NOW I'M MAKING MORE MONEY THAN I EVER MADE—I'M SELLING!"

"I used to be a surveyor. When things got tough, I was laid off. For a while I was able to get a job in my own line every now and then, but none of them lasted very long. I was getting pretty fed up with things, when one day I met an old buddy of mine who used to work in the same gang. He had on good clothes and he was driving his own car. I asked him what he was doing. He said he was selling. I laughed. I told him I couldn't sell a life preserver to a drowning man. He laughed, too. He said that's what he used to think—until he connected with an organization that showed him what it was all about—taught him how to sell and how to make more money than he had ever made before. Then and there I made a decision. Now I'm in the money, too!"

ARE the opportunities in your own line drying up? Are you tired of waiting for things to come back? Have you turned your back on selling opportunities because you were convinced that you couldn't sell?

Don't let your own preconceived notions bar the way to a future that may hold big things for you. Invest a little time and effort finding out about the selling opportunities that are available to you, right now.

Turn to the Tribune want ad section and note the many concerns which want to enlarge their selling organizations. Make up a list of the offers which appeal the most to you—and then follow them up. Turn to the Salesmen, Solicitors, etc., columns now!

CARDINALS RUN OVER GIANTS IN 13 TO 7 VICTORY

Paul Dean Gets His 10th Triumph of Year.

St. Louis, Mo., June 26.—(AP)—Paul Dean registered his third victory of the season over the New York Giants today, when the St. Louis Cardinals went on a hitting rampage to take the third game of the series, 13 to 7. The triumph was Dean's tenth of the season, as compared to only one setback.

Dean yielded 15 hits, including Mel Ott's 19th homer and Travis Jackson's 10th, but he kept them fairly well scattered, while the Cards built up a commanding lead in the early innings off Al Smith and Joe Bowman. Score:

PHILS, PIRATES SPLIT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—The Pirates and Phillies split in today's double header, the Phils taking the first, 5 to 4, and dropping the second, 4 to 1, in a five inning game stopped by rain.

Bucky Walters' home run in the fourth inning of the first game with two on bases put the Phils in the lead and Phil Collins held it throughout.

Senators Whip Browns, 10-9; Sewell Hurt

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—The Washington Senators scored a 10 to 9 victory over the St. Louis Browns today in a game that sent Luke Sewell, Washington catcher, to the hospital.

Sewell was hit by a fast ball thrown by Bump Hadley, Browns' pitcher, in the third inning. He dropped to the turf unconscious. Authorities at Garfield hospital where Sewell is confined tonight described his condition as "good." Surgeons were awaiting an opportunity to examine X-ray plates in order to make a complete diagnosis.

REORGANIZATION OF STADIUM TO TAKE 60 DAYS

Reorganization plans for the Chicago Stadium corporation, which has been in receivership since Jan. 20, 1933, will be ready within 60 days, Charles E. Driver, of the bond holders committee, said yesterday at the conclusion of an all day meeting. A creditors' petition was filed in the United States District court Monday under section 77b of the amended bankruptcy law, which permits reorganization by agreement of two-thirds of the creditors.

"We always have intended to reorganize the financial structure of the corporation at the proper time," Mr. Driver said. "The proposals will not alter plans for operation of the Stadium."

RULES OF CONTEST—Pick the nine players who you think will be in the starting lineup for the American league when the interleague game is played in New York July 10. Then do the same for the National league. Send your selections, accompanied by a 300 word letter explaining the reasons for your choices, to the All-Star Game Editor, Chicago Tribune. The winner will receive $250 in cash. Players must not be switched from their regular positions. The two major league baseball writers and the sports editor of The Tribune will decide the winner. Points considered will be accuracy of the selections, neatness, and soundness of reasons. In case of a tie a duplicate award will be given. Entries close July 4.

National A. A. U. Meet Holds Promise of Seven New Records

Those who measure the success of a track and field meet solely by the number of records broken may anticipate an afternoon of pleasure Saturday in Marquette university's stadium when the amateur stars of the nation compete in the 47th annual A. A. U. games. No less than seven meet records, if the athletes are granted fair weather and a firm track, are expected to be tied or broken.

The toll of American and world records, however, won't be as high principally because the distances are measured in meters and these, the customary standards in Europe and other portions of the globe, make world marks more difficult of attainment.

Metcalfe Seeks Two Marks.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's Negro sprinter who last week won both sprints in the national collegiate meet and thus became the first athlete in history to dominate the college games for three consecutive years, will shoot at the 100 and 200 meter marks. One of these meet records, the 200 meter dash in 21.1 seconds, already belongs to Metcalfe. The other for 100 meters is 10.4 seconds and is owned by Eddie Tolan, former Michigan star. That this is within range of Metcalfe's speed is evidenced by the world's 200 meter record of 10.3 seconds which has officially been awarded Percy Williams of Canada and later tied by Metcalfe and Tolan in the 1932 Olympics. International approval of the 1932 record has not yet been granted.

Glenn Cunningham's 1,500 meter meet record of 3:52.3 certainly is in danger. With Bill Bonthron of Princeton, who whipped Cunningham in the N. C. A. A. mile in 4:08.9, pushing Cunningham, this undoubtedly should be one of Saturday's feature events. Lloyd Hahn has held the National A. A. U. 800 meter mark of 1:51.4 since 1928, and this will be the target for Charles Hornbostel, Indiana university's star, who this spring established a new half mile mark in the Western conference. Ben Eastman, who defeated Hornbostel in the Princeton invitational games, will give Hornbostel all the incentive the Hoosier runner needs for a superlative performance.

Threaten High Jump, Shot Marks.

The meet records for the high jump and the shot put undoubtedly are on the list which is vulnerable to attack Saturday. Walter Marty, Fresno State, and George Spitz, New York university, tied in the high jump in the N. C. A. A. at 6 feet 6¾ inches, which is one-fourth of an inch less than the National A. A. U. meet record. Both have jumped higher on several occasions.

Big Jack Torrance seems likely to surpass the A. A. U. mark in the shot put. Leo Sexton holds the meet record of 52 feet ½ inch and he also holds the accepted American record of 52 feet 8 inches. Torrance won the N. C. A. A. shot put with 54 feet 6 9-16 inches. His best mark in competition was made in the Drake relays this spring at Des Moines when he pushed the 16 pound weight 55 feet 1½ inches. This probably will be the accepted world record when the international federation considers the affidavits from the Drake officials.

Assignment Too Big?

Glenn Hardin, America's premier quarter miler, who also is an exceptional 400 meter hurdler, if he elects to run in the 200 meter hurdle race, may establish a new meet record. The present mark of 23.4 seconds was set last year at Soldiers' field by Heye Lambertus of Nebraska. Hardin won the 220 yard low hurdle race at Los Angeles last week, the electrical timing device crediting him with 23.16 seconds. Three record races in one afternoon probably is a bigger assignment than Hardin cares to undertake.

Advance Guard of Track Stars Hits Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., June 26.—(AP)—Marquette university stadium today was taken over by an army of athletes who formed the vanguard of the field entered in the National A. A. A. track meet Friday and Saturday.

Coming in from Los Angeles, where most of them won honors in the National Collegiate meet last Saturday, stars of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, Louisiana State, Indiana, and Pennsylvania appeared today. All but Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania worked out this afternoon.

Walter Marty, the Fresno state boy, twice cleared the high jump bar at 6 feet 8⅛ inches, and Jack Torrance of Louisiana State flipped the 16 pound shot 52 feet and better, after scarcely warming up. Johnny Morriss, defending champion in the high hurdles, aggravated a leg muscle injury and trainers working on him feared he will be unable to start Saturday.

Writers Differ with Fans in Baseball Poll

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Major league baseball writers, polled in connection with the balloting for the all-star teams scheduled to play July 10 at the Polo Grounds, differ sharply with fans in several instances, it was disclosed today by the Baseball Writers' association.

Lefty Grove, second to Lefty Gomez in the popular balloting among American league pitchers, is not among the first five choices of the experts, who also show a preference for Frank Higgins of the Athletics over Jimmie Dykes of the White Sox at third base. Dykes has been far in front in the fans' poll.

The writers rank Monte Weaver of the Senators next to Gomez, and also vote heavily for Al Simmons of the White Sox and Bob Johnson of the Athletics, the new home run leader, for American league out field positions, in contrast with a lack of public support for these performers.

Stuhley Wins from Dundee in 10 Rounds

Stuhley's victory was based primarily on the rounds in which he carried the battle to Dundee. In the fifth he opened a deep cut over the champion's left eye. And in the eighth round Stuhley scored a knockdown with a sharp left hook which bounced Dundee through the ropes and almost into the lap of Timekeeper Al Meisner.

Henry Rothier, Chicago welterweight, an international Golden Gloves champion, defeated Puggy Weinert in the eight round semi-windup. Two other former Golden Glovers also were on the card. Adolph Wiater of Green Bay, Wis., stopped his heavyweight opponent, Jess Akers of Indianapolis, in the second round, and Al Soukup, 1932 flyweight Golden Gloves titleholder, making his first professional appearance, fought a four round draw with Gene Connolly of Minneapolis, a featherweight.

Frankie Genovese of Winnipeg, Canada, welterweight, won a four round decision from Roosevelt Haines of Chicago, and Johnny Gould, Chicago lightweight, stopped Billy Breedlove of Indianapolis in the third round of the opening bout.

Hart Pins La Belle on White City Mat Card

Frank Hart defeated Pierre La Belle in the windup of the professional wrestling show at White City last night. Hart pinned his opponent in 31 minutes 22 seconds. Bob Wagner won from Ernie Arthur in 16 minutes 30 seconds in the semi-windup. Other results:

Ralph Garibaldi beat Ed Martin, 18:35.
Bill Gruber beat Jimmy Peters, 18:00.
Tony Haydich and Leo Umbles drew, 20:00.

Tilden Defeats Bernstein Easily in Pro Tourney

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 26.—Bill Tilden of Philadelphia scored an easy first round victory over Morton Bernstein of New York today in one of the three singles tennis matches which opened the north central states' professional tournament at the Town club. The scores were 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

Keith Gledhill of Santa Monica, Cal., defeated George Jennings of Chicago, former national clay courts champion, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4, and Alfred H. Chapin of New York won from Earl Edwards of the Town club, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Ellis Klingeman, tennis instructor at the South Shore Country club, in Chicago, will play Karel Kozeluh this afternoon. Klingeman and Kozeluh later will team with one another in the doubles competition which is to start Thursday.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—A second son was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney.

The former world's heavyweight champion said the new arrival weighed eight pounds eleven ounces, and already had one "knockout" to his credit.

Mother and son both were "doing splendidly," Tunney added. The baby was born at 6:44 a. m.

The Tunneys' first son, Gene Lauder Tunney, was born in November, 1931.

TRANSFER HOCKEY PLAYERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 26.—[Special.]—The Minneapolis club of the Central Hockey league today announced that Cully Dahlstrom, center, and Cliff Purpur, a forward, will be given to the Chicago Black Hawks of the National league on option at the start of next season.

from the scene in the third started with a single by Billy Herman. Hack sacrificed. Klein then beat out the hit that caused the rumpus. He bounced hard to Leslie, who was playing deep at first base. Benge ran over to cover on the play and it was apparent that Klein was safe with room to spare. After the oratory had been concluded with Umpire Rigler's banishment order, Babe Herman knocked a fly to Frederick and Billy Herman scored after the catch. Klein tried to go to second on the throwin but was doubled at second, Frederick to Benge to Jordan.

After the trouble in the third, Benge settled down and showed the Cubs he could keep them in their place. They went through three innings before getting a man to base. Then Cuyler broke this string by opening the seventh with his home run into the right field seats, making his third of the year. Hartnett fanned and Grimm bounced to Cuccinello, whereupon Jurges and Warneke got together for another run. Jurges sent a two bagger along the left field line and scored on a single by Warneke. Cuccinello made a one handed stop of Billy Herman's drive to end the inning.

Hack Fans to End It.

Warneke's flurry that caused a few uncomfortable moments in the ninth got under way when Leslie walked with one out. Cuccinello hit the left field wall just inside the flagpole for two bases, Leslie stopping at third. Stripp looped a Texas league single into short right center, scoring Leslie and putting Cuccinello on third. Warneke then decided to quit fooling. He fanned Sukeforth, after which Hack Wilson was asked to make his appearance as pinch man for Carroll, who had pitched to the Cubs in the eighth. The one time famous Hack looked at a third strike.

Guy Bush will have to take care of the Cubs' pitching today in the final with the Dodgers. It is Bill Lee's turn, but the big Louisiana athlete has what is termed a "crick in the neck." Emil Leonard or Tom Zachary, possibly both, will work for the Brooklyn boys.

The Cubs will be on their way this evening, but will be back on their own lot Monday afternoon. They'll pick up some loose change by playing an exhibition tomorrow afternoon at Wheeling, W. Va. And will be at Pittsburgh the three following days.

FIVE AMERICANS ENTER 3D ROUND AT WIMBLEDON

Williams Loses to Perry for Only Setback.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26.—(AP)—The United States had a big day in the all-England tennis tournament today as five of her young men and her two leading feminine players, Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, scored victories.

Two casualties were suffered. Richard Norris Williams, 42 year old captain of the American Davis cup team, fell as expected before Fred Perry, ace of the English forces, 6-2, 6-2, 6-0, and Josephine Cruickshank withdrew from women's singles because of a sprained shoulder suffered in practice.

Shields Beats Landry.

Shields put out the French internationalist, Pierre Landry, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0. Wood tried out his ground strokes on Max Ellmer of Switzerland and won 6-2, 5-7, 6-0, 7-5, while Stoefen blasted the well known English player, John S. Olliff, off the courts, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Jones scored an upset by coming from behind to defeat the English Davis cup player, George Patrick Hughes, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4, while Lott put on a great show for the customers on the No. 1 court as he defeated Giorgio de Stefani, Italian star, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Lott tried for everything in sight, doing several tumbles and bounding to a popular victory over the Italian No. 1. When the crowd wasn't laughing at Lott's antics it was cheering him on.

Girls Score Easily.

Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey, the current favorite of the galleries because of her courageous stand in the Wightman cup matches, both had an easy time winning first round encounters. Miss Jacobs put out the Englishwoman, Mrs. E. C. Peters, 6-1, 6-1, while Sarah won from Miss R. Smith, also of England, 6-4, 6-1.

Prominent spectators in the stands today were two former Wimbledon champions, Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills Moody.

COWES, Isle of Wight, June 26.—T. O. M. Sopwith's America's cup challenger, Endeavour, will go to Falmouth tomorrow for her final sailing engagements before crossing the Atlantic. The sloop will be towed to Falworth by Sopwith's motor yacht Vita to race on Friday and Saturday.

The challenger is taking along two booms and several new sails. The booms include the one it broke—now repaired and strengthened—and an experimental boom of the flexible Park Avenue type. What sort of boom Endeavour will carry in the Amehica's cup races is uncertain and may not be decided until the yacht reaches America.

The new sails are for experimental purposes. Sopwith has spent a large sum in experimental canvas on the Endeavour, but most of it is yet to be spread. The craft will take to America more different "suits of clothing" than any previous challenger.

W. G. Mennen

● HONESTLY, it hands me a laugh. One manufacturer insists 'ONLY Lather can give you a decent shave.' The other replies: 'ONLY Brushless is fit to be used.'

To me that's about as silly as ballyhoo! I've been studying the science of shaving for 26 years and I can tell you there is no such thing as one best preparation for all faces. Lather may be best for you, Brushless best for your brother. It depends on your shaving technique, your type of beard and—most important—your type of skin.

That's why I make both, Mennen Lather and Mennen Brushless. That means that both are whisker-wilters. That means that both take all the fight out of all your whiskers—the beard. The blade cuts clean!

Yes, both do it—but only your skin can decide which is best for you.

For example, if your skin is oily, you should use Mennen Lather. It loosens pore-imbedded oil deposits, flushes out your over-active skin.

If your skin is normal, then it's a question of convenience—do you like to use a brush or don't you? Both Mennen Lather and Mennen Brushless wilt your whiskers!

CLOSE EVIDENCE TAKING IN RACE TRACK DOPE CASE

Judge to Rule Today on Dismissal Plea.

Taking of testimony was concluded yesterday before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the case of two men accused of doping race horses. Judge Sullivan is expected to rule today on a motion by the defense to suppress the evidence on grounds that it was illegally obtained.

The defendants in the case, which is the first of a series the government plans to prosecute in an effort to stamp out the practice of administering narcotics to the horses, are Jack Howard, owner of a racing stable, and Charles P. Mitchell, his Negro foreman.

Both men took the stand yesterday and denied the testimony given the day before by government narcotics agents, who declared they had witnessed the doping of half a dozen horses at the Arlington Park track, the Jefferson Park track at New Orleans, and the Hialeah track in Florida last year.

Mitchell did admit that last July he gave "medicine" to one of the horses, Louie Dear, at the direction of Howard. This, the defense claims, was a medicine prescribed regularly by a veterinarian.

Howard Offers Denial.

Before evidence was introduced Monday, Attorney William F. Waugh, representing the defense, had moved to suppress on the ground that the agents had no search warrants. Judge Sullivan held in abeyance a ruling on that point until all the evidence was heard.

About 70 Million Ounces Already Purchased.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—Administration officials believe the new silver purchase plan will cause a currency expansion of at least $940,500,000, with corresponding increase in commodity prices, by the end of the year.

This was disclosed today after Representative Dies [Dem., Tex.], coauthor of the plan, announced the treasury already had bought around 70,000,000 ounces of silver. The exact amount, he said, could not be ascertained positively because the metal was being purchased on markets all over the world, and the treasury tabulations were not up to the minute.

It was reported elsewhere that the average price paid for the silver already purchased was 44 cents an ounce. As an immediate result, Dies said, the bureau of printing and engraving was far behind in printing new silver certificates to be issued on the basis of the metal.

The law now requires the treasury to buy silver until that metal constitutes 25 per cent of its monetary reserve. Against all silver purchases the treasury must issue certificates.

Dies said the treasury estimated it would have to buy 1 billion, 254 million ounces of silver to comply with the new law.

"Counting the silver now owned by the government, this will give us about 2 billion ounces of silver," he said. "Under my bill, the treasury can issue 2 billion, 58 million dollars of new silver certificates based on the silver we must acquire."

Treasury Figures Otherwise.

Treasury actuaries and administration officials, however, reached their estimate of $940,500,000 in new currency by the first of the year on a different valuation.

These said that the United States would be lucky if it obtained around one-fifth of the world's silver supply without paying more than an average of 75 cents an ounce. Therefore, they multiplied the 1 billion, 254 million ounces of silver to be acquired by 75 cents to obtain a resulting $940,500,000 in new currency.

Officials said the treasury planned to push the program rapidly, intending to have all the silver either actually bought or under future deliver contract by the year end.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Silver to the amount of 4,013,536 ounces was withdrawn yesterday from depositories licensed by the Commodity Exchange, Inc., reducing stocks here to 79,036,042 ounces, the smallest quantity this year. The reduction since June 18 has been 23,671,333 ounces, all having been taken for the account of the treasury department. Additional transfers were in progress yesterday.

TEST NEW DEAL POLICIES, SEED MEN ARE TOLD

Three hundred seedsmen attending the fifty-second annual convention of the American Seed Trade association at the Hotel Sherman were advised yesterday that governmental policies of increased supervision over industry seem to be well established. The seedmen were urged by Lyndon M. King, Minneapolis, president of the organization, to accept implications of this new federal philosophy.

The speaker asked that speed be given the testing of new governmental regulatory theories so that impractical ones may be eliminated rapidly. New measures for control should be tested and judged in the light of practical experience, according to Mr. King, so that they can be "removed from the realm of theoretical opinion."

John Y. Beaty, financial publication editor, spoke along similar lines in an address to the seedsmen. "We are having a new deal, some say a raw deal," he declared, "but we will have to get accustomed to it until the next election, anyway, and go ahead with business as usual."

DAILY AVERAGE CRUDE OUTPUT CUT 7,350 BARRELS

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 7,350 barrels in the week ended June 23, totaling 2,602,100 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California decreased 22,650 barrels to 2,066,900 barrels.

Refineries representing 89.7 per cent of estimated total capacity reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,420,000 barrels. Daily average the preceding week for refineries representing 89.7 per cent of total was 2,375,000 barrels.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 1,221,000 barrels, a daily average of 174,429 barrels, against 873,000 barrels, a daily average of 124,714 barrels for the preceding week.

COTTON MOVES HIGHER AS JULY DELIVERIES BEGIN

Deliveries of 33,000 bales of cotton yesterday on July contracts in New Orleans and New York passed into strong hands and with continued reports of dry and hot weather from Texas the market developed a strong undertone.

Closing trades were at net gains of 6 to 14 points in Chicago and 4 to 9 points per pound in other markets. Prices at the extreme were the highest since last March.

Spot cotton gained 10 points, with Galveston and Houston closing at 12.35 cents; New Orleans, 12.30 cents, and New York, 12.45 cents per pound. Prices:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today, but the demand was less active and offerings a little more liberal. Sales reported were only 28,700 bags of Puerto Rican, concluded late yesterday, for July shipment and 41,000 bags of Cuban today for July and August shipment at 3.15c, both to outport refiners.

In futures early declines as a result of liquidation and hedge selling were just about recovered in the later trading on covering and commission house buying. Final prices were 2 points lower on July and 1 lower to 1 higher on later deliveries. Sales were 15,350 tons. Prices:

Refined was unchanged at 4.75c for fine granulated. Withdrawals against old orders were of fair proportions, but as the trade covered requirements for the next couple of months on the recent move, no new business was reportd.

BUTTER AND FUTURES EASE SLIGHTLY IN CHICAGO MART

Butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange were somewhat easier yesterday, butter closing unchanged to ⅛ cent lower and eggs unchanged to ¼ cent lower.

Weekly movement of butter into cold storage last week was 5,700,000 pounds less than during the same period last year. Buying, however, was only fair, and the close was at the bottom.

Movement of eggs into storage last week was 15,000 cases in excess of last year. Fresh eggs and butter in the local market were quoted as fractionally lower.

TRADE IN CHICAGO AREA UP SHARPLY FOR LAST MONTH

Gains Range from 22.7 to 60.5 Per Cent.

Wholesale trade in the seventh federal reserve district showed net sales' gains ranging from 22.7 to 60.5 per cent in May, compared with May, 1933, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

There was an expansion of 19 per cent over the preceding month in both grocery and electrical supply sales. Hardware sales were up 12 per cent and dry goods sales 9 per cent. Average gains of May sales over April during a period of years have been 4 per cent for groceries and electrical supplies, 3 per cent for hardware, and 1 per cent for dry goods. A 2 per cent gain in drugs compared with a 2 per cent decline in the May average from 1924-'33.

The largest gain over a year ago shown so far this year was in groceries, which increased sales 23 per cent over May, 1933. In other lines the increases were not as large as in previous months this year. For the first five months of the year electrical supply sales were 80 per cent greater than in the 1933 period. Hardware sales were up 62 per cent; dry goods, 53 per cent; drugs, 32 per cent, and groceries, 21 per cent.

Department Store Sales Up.

Department store sales rose 7 per cent over April, compared with a normal recession of 5 per cent in the 1924-'33 average. Total sales for stores in smaller cities expanded 16 per cent over April volume. Chicago volume was 12 per cent greater; Indianapolis, 4 per cent higher, and Detroit, 2 per cent, while in Milwaukee there was a decline of 9 per cent.

The expansion of dollar volume of shoes sold during May over the preceding month was the greatest for any May period since 1926. Sales were 27 per cent above those of May, 1933. For the first five months of the year volume exceeded that of the corresponding period of 1933 by 28 per cent.

Expansion in the retail furniture trade was greater than seasonal with a gain of 12 per cent, compared with an average gain of 5 per cent in the years from 1927-'33. Chain stores reported an increase of 10 per cent over April sales, and a gain of 14 per cent over May, 1933.

Meat Packing Up 18 Per Cent.

Production in the meat packing industry rose 18 per cent to the highest level since the beginning of the year. Volume for May was .5 per cent greater than May, 1933, and 11½ per cent above the 1924-'33 May average. Payrolls showed a marked improvement over a year ago.

Production of creamery butter expanded seasonally but was under a year ago and below the 1924-'33 average for the month. The increase over April was 41½ per cent. There was an 11 per cent drop below a year ago and 17½ per cent below the average from 1924-'33.

There was a slight decline during May in the output of automobiles. The total of 273,765 cars for the month was 5 per cent below April production, but 50½ per cent greater than in May, 1933. Previous to the May decline there had been five consecutive months of expansion. There were 57,876 trucks produced in May, a decrease of 12 per cent from April, but a gain of 76 per cent over May, 1933.

REVIVAL OF GRAIN EXPORTS LIKELY, BAKERS ARE TOLD

Profitable foreign markets may be restored to the American grain producer as a result of conditions now prevailing throughout the world, R. I. Mansfield, Chicago grain man, told members of the Illinois Bakers' association at a meeting here yesterday.

Clumsy political efforts to reduce the burdensome wheat surplus proved futile, but the drouth which ravaged crops in this country and Europe promises to bring about an adjustment again between supply and demand, he said. Such an adjustment and elimination of the American surplus will enable farmers here to sell abroad again, he added. The speaker, who is chairman of the education committee of the Chicago Board of Trade, said from the consumers' standpoint, the situation is not alarming.

BACK TO FARM MOVEMENT GAINS, REALTORS TOLD

Minneapolis, Minn., June 26.—(AP)—The people are doing an about face these days, the National Association of Real Estate Boards in convention here were told today.

At the peak of good times they flocked to the urban centers. Now, Charles F. C. Ladd, San Antonio, president of the association's Institute of Farm Land Brokers and Managers, said, they are turning back again in one of the greatest back to the land movements in the history of the nation.

"Federal land banks," said Ladd in his address, "have found 8,000 responsible buyers of repossessed farms in the last three years. Insurance companies agree there is a rapidly increasing demand for farms."

GRAIN EXPORTS DECLINE; TOTAL 77,000 BUSHELS

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week totaled 77,000 bushels against 210,000 the preceding week and 178,000 the corresponding week of last year.

Commerce department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those for the preceding week: wheat, 5,000 bushels against 86,000; corn, 17,000 against 120,000; oats, 6,000 against 4,000; barley, 48,000 against none; rye, 1,000 against none.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports totaled 709,000 bushels against 295,000, while exports of North American wheat flour were 24,000 barrels against 20,000 barrels.

WORLD WHEAT CROP ESTIMATE 7% UNDER 1933

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—World wheat production outside Russia and China—normally about 85 per cent of the total—is likely to be about 7 per cent less and the total available world supply about 8 per cent less during the 1934-'35 crop year than in the last season, according to an analysis issued today by the bureau of agricultural economics.

Production throughout the northern hemisphere outside Russia and China is expected to be reduced by about 200,000,000 bushels. Given average yields, the southern hemisphere would produce about 600,000,000 bushels less than during the current season, the bureau said. Reports to the bureau indicate an improvement in the China wheat crop over this year, but a reduction is expected in Russia.

Carryover Smaller.

In addition to lower production stocks of old wheat on hand at the beginning of the new crop year July 1 are likely to be about 50,000,000 bushels under those of the corresponding date last year. The total supply of world wheat available during 1934-'35 appears to be about 300,000,000 bushels less than for the previous season.

It is further expected by the bureau that world wheat prices during the coming year will be maintained at a level above that of the past season, the prospective reduction in supplies already having brought about an advance.

Prospective crop of the United States, the bureau said, was likely to be about 100,000,000 bushels short of domestic requirements, with the result that a like reduction will be effected in the carryover from previous crop years.

"If the carry-over as of July 1 is only about 265,000,000 bushels, the excess of domestic consumption over the new crop may result in a carry-over as of July 1, 1935, of about normal proportions."

Cut Surplus to Normal.

Secretary Wallace recently estimated the probable carry-over of wheat into the crop year 1935-'36 at about 135,000,000 bushels, pointing out that, if this prospect materialized, the United States would have solved, temporarily at least, its surplus wheat problem.

Wheat crop prospects for 1934-'35 are generally below those of a year ago, both for importing and exporting countries, according to the bureau's analysis. Principal exceptions where better crops are expected are Canada, Spain, Portugal, Morocco, Tunis and India, to which might be added, it said, China, Manchuria and Japan.

"The entire continent of Europe has suffered from drouth," the bureau announced. "The Berlin office reports that the total grain production is certain to be 25 to 30 per cent below the average of the last three years, regardless of future weather developments."

RAIN LITTLE HELP IN U. S.

The government's June 1 estimate of a total wheat crop of 500,000,000 bushels is still in line with conditions despite relief from the drouth that has come since the estimate was made.

Such is the conclusion made in the Cargill crop report issued last night. The agency estimated that the improvement in wheat and durum crops in North and South Dakota has amounted to 10 to 25 per cent since the recent rains. It points out, however, that this improvement leaves the crop with prospects of 50 per cent of a normal yield.

Despite good returns from harvesting in southeastern Kansas, the Cargill report declares the remainder of the Kansas crop is not promising. The present outlook in other states in the wheat area, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, do not indicate that the earlier estimate should be raised, the agency concludes.

U. S. HOLDS GOLD, SO CAN TALKIES MAKE IT CLINK?

Culver City, Cal., June 26.—(AP)—The question of whether it is legal to reproduce the sound of gold coins in a talking picture has arisen to plague Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio.

The studio knows it is against the law to photograph real money. Therefore it has "minted" a batch of doubloons and pieces of eight out of bronze for use in a Treasure Island picture. But the bronze coins lack that authoritative ring that only real gold can produce, so the studio kept the wires hot to Washington today seeking permission to use gold coins in a sort of offstage capacity—heard but not seen.

Two Agricultural Bureaus Will Be Consolidated

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine in the department of agriculture will be merged on July 1. The new organization, Secretary Wallace said today, will take over from the bureau of plant quarantine control and eradication work on plant pests and diseases. The consolidation "will permit greater economy," the secretary added.

Mercantile Exchange to Close on Saturdays

The board of directors of the Chicago Mercantile exchange has voted to close trading in butter and egg futures on Saturdays during July and August and to close the exchange on Saturday, Sept. 1.

Bullish Talk Fails to Boost Price of Wheat

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Everybody talked bullish but the wheat market went down again yesterday. With a few exceptions the traders in the pits, the commission merchants, and the more vocal market letter writers are bullish on wheat and other grains, too. That talk alone will not "bull" the market is being demonstrated almost daily on the Chicago Board of Trade. The market stubbornly refuses to advance on mere talk.

Yesterday's decline in wheat futures amounted to ⅛ to ⅞ cent a bushel, with the big September delivery closing at 90¾ cents a bushel. The old gag about there being more sellers than buyers explains as well as anything the action of the market. Buyers of wheat being brought into the markets continued to protect their positions by making hedging sales in futures. Buying from speculators and others was not equal to the selling pressure and the market showed the normal reaction of giving some ground.

Gets More Attention.

Corn got more attention from professional traders yesterday than wheat did. Final quotations on corn were up ⅜ to ⅝ cent a bushel, although the best prices of the day were higher than the closing figures. The first government estimate on the corn crop does not come out until July 1. The havoc worked on other feed crops by the drouth and the chinch bugs is counted on to create a big demand this year for corn. Reports on the crop are mixed. Weather conditions are generally favorable to the crop, but the reports of chinch bug damage are numerous. July is the crucial month for corn.

Cash corn is reported to be commanding good premiums at interior points. The Morrell Packing company was reported yesterday to have made purchases in Ottumwa, Ia., at 50 cents a bushel for corn sealed as security for government loans. The price represents a premium of around 12 cents over the price of July corn in Chicago. Recently the company was paying 55 cents a bushel in the same locality.

Price of Oats Gains.

Prices of rye and barley slipped slightly yesterday, but oats, on which crop reports are uniformly unfavorable, were up from ⅛ to ¼ of a cent a bushel.

Receipts of wheat at 11 markets yesterday were reported at 1,898 cars, or around 3 million bushels.

The blowup in the scheduled international wheat conference in London because of the stubborn refusal of Argentina to give up her advantage in the world market is regarded in the grain trade as an inevitable development. The general opinion is that the world wheat problem has already been taken out of the lap of the various governments and is being solved in a natural way.

CALL SHOWDOWN MEETING TODAY ON MIDDLE WEST

Stockholders and creditors of the Middle West Utilities company will attend an important "showdown" meeting to settle questions concerning the receivership of the organization, at noon today in the chambers of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, it was announced yesterday. The conference will be presided over jointly by Judge Wilkerson and Judge Walter C. Lindley, who is in charge of equity proceedings of the holding company, in receivership since April 15, 1932.

The conference will have as its objective the reaching of an amicable agreement on one of three questions: reorganization under the present receivership; reorganization under the new bankruptcy law; or continuation of the present receivership.

Among those expected to attend are Charles A. McCulloch, receiver for the Middle West; Donald F. McPherson, representing the preferred stockholders; Orville J. Taylor, representing the common stockholders; Attorney Robert M. Golding, for the note holders; and Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, representing creditors who have filed bankruptcy proceedings against the company.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—The farm administration has purchased 374,378 cattle in emergency drouth areas of Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Dakotas. The program, started less than three weeks ago in an effort to aid farmers in the drouth belt, will be broadened later to all other emergency areas.

Cattle bought through yesterday included: Minnesota, 58,190 head; North Dakota, 239,370; South Dakota, 72,991; Wisconsin, 3,827.

Purchases made represented slightly more than 42 per cent of all the cattle on farms from which they were purchased.

Russian Wheat Ripens Earlier than Expected

ROSTOV-ON-DON, U. S. S. R., June 26.—(AP)—Because of dry weather, grain has ripened so much earlier than was expected that the local communist organizations today ordered its immediate harvesting regardless of original plans, calling for speed to prevent serious loss.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 26.—In an official decree today the French government dealt the worst blow ever leveled against the American film industry in the long history of restrictive legislation in France. The number of cinemas in Paris where American films may be shown in the original version is cut to five, against 26 at present, while only 10 houses in all the rest of France may show original American films.

In the next six months, during which the decree is effective, only 94 American films, in which French has been substituted for English, may be shown. How severe a blow this is to the United States producers is indicated by the fact that French exhibitors have insisted they couldn't get along on less than 325 American films in this period.

The decree, which was long feared by American producers and bitterly fought by French exhibitors who have been filling their houses with Hollywood films, was pushed through by the French producers despite vigorous protests. It provides for a tarif of 67 per cent which is ample to cripple the export of American films to France.

Not only do American companies feel that the decree will force them to cut down their Paris offices but many exhibitors regard it as a mortal blow to their business, declaring it sacrifices their branch of the French movie business in favor of producers who are unable to compete with American talent and producing skill.

GERMAN DEFAULT BILL PASSED BY BRITISH COMMONS

LONDON, June 26.—The emergency bill to deal with Germany's default passed through its remaining stages in commons tonight, a few hours after the German delegates had arrived from Berlin to negotiate a settlement. Discussions will begin tomorrow with Sir Frederick Leith Ross and a group of treasury officials in charge of the British case.

At the last minute the government made one important concession to its critics by agreeing to limit operation of the bill to two years. This means that only until 1936 will the government have power to impound the trade balances of a defaulting nation and restrict imports from any country which discriminates against British empire goods.

Charge British Misunderstand.

BERLIN, June 26.—(AP)—Belief that the position of the German government was misunderstood was expressed in the German reply accepting Great Britain's invitation for a conference on the recently declared moratorium on Young and Dawes loans.

"The German government regrets it is unable to follow the argument contained in the British note, which appears to be based on misunderstood or incomplete judgment of the course taken by the Berlin transfer conference," said the note which was made public here today.

Old Gem Firm Leases Drake Hotel Space

BY AL CHASE.

Spaulding-Gorham, Inc., one of Chicago's oldest jewelry firms, at Michigan avenue and Van Buren street, yesterday leased for ten years a large part of the north end of the first floor of the Drake hotel and will move to that location Oct. 1. In addition to 140 feet of frontage on Michigan avenue and 45 feet on the north, it will occupy what is now known as the Lord Nelson dining room on the second floor, directly above the Michigan avenue level. Basement space the same size as the Michigan avenue frontage also was rented. Altogether, 13,500 square feet of space was leased.

Plan Extensive Remodeling.

According to Gordon Lang, president of Spaulding-Gorham, Inc., approximateley $60,000 will be spent in remodeling the Drake hotel space into the finest jewelry store in the middle west. It will be in modern empire design from plans by Architect Philip Maher. All of the store equipment will be entirely new, Mr. Lang said. Indirect lighting will be used throughout and the store will be air conditioned.

A private elevator and stairway will connect the main floor with second floor and basement space. The present Lord Nelson dining room will be used for general offices and sales space. The basement will be used for stock, packing, shipping, etc.

The lease is on a minimum guarantee and percentage basis. It was negotiated by the Bowes Realty company. Benjamin Marshall, president, and Edwin L. Brashears, secretary and operator of the Drake Hotel company.

Present Shops to Move.

Part of the Michigan avenue space is occupied by the Italian dining room of the hotel and shops. These will move to other locations in the hotel. All of the Michigan avenue frontage on the ground floor, with the exception of that occupied by Martha Weathered, women's apparel, will be occupied by the jewelry firm. Miss Weathered will remain in her present location.

The lessees originally were known as Spaulding & Co., and for many years maintained a store at the southeast corner of State and Jackson. Twenty years ago they moved to the northwest corner of Michigan and Van Buren, in the McCormick building.

In 1929 Gorham, Inc., of New York, merged with Black, Starr & Frost of that city, and with Spaulding & Co. of this city. The local firm became Spaulding-Gorham, Inc. The New York concern is known as Black, Starr & Frost-Gorham, Inc.

GERMAN MARK GAINS; CLOSES AT 38.90 CENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—The German mark today featured the dealings in the foreign exchange market by climbing to a new high figure of 38.90 cents, the best figure it has commanded since the current rise began. The German foreign transfer moratorium is less than a week off and the advance in the mark is attributed to covering operations by exchange traders who have been short on the market.

The dollar was fairly steady against the franc, with the latter closing at 6.59⅞ cents against 6.59⅜ cents yesterday. The British pound gained ¾ of a cent to close at $5.03¾. In Paris the pound touched a new low figure of 76.24 francs, although transactions were light.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—The Radio Keith Orpheum corporation, which has been in equity receivership since Jan. 27, 1933, and which was the first large corporation to file application to take advantage of the new bankruptcy law, is now in a position to proceed with reorganization. Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe today appointed the Irving Trust company permanent trustee of the R-K-O corporation under the provisions of the newly enacted section 77B of the bankruptcy act. The Irving Trust company had been acting as equity receiver.

CONTINUED ADVANCE IN PRICES OF PORK PREDICTED BY PACKERS

Pork prices are going up and packers predict that a continued advance in retail prices is probable. The average price of hogs reached a new high figure of 4.8 cents a pound in the Chicago livestock market yesterday. This compares with the price of 3.2 cents a pound prevailing on June 4, and the record low of 2.8 cents established in December, 1932.

The increased prices which packers are paying for pork is being reflected in retail prices. The retail price of pork loins has advanced 3 cents a pound to 16 cents a pound in the last week.

Several factors promise a further advance, packers declare. A light run of hogs is expected in the coming weeks, partly because of the government program which resulted in the slaughter of 6,200,000 pigs last fall and the present relatively high price of corn. The corn price has caused many growers to sell hogs earlier than usual.

The retail pork prices include the $2.25 processing tax which is not reflected in the market price for hogs. The processing tax is distributed approximately as follows in retail prices for various cuts: Smoked ham, 5.1 cents a pound; pork loins, 4¾ cents; spare ribs, 1½ cents; bacon, 3 cents, and lard, 2½ cents.

BEER INDUSTRY PRICE CUTTING CALLED PROBLEM

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—Price cutting in the beer industry was described as an "acute problem" today at a federal alcohol control administration hearing. Speaking for the brewers' code authority, Dr. Herbert Dorau of New York university, also told the FACA board at a hearing to discuss destructive price cutting that its code was "too general."

The brewers dominated the discussions, as it is in this branch of the liquor industry that the most complaints have been received. A proposed interpretation of destructive price cutting was laid before the industry's representatives — including those, also, of the distilled spirits and other branches—as the basis of later discussion from which it is hoped to work out some remedies.

Dr. Dorau pointed out the brewers are faced with unusual competition among the 600 plants in operation because of the country-wide area of distribution, legalization in the midst of the depression and their "social responsibility."

U. S. PURCHASES 57 MILLIONS OF UNMELTED GOLD

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—The treasury said today it had spent $57,485,744 for unmelted scrap gold and $49,771,000 for newly mined gold from Jan. 31 to June 22, inclusive. The gold, purchased by the mints and assay offices, is used as backing for the currency, under the gold reserve act of 1934.

Persons licensed to acquire and hold gold are given such permission in order to create a legitimate supply of gold for industry and the arts. The secret service is coöperating with the bureau of the mint in investigating alleged violations of the regulations applying to those licensed.

Treasury officials said a number of licenses had been revoked recently because of representations made by the holders giving the impression that they were acting on behalf of the government.

NATIONAL TEA SALES INCREASE 1.1 PCT. OVER 1933

National Tea company sales for the four weeks ended June 16, showed an increase of 1.1 per cent of the corresponding period of 1933. The total was $4,796,725, compared with $4,743,075.

Total sales for the 24 weeks ended June 16, were $27,891,820, a drop of 4.6 per cent from the $29,250,837 reported for the 1933 period. As of June 16, there were 1,244 stores in operation, while a year ago the total was 1,324, a drop of 6 per cent.

ATCHISON VOTES $2 ON COMMON; FIRST IN 2 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—A dividend of $2 a share on common stock was declared by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railway today, the first payment since June, 1932. The dividend is for the year commencing July 1, 1933, and ending June 30, 1934, payable from accumulated surplus on Sept. 1, 1934. About half of the payment will be earned in the year ending June 30, President S. T. Bledsoe estimated. Dates for consideration of future payments will depend upon the trend of earnings, he added.

"We took this action," Bledsoe stated, "because common stock holders had not received any dividends for a long while. We had a large accumulated surplus and sufficient cash to pay the dividend without impairing the soundness of our financial position. The business outlook is somewhat better and we are hopeful that earnings for the rest of the year will be better than last year."

U. S. Smelting Pays More.

The United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company declared a dividend of $2 a share on the common stock, payable July 14. This compares with $1.25 regular and $1 extra paid thre months ago. Six months ago the company paid 25 cents regular and $3.50 extra.

Accompanying the announcement of the dividend was a statement saying the payment was ordered "in view of current earnings and is not to be considered as establishing a regular dividend rate."

Consolidated net income for five months ended May 21 is estimated officially at $2,500,499 after taxes, interest, depreciation, and other charges, equal to $3.43 a share on 528,765 shares of $50 par common stock outstanding. That compares with $927,577, or 46 cents a common share, earned for the corresponding five months of 1933. Gold averaged the company $34.78 an ounce, against $21.53 in the 1933 period, and the open market price for silver in New York was 44.94 cents an ounce, against 28.84 cents last year.

Declares Extra Dividend.

Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance company declared an extra dividend of $1 and the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share, payable July 2. Canadian Industries, Ltd., voted additional payments of 75 cents each on class A and B common stock.

Victor Brewing company voted an initial dividend of 5 cents a share on common. Fiberloid corporation authorized a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, compared with $1 a share paid previously.

American Cast Iron Pipe company declared $3 a share on the 6 per cent preferred, payable July 2, on account of accumulations, which will amount to $6 a share after this payment. Hooker Electro-Chemical company de- accumulations to $9 a shaddluuupu clared $1.50 on its 6 per cent preferred, reducing accumulations to $9 a share. May Hosiery Mills, Inc., ordered $3.25 a share on the $4 preferred, Pyle National company approved $9 a share on the 8 per cent preferred, Fred Sterns & Co. declared $1.75 on the 7 per cent preferred and Thompson Products, Inc., declared $7 a share on the 7 per cent preferred, all to apply on account of accumulations.

STATE RIGHTS INVOLVED IN ELEVATOR PLEA

A test of state and federal rights loomed yesterday with the filing of a request by the Farmers National Warehouse corporation, subsidiary of the Farmers National Grain corporation, to have the Rock Island Terminal elevator in South Chicago, designated an approved elevator under the federal grain warehousing act.

This is the first time an elevator operating company has sought to take advantage of the federal act and thereby call into being elective features which provide that when an elevator operator elects to come under the federal warehousing act the state law is superceded.

The Chicago Board of Trade has petitioned the Illinois commerce commission for permission to change its regulations to permit Farmers National, whose officers are members of the board, to operate as a federal warehouse.

Farmers National Cited for Violating Pit Rules

The Farmers National Grain corporation has been cited to appear before directors of the Chicago Board of Trade July 24, to answer charges of making payment to non-member regional cöoperatives on an allowance basis of grain handled by Farmers National for their account.

German Loss of Gold Points to Inflation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Yesterday's weekly statement of the German reichsbank indicated that Germany will enter her moratorium period on July 1 almost entirely out of gold backing for her currency.

Gold holdings of the reichsbank on Saturday amounted to only 72,400,000 reichsmarks, or less than 28 million dollars at current rates of exchange, according to the figures released yesterday.

This means that Germany's gold reserves are now equal to only 2.3 per cent of her outstanding paper money. A week previous the nation's gold reserves were 94,300,000 marks, an amount equal to 2.9 per cent of her outstanding paper money.

Foreign currency reserves of the reichsbank, the report showed, had dropped from 6,200,000 marks to 4,000,000 marks for the week ended Saturday. Note circulation declined from 3 billion 485 million reichsmarks to 3 billion 397 million reichsmarks. The rate of discount remained unchanged at 4 per cent.

These figures indicate that Germany now is right back where she was in the years immediately following the war. She ran out of gold after the war and ran the printing presses until paper money became worthless. Then she repudiated her paper money, borrowed gold from abroad through the instrumentality of the Dawes and Young loans, set up a new currency and proceeded for several years on a new gold standard.

Now the borrowed gold has almost run out and Germany is back on a paper money basis again. So far the printing presses haven't been turned loose, and for that reason the German people have noticed nothing wrong with their monetary system.

* *

Two factors, however, are heading Germany again in the direction of paper money inflation and currency chaos. First, the drying up of German exports, which can drain away the remaining gold despite Germany's refusal to pay on her foreign debts. Second, an unbalanced budget which, unless soon corrected, will mean a resort to the printing presses to get the money to pay the difference between government expenditures and government revenues.

In one respect the present German financial impasse is not as bad as twelve years ago. Her internal debt has been eliminated. During the inflation period domestic holders of government bonds were wiped out, leaving only the external debts to be cleared up.

After the stabilization of her currency eleven years ago Germany not only borrowed money from abroad to pay out to holders of its obligations abroad but permitted her people to borrow additional hundreds of millions of dollars from investors in foreign nations for public works, corporate financing, and other purposes.

* *

As long as new funds could be borrowed each time interest or principal came due the Germans postponed their financial troubles. When foreign sources of credit were finally shut off there was nothing left to draw on but a small store of gold remaining from the proceeds of the Dawes and Young loans.

Now that is gone and holders of German bonds in this country and elsewhere are about to take the same punishment suffered by Germany's own investing class a dozen years ago.

Germany refuses to honor her debts. Her gold is practically all gone. And the chief problem remaining to be solved is whether Germany can proceed on a goldless paper currency basis without succumbing to another orgy of inflation.

J. L. MARKS TRIAL IS WITHDRAWN ON STATE ORDER

The trial of J. L. Marks, head of the bankrupt J. L. Marks & Co. instalment stock firm, was brought to a sudden close yesterday when it was nolle prossed by the state. Marks was charged with breaking into the desk of an employé and taking lists o. prospects and customers.

Myron F. Lewis, assistant state's attorney, said that the state decided to drop the case temporarily because certain evidence in the books of J. L. Marks & Co. was not yet available. As soon as it becomes available, he said, a warant for the arrest of Marks will again be sought.

JONES PREDICTS DEPOSITORS TO GET ABOUT 65%

Warns Many 'Assets' Losses—Not Frozen.

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said tonight he expected depositors in banks closed during the last three years to get back an average of 65 per cent of their money. Jones recalled the average payoff from closed banks for 25 years previous was 58 per cent.

Of $6,600,000,000 in banks closed during 1931, 1932, and 1933, he said 50 per cent already had been refunded depositors.

The RFC head warned, however, that provisions in the act extending temporary deposit insurance did not mean the corporation would advance money to pay off all deposits.

Warns of Losses.

Many remaining assets, he said, were not "frozen" but losses, "and regardless of recovery," will still be losses.

"Where we find it possible to increase the loans, with reasonable safety, we will do so," he said.

The RFC "ordinarily" will not buy assets outright, as authorized by the new law, he said, adding: "We must not pay more than the sound value of the assets and we would not want to pay less. Therefore it will be much better, generally speaking, to continue lending, and to lend the greatest amount that the collateral will justify."

Jones said the federal reserve and the RFC would coöperate with local banks in making direct loans to industry, as authorized by an act passed at the last congress. The federal reserve is authorized to devote its surplus of $139,000,000 to such loans, in addition to $140,000,000 to be furnished at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury.

Expect Loans Up to Billion.

He said he expected the RFC authorization to amount to "anywhere from $600,000,000 to $1,000,000,000" by coöperation of local banks and the practice of revolving funds.

Pointing out the act authorized federal reserve banks to discount five year industrial loans, he asked coöperation of local banks.

In providing loans, he said, "we want to do it in such a way as to pass this credit function back to regular banking channels at the earliest possible moment.

"I want to make perfectly clear, however, that until credit is actually being extended to deserving borrowers the resources of the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be available to all those to whom we are authorized to lend."

Approve Loan Rules.

In a report to the federal reserve board today, governors and chairmen of the twelve regional banks approved regulations for industrial loans under the new powers given the board by congress. These regulations will be issued tomorrow, according to Gov. Black. The report was made after a two day conference.

"The reserve banks reported that they are now ready to receive applications for working capital loans from industrial concerns," he said.

"Particular attention was devoted at the conference to loans to supply working capital for industry." It was expected, Mr. Black added, that the needs of small enterprises would be a primary consideration in making these loans.

Delay Stock Margin Order.

"Reports were made of progress in the study of stock exchange operation and of regulations to be adopted relating to marginal requirements for purchasing or carrying securities," he said.

"Since the power of the board relative to margin does not become effective until Oct. 1, regulations covering this matter will not be published for several weeks."

It was indicated that no announcement of marginal requirements would be made by the board until shortly before Oct. 1, since the level would be governed by conditions existing at the time.

STOCKS RALLY SHARPLY; RAILS LEAD ADVANCES

Encouragement Is Found in Dividend News.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Reflecting an apparent oversold condition and with the aid of good dividend news, the stock market rallied smartly this afternoon.

Staging a surprising demonstration of strength, after a dullish tone in earlier dealings, leading shares closed with gains on the day ranging from fractions to more than two points. There was no appreciable increase in volume, the turnover amounting to 620,000 shares.

Coupled with favorable technical factors, the rise was set off by news of the payment of a $2 dividend on the common stock of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, on which nothing had been paid for two years. On top of this the U. S. Smelting and Refining company announced an increase in its dividend to $2 from $1.25 paid three months ago.

Santa Fe News Helps.

Braced by the Santa Fe news, railroads assumed a position of leadership for the market. Santa Fe took the baton in smart fashion, and demand for the stock, which in recent sessions has been neglected, ran it up in short order for a gain of almost three points on the day.

New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern railway, Union Pacific, and other carrier shares fell in behind Santa Fe to close with net appreciations running to more than a point.

Against the dividend news as a market influence was the drop of more than 11 points in steel operations. But it was indicated that the news had been well discounted, for most of the steel stocks gave a good account of themselves from the start. United States Steel made the best showing in weeks. Opening unchanged, the stock quickly advanced for a net gain of more than a point, at no time selling below yesterday's close.

Silver Shares Strong.

The dividend boost helped United States Smelting to a gain of more than 3 points on the day, and the news stimulated speculative activity in other silver shares, Cerro de Pasco being an especially strong stock.

The advance embraced virtually all groups, but one that stood out was the tobaccos, which have been on a rising plane of late. Leadership was taken by American Tobacco B, which advanced more than a point. A new high was recorded for Philip Morris, while Reynolds Tobacco B came close to its year's high.

Sugars moved up with the hardening market for raw sugar. Small fractional advances were the rule in the utilities, oils, and motors. Chemicals rose 1 and 2 points, with du Pont in the lead. Foods found the atmosphere more congenial, and most of the industrial leaders rose.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—United States government bonds were active and strong and domestic corporation issues and foreign loans irregularly higher on the stock exchange today. Most treasury issues rallied 2-32ds to 8-32ds point to levels close to the best prices for the year to date.

Total transactions in the listed bond market amounted to $10,785,000 today, against $7,800,000 the previous day, with the treasury issues today being dealt in to the extent of $2,700,000.

Prime Rails Advance.

Principal gainers in the domestic corporation list were high grade railroad issues, of which several entered new high ground for the year. Industrial bonds were slightly higher on the average, while public utility issues were somewhat easier.

Advances were attained by obligations of the Pennsylvania railroad, Bethlehem Steel, Chesapeake corporation, C. & O. railroad, Cleveland Union Terminal, Goodyear Tire and Rubber, and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit. Most of the various issues of the Santa Fé system were fractionally higher following announcement of a $2 dividend on the common stock. New York Central 5s and New Haven debentures gained around a point. Chicago and North Western general 5s slipped about 3 points.

Colombian Bonds Strong.

Continued strength in Colombian bonds featured the foreign loan group. While trade figures of the republic, according to the bondholders' committee, indicate debt service could be resumed, there is still nothing official to indicate that it will be in the near future. Other Latin American issues showed minor irregularities for the most part. Most of the European issues, including the German, were irregularly higher on the day.

Chicago Stock Clearing House Re-elects Officers

The Chicago Stock Clearing corporation reëlected President Morton D. Cahn and all other officers and directors at its annual meeting yesterday. Michael J. O'Brien is vice president, Martin E. Nelson is secretary and treasurer, and Robert T. Sundelius is assistant treasurer. Directors are Paul H. Davis, Robert J. Fischer, Warren A. Lamson, Arthur F. Lindley, Leeds Mitchell, R. Arthur Wood, Mr. O'Brien, and Mr. Cahn.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

Reflecting the marked improvement in the credit standing of the city, Chicago general obligation bonds maturing from 1940 to 1950 were being offered yesterday by an account headed by Brown, Harriman & Co., at prices to yield 4 per cent as compared with the rate of 4.15 per cent at which they have been selling recently.

This was the first time in more than five years that Chicago bonds have been selling on a 4 per cent basis. Not since late in 1928 and early in 1929 have Chicago bonds been sold on this yield basis. It was reported in La Salle street yesterday that the available supply of Chicago bonds is limited, there being only around $400,000 in the Brown, Harriman account.

City of Chicago tax anticipation warrants, levy of 1932, corporate series numbered 102. All to 105A44 were called for payment yesterday by R. B. Upham, city controler. Interest will cease on July 5.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. headed a syndicate which purchased $8,000,000 of Buffalo, N. Y., 3.60 per cent bonds maturing from 1935 to 1954. Of the total $2,000,000 are in relief bonds maturing July 1, 1944. The $6,000,000 are refunding bonds maturing from 1935 to 1954. The bonds are being offered at prices to yield from .75 per cent to 3.50 per cent. All the bonds maturing from 1935 to 1940 have been sold. Included in the syndicate are: Bancamerica-Blair corporation; A. G. Becker & Co., R. W. Pressprich & Co., and Hornblower & Weeks.

An issue of $650,000 Schenectady, N. Y. 2.30 per cent refunding and improvement bonds was purchased yesterday by Adams, McEntee & Co., Inc., and Salomon Brothers & Hutzler at 100.075. The bonds maturing in from 1 to 10 years are offered at prices to yield from .75 per cent to 2.50 per cent.

Blyth & Co. headed a syndicate which purchased $5,000,000 of San Francisco bonds. Of the total $3,000,000 are school bonds maturing from 1935 to 1944 and $2,000,000 are high pressure water system bonds maturing from 1934 to 1953. The shorter term bonds bear 5 per cent interest and the longer term 3 per cent. The bonds were reoffered at prices to yield from .50 per cent to 3.55 per cent. Late yesterday only $500,000 of the bonds remained unsold. Associated with Blyth & Co., in the purchase were Bancamerica-Blair corporation, R. W. Pressprich & Co., and the American Trust company.

An issue of $1,650,000 East Orange, N. J., series funding 4¼ per cent bonds was purchased by a group headed by Blyth & Co. The bonds, due Sept. 1, 1939 to 1944, were offered at prices to yield from 3.75 per cent to 4.25 per cent. About a half the issue was reported to have been sold late yesterday.

An issue of $152,000 Eau Clair, Wis., water works improvement bonds, due 1935 to 1948, is scheduled to be sold today.

UNEMPLOYMENT SLOWLY EASING, LABOR HEAD SAYS

Over 10 Million Out of Work in May.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—Although 10,267,000 were unemployed in May, unemployment is gradually diminishing, according to a statement today by President Green of the American Federation of Labor. The gains in May and in part of June, said Green, were not so rapid as in early spring. The federation's unemployment estimate for the nation as a whole shows that nearly 300,000 went back to work in May, and trade union reports for the first part of June show that employment is still gaining.

Green's figures are in sharp variance with an estimate of the National Industrial Conference board today, placing the number of unemployed at 7,899,000 at the end of May, a decline of 50,000 from April and of 5,304,000 or 40.2 per cent from the high point of March, 1933.

Green declared the problem of unemployment was not receiving the attention it merited from industrialists but that the government was caring for the millions of idle through emergency unemployment relief.

Regain Winter Losses.

"Gradually the workers are regaining the winter employment losses," he said. "Unemployment in industry is not yet back to the September, 1933, level, for 10,267,000 were out of work in May, compared to 10,108,000 last September. Employment in building is beginning to increase, although gains are small. Nearly 150,000 went back to work in April and May, but more than 1,400,000 are still without work. Small gains in May were quite general throughout industry; in factories nearly 10,000 went back to work, farms, 42,000, mines nearly 40,000, wholesale and retail trade 28,000 roads nearly 30,000, railroads, 45,000.

"For the 10,267,000 still without work in industry the government is increasing its emergency work program. More than 115,000 were added to PWA pay rolls in May and the number on the work program of the relief administration has risen from 550,000 at the beginning of April to more than 800,000 at the end of May and 970,000 in mid-June. Conservation camps have enrolled 16,000 more.

Federal Pay Roll 80 Millions.

"In these three services more than 1,660,000 were employed in May, reducing those entirely without work to 8,600,000. The government emergency pay roll in these services is over 80 million dollars a month.

"Need is greater among the millions unemployed than it was at this time last year. In April, 1933, 4,475,000 families were on relief rolls; in April of this year the figure was approximately 3,850,000, with about 750,000 on the ERA work program, or a total of 4,600,000. Federal payments for relief were 73 million dollars last April, compared to 150 million dollars for relief and ERA work this year. The increased cost is due to greater need and to the improvement in relief payments."

SLOAN IS NAMED PRESIDENT OF KATY RAILROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Matthew S. Sloan was elected president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad today in addition to his position as chairman of the board, to which he was elected a few weeks ago.

Mr. Sloan thus becomes one of the few railroad men who have entered the industry from the top. He had retired from active business two years ago when he was president of the New York Edison company and affiliates.

Since his election to chairmanship of the Katy this spring, succeeding M. H. Cahill, he has spent most of his time traveling through the road's territory. His new headquarters, he asserted, will be Katy Car No. 400, the president's business car.

Evans Products.

Investors' Guide: Will you give me some information on Evans Products? What do they manufacture? How long has the company been in existence?—R. R. E.

Answer: Evans Products company was incorporated in 1923 to succeed a company originally organized in 1915. Its main business is the manufacture of patented devices for loading and shipping automobiles. In 1932 it introduced an improved attachment for permanent installation in freight cars. It is used in shipping automobiles, and when not in use can be folded out of the way.

The company, in order to diversify activities, built up a substantial business in wood flooring, containers for fruits and vegetables, and other wood products. It became one of the largest manufacturers of wood flooring. During the time of the bank moratorium in 1933, however, the company was pressed for funds and sold its government flooring contract to a competitor and agreed to stay out of its main type of flooring business until September, 1934.

The company operated at losses in 1930, 1931, and 1932. Pickup in the automobile business in the latter part of 1933 enabled it to finish the year with a profit. The improvement continued into 1934. On March 16, 1934, the company was shipping auto loaders at a rate of 100 units a day, against an average of 60 in February. Orders since the first of the year, according to a Detroit dispatch, totaled more than 8,000 units. On April 25 it was announced that two automobile manufacturers had placed orders for 5,000 export boxes.

Net income for the first four months of 1934 totaled $751,000, or $3.08 per share. Profit for April alone was $246,000. Net income for 1933 was $297,000, or $1.29 per share, against losses of $251,000 for 1932, $80,000 for 1931, and $219,000 for 1930.

On March 31, 1934, current assets, including $1,058,000 cash, totaled $2,639,000, and current liabilities, including $116,000 notes payable to banks, were $902,000. Funded debt, maturing Aug. 31, 1938, totals $544,000. Stock equity consists of 244,196 shares of $5 par shares. The stock pays 12½ cents a quarter.

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

HONOLULU, June 26.—The Hawaiian sugar industry voted today to take legal steps to test the validity of the Jones-Costigan sugar production control law. The action will be based on the contention that the citizens of the territory of Hawaii, as citizens of the United States, are discriminated against in favor of the citizens of other areas and Cuba, a foreign country. It will challenge the constitutionality of the act on the allegation that it deprives American citizens of Hawaii of business rights.

The Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association is empowered, through resolutions passed by directors of larger plantation companies, to represent them in instituting a test case to determine the constitutionality of the law.

The suit probably will be filed in the District of Columbia. Garfield, Cross, Daoust, Baldwin & Vrooman, a Cleveland law firm, and Judge Marion De Vries of Washington have been engaged to institute the suit, sugar officials said.

Hawaii was not granted a quota in the Jones-Costigan law. When quotas were allowed for mainland areas, the territory was classed with insular possessions and quotas were fixed by the secretary of agriculture.

PAY ROLLS, WAGES OF COTTON TRADE RISE SHARPLY

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—A 40 per cent increase in employment and a 78 per cent jump in pay rolls were cited tonight by the cotton textile industry as outstanding contributions to the administration's recovery campaign during the first year of operation under NRA.

The industry submitted its code of competition June 27, 1933, and embarked on the administration's drive to spread employment and boost purchasing power by cutting hours and raising wages. It was the first to abolish child labor and first to submit a code and thus set the example for nearly 500 industries.

However, in citing accomplishments, George A. Sloan, chairman of the cotton textile code authority, sounded a warning note by asserting that "confidence in the fall and winter gave way to apprehension in the spring." Sloan cited tremendous increases in the cost of raw materials and growing apprehension on the part of business management over the trend in recent legislation as factors disturbing the industry. In addition, he said, labor has become increasingly militant in demands for higher wages and shorter hours than the code at present provides.

He added recent months have brought about a danger of profitless operation and there has been a growing apprehension on the part of business management over the trend in recent legislation.

COUNTY SAVES $30,000 IN FOREST PRESERVE FIGHT

Concluding a ten years' legal battle which effected a saving of well over $30,000, the forest preserve district of Cook county yesterday took title to approximately five acres of land in Riverside from Charles R. Shilvers. The property, on the south side of Forest avenue, which is 35th street extended, and fronting on the west bank of the Des Plaines river, was bought for forest preserve uses a decade ago.

The price offered was not accepted and the owner's price was considered too high, so condemnation proceedings were started. The court arrived at a price of $55,000. An appeal was taken and in 1928 a new price was set by the court of $65,000. The case was carried to the Supreme court of Illinois and a price of $32,500 was established.

The property, which has been used by the owner for a boathouse, will round out the forest preserve holdings in Riverside and Brookfield adjacent to the Chicago Zoölogical gardens. It also will assist the forest preserve commission in carrying out the project for the long talked of forestway, or woodland boulevard, winding through the various preserves and linking them together.

One-Third of Loans Made on Stored Cotton Repaid

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—Officials of the farm administration estimated today that borrowers of Commodity corporation funds on stored cotton had repaid to date one-third of the total received. Exact reports were not available but repayments were placed at $45,000,000. Of this more than $25,000,000 has been repaid directly to the corporation and the remainder to banks and private lending agencies which advanced money on cotton.

American Locomotive and Steel-Spring Merge

New York, June 26.—The business of the Railway Steel-Spring company has been consolidated with that of the American Locomotive company. The Railway Steel-Spring company has been a wholly owned subsidiary of the American Locomotive company ever since 1926.

ERNEST BYFIELD FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Resigns as Receiver for Hotel Sherman.

Voluntary bankruptcy petitions were filed in federal court yesterday by Ernest L. Byfield, president, and Frank W. Bering, vice president of the Hotel Sherman company. Their resignations as receivers for the company were accepted at the same time in an order issued by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Gilbert H. Scribner, named co-receiver with Byfield and Bering on Feb. 20, 1933, was appointed sole receiver for the hotel corporation by Judge Wilkerson. Scribner's salary was fixed at $1,250 per month. Byfield and Bering are to continue as officers at the same salary.

No schedule of debts or assets was given in the skeleton petition entered yesterday by the law firm of Osborne, Klein & McGurren. This information is required by law within 10 days.

Cause of Action.

Mr. Byfield said that neither he nor Mr. Bering owes any personal debts, except those secured by collateral or counter claims. The action arises entirely from their having assumed obligations of the hotel company and having pledged personal assets in an attempt to avert a receivership, he explained. The receivership arrived, however, on May 9, 1932, when they were named receivers along with E. M. Winston, now dead.

"A series of suits to enforce their guarantees of various bond issues of the Hotel Sherman company, filed before the reorganization of the company's finances could be effected, were the cause of this action," said Mr. Byfield.

"My own and Mr. Bering's financial difficulties are results of our efforts to avert receivership of the Hotel Sherman company by assumption of obligations of the company and pledging of personal assets for its debts. Other liabilities result from guarantees of the Hotel Sherman company's bonds in 1925, at which time the assets of the company were conservatively appraised at two and one-half times its obligations. The company at that time had a record of continuous payment of dividends for 25 years."

Foote Brothers Files.

A petition for reorganization under terms of the amended bankruptcy act was filed by Foote Brothers Gear and Machine company. This concern, whose stock was formerly listed on the Chicago Stock exchange, manufactures gears, accessories, and machine equipment. Assets were fixed at $3,500,000, with bonds, funded debt, and other liabilities listed at $2,000,000, in the bill drawn by Attorneys Schwartz & Cooper. The company went into receivership Aug. 20, 1932, and a previous bankruptcy action is pending.

A hearing will be held July 25 on the appointment of a trustee for the West Ohio Gas company, which asked reorganization Monday in Toledo, O. The funded debt is placed at $1,300,000, with capital stock of $719,600. The Midland Utilities company owns the entire common stock issue of 78,600 shares.

Five creditors asked reorganization of the North Park Building corporation, owner of the North Park hotel, 1927 North Park avenue. Liabilities of $1,850,000, mostly in bonds, are listed in the bill filed by Attorney B. H. Baskin. The company is in receivership and foreclosure proceedings are pending in state courts.

BOARD OF TRADE TIGHTENS STOCK LISTING RULES

Listing requirements for securities on the Chicago Board of Trade were tightened by directors yesterday who ruled that corporations desiring to list their stocks hereafter must show operating results for at least six months and have not less than 50,000 shares of stock outstanding, of which not less than 30 per cent is in the hands of at least 200 stockholders.

Additional rules require the company must have total assets of at least $500,000 and a "good financial setup." The company also must have a favorable history, reputable personnel and sponsors. No applications will be received from fixed or semi-fixed investment trusts, Massachusetts type trusts, banks, insurance or real estate equity firms.

Directors approved an application of Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts, distilling firm, to list 460,818 preferred shares and 660,000 shares of common. No date was set to inaugurate trading.

Zenith Radio Corporation Re-elects All Directors

Zenith Radio corporation reëlected all directors at its annual meeting yesterday, when the year's report was presented by Paul Klugh, vice president and general manager. Renamed to the board: Eugene F. McDonald Jr., Karl Hassel, U. J. Herrmann, Hugh Robertson, Ralph M. H. Hubbart, Irving Garverick Jr., and Mr. Klugh. Officers will be selected at the directors' meeting on July 5. Net profits of $50,398 were reported for the year ending April 30, 1934, against a loss of $578,110 for the previous 12 month period. Working capital was increased from $540,767 to $952,603.

Trading Is Active Despite Hot Weather.

The hog average price yesterday advanced to $4.80, a new high for the year. Supplies were below expectations and good action characterized trading despite the hot weather, with the close active and highest of the day. All interests were eager for numbers at the new high average costs.

The market started out a little slow, but soon turned active and in midsession supplies were moving over all scales at strong to 15 cents higher quotations than those prevailing on the preceding session. Current prices show gains of $1.45 to $1.60 as compared with the lows of three weeks ago, the plainer classes and pigs indicating the most improvement since early in the month.

Sell in $4.40 to $5.10 Range.

The bulk of yesterday's receipts sold within a range of $4.40 to $5.10, the better grades of 200 to 325 pound averages bulking at $5.00 to $5.10. Most of the packing sows sold at $4.20 to $4.65, a few light butcher sows reaching a new high of $4.75. Pig weights, 130 pounds and under, sold largely at $3.50 to $4.00. Very little remained at the close.

Best grades of cattle again retained the recent advances, top sales being only 10 cents under the highest point since January, 1932, but the medium and plainer classes ruled weak to 25 cents lower.

Only a meager supply of strictly choice grades of steers were in yesterday's arrivals. Shipments of prime 1,237 to 1,376 pound averages topped the list at $10.25.

There was little change in the price list for cows and hefers. The decline in the poorer classes has been halted and the small number of strictly choice kinds in the receipts sold fully steady and in spots stronger. Calves, however, ruled steady to as much as 25 cents lower.

Poor Grades Sell Cheap.

Twenty carloads of inferior grades of southwestern cattle on the market yesterday finally sold from $3.60 to $5.00.

Slaughtering of cattle for the account of the government reached a new peak for volume yesterday. More than 60 per cent of all the cattle arriving were government owned and billed direct to the packers to be slaughtered for the account of the FSRC and canned for the needy. The late count showed that fully 8,000 of the 13,000 receipts here yesterday were half starved cattle from the drouth sections bought in the country by agents of the relief corporation.

Only a very small supply of sheep and lambs arrived for sale yesterday and they brought mostly steady to strong prices. Packers bought native new crop lambs at $9.25 and below, while city butcher buyers paid up to $9.50 for some of the best selections.

DECLINE IN WHEAT REACTS ON LARD; TRADE SMALL

There was no material pressure on lard futures early, but later the recession in grain brought in selling orders and the close was 2½ cents higher to 2½ cents lower, the latter on November. Bellies were unchanged to 7½ cents lower. Trade in the aggregate was not large. Cash lard was unchanged at $6.52½; loose, 5 cents higher at $6, and leaf steady at $6. Cash bellies were unchanged at $9.57½. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Cotton goods were in light demand for early deliveries today, but lower prices on bleached cottons and on sheets and pillow cases stimulated new orders for July-August shipment. Wool goods agents were not disturbed by threats of a general strike to begin next Monday under orders of the United Textile Workers. Silk manufacturers were considering plans for further curtailment. Burlaps were quiet and unchanged.

Every DeLEE GRADUATE Is EMPLOYED

Every day shop owners are offering good paying positions to DeLEE graduates. We have almost twice as many calls for operators as we have graduates.

Think what that means to YOU. It means that if you receive your beauty culture and hairdressing training at DeLEE you will qualify for one of these good paying pleasant positions. It won't take long, either, because the DeLEE individual, personalized method of instruction makes learning easy.

Come in today and see this beautiful school for yourself. Find out how Madame Louise trains girls to be genuine beauty experts.

BURNHAM

OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES FOUND ONLY AT BURNHAM'S.

When you visit Burnham's you'll understand why more girls enroll in this school than in any other and you'll be amazed at the unexpected and exclusive advantages which our 63 year record of turning out the best operators enables us to pass on to you—such as positions on ocean liners, positions with the best shops which DEMAND Burnham graduates, the opportunity of earning while learning, free tools, unlimited practice on living models, easy terms, and many other advantages.

Once explained you'll see how Burnham teaching methods will enable you to master Beauty Culture quicker, easier and better—why these methods develop the type of operator shop owners want.

Tuition increases this month. If you ACT NOW you can arrange to pay for most of your tuition after you graduate. Call, phone, or write for FREE BEAUTY BOOK.

HURRY! SAVE AS MUCH AS $200 ON BRAND NEW 1934 STUDEBAKERS

NEW MODELS JUST ARRIVED

THE CHANCE OF 1934 FOR BARGAIN HUNTERS.

We have 190 of these remarkable new Studebakers at bargain prices—Dictators, Commanders and Presidents—sedans, coupes, and broughams.

These new Studebakers have Skyway Style. They are better built, better looking, better performing cars than their finest predecessors. They handle easier and are more economical. Yet even before these bargain prices they were selling for $155 to $620 less than any previous Studebakers were ever priced. At their reduced prices they are emphatically the outstanding automobile value today.

These Studebakers of 1934 are marvelously roomy, magnificently upholstered and fitted. They have strikingly stream lined bodies of steel reinforced with steel—and that means 100% safety.

ONLY $239

is all that is necessary for the down payment. The liberal allowance on your old car may easily equal or exceed that. Balance can be paid over 18 months.
